SUMMARY.

It is reported that Adrianople surrendered to the Bulgarians on Tuesday last.

The Bulgarians are said to have concealed the fact, lest the Powers should intervene before the allies captured Constantinople.

The third Bulgarian army is reported to have captured a position outside the Chatalja lines of defences.

Public opinion in Constantinople is hostile to the Government proposal that the Powers should intervene.

Nazim Pasha has informed the Government that the army is determined to fight to the last, and is confident of ultimate success.

The principal officers have signed a memorial to the Grand Vizier in favour of the continuance of the war.

Rains have transformed the plains around Chatalja into a morass, and transport is difficult.

The Ambassadors of the Powers held a collective meeting with the Grand Vizier, and discussed measures for public safety.

The Bulgarians have occupied Visa, 30 miles south-east of Kirk-Kilisse.

The defeated Turkish troops arriving in Constantinople are in a desperate state, having been without food for three days.

There was great terror in Stamboul until the arrival of foreign warships.

Correspondents describe the terrible sufferings endured by many Turkish soldiers who were wounded in the recent battles.

A surgeon who arrived from Chorlu declares that he had never seen a battlefield so entirely covered with dead and wounded.

There was no possible succour, the scene being simply an appalling shambles.

The Bulgarians lost 15,000 killed and wounded during the five-days' fighting, and the Turks lost 40,000.

Distressing scenes have been witnessed outside the walls of Salonika, where crowds of refugees from all parts are seeking help.

The authorities are sending as many as possible to Asia Minor.

The Servians resent the warnings of the Austrian press, and are determined to have a port on the Adriatic.

The High Commissioner for New Zealand bade farewell to the Earl of Liverpool, Governor-designate of the Dominion.

Suffragists smashed the windows in the Custom-house at Dublin, and in the post-office in Belfast.

The 800 passengers on the steamer Royal George, which went aground in a fog in the St. Lawrence, have been rescued.

The vessel has only 6ft of water, and there is a danger of her toppling over.

The Governor-General's garden party, at Federal Government House, Melbourne, yesterday, was attended by 3000 guests. The weather was fine.

The executive committee of the Citizens' Protest League is gratified at the support accorded to the movement in the country.

A suggestion will probably be placed before the committee in favour of petitioning the King in regard to Government House.

At the annual commemoration of St. Andrew's College regret was expressed at the approaching departure of Lord Chelmsford.

The hope was entertained that his Excellency would come back some day as Governor-General.

Bills were passed through their main stages in the Assembly yesterday at the rate of about one every five minutes.

After a number had been put through the Opposition, with a final protest, gave up any attempt at reviewing them.

The second reading of the Main Roads Bill was moved by the Minister for Works.

He said that when the classification of the roads by the board was complete the Government vote would be available.

The debate was adjourned, and the House rose at 7.10 p.m. till Monday.

In the House of Representatives the Attorney-General obtained leave to introduce a bill dealing with the referendum.

The proposals submitted at the 1911 referendum are to be cut up into separate questions.

Electors will be able to vote upon each question upon its own merits.

An important addition has been introduced to the proposals under the heading of "labour and employment."

The Senate has rejected the redistribution scheme for New South Wales.

Further efforts to recover the bodies from the North Lyell mine have proved futile.

The mine has now been re-sealed for an indefinite period.

The meat famine at Broken Hill, as the result of the slaughtermen's strike, was most pronounced yesterday.

Rabbits sold readily in the streets at 9d and 1s each, and the auction sales of poultry were rushed, fowls bringing high prices.

The real estate market this week has been quiet, so far as investment properties are concerned.

A feature of the market is the healthy condition of the subdivision sales.

Silver and copper stocks were in demand yesterday, and values were firm all round. Gold and tin shares were quiet.

In the produce section an advance took place in the price of eggs, but bacon was cheaper.

Stocks of potatoes are depleted, and shipments are quite inadequate to cope with the demand.

As high as £18 per ton was obtained for prime samples from the Clarence River, and New Zealands were quoted at £15.

Forecast: Unsettled, with further rain and thunder over the eastern and north-eastern districts; fine in the western half of the State.

HUDSON'S EUMENTHOL TOOTH POWDER

SECURES SOUND WHITE TEETH.

This Powder is not only an Antiseptic and Germicide, but cleanses mechanically, owing to the evolution of free active oxygen when the powder is in contact with water or the oral fluids. It is the oxygen, which, by neutralising the acid-producing organisms of decay, and dissolving mischievous deposits, whitens the teeth so wonderfully, and wards off decay as no other preparation for the Teeth can or will do. Scientists agree that a powder is superior to any liquid or paste for cleansing and preserving the Teeth. The Committee of the British Dental Association recommend powder as best for the teeth.

HUDSON'S EUMENTHOL TOOTH POWDER is sold by all Chemists in our patent metal bottles, handy for travel or home. PRICE 1/6.

SQUASH.
This delicious and wholesome vegetable should be in every garden during the summer.
The Winter Varieties are dryer and sweeter than the best pumpkin. They are good keepers, and can be stowed away for winter use; hence the name.

AS RELIABLE AS STEAM, AND FREQUENTLY MORE CONVENIENT.

The advantages of the "STANDARD" Oil Engine are very apparent. Their merits are so pronounced and so universally acclaimed that there is little necessity for us to dilate on the many good points of these famous Engines. There are many hundreds of users of "Standard" Engines extolling their good qualities far and wide. Probably the first features which impress the person forcibly on looking at the "Standard" Engine for the first time is the great simplicity and the great strength of all the working parts. The merest novice can see these Engines are built by a firm who thoroughly understand their business, and who know how to build an engine capable of standing up to continual hard work—and then the Engine is so easy to operate, every nut and bolt is so easily accessible that it is no wonder the Engine is such a favourite with the public. The Engine is extremely economical on fuel, and just at present, when benzine and naphtha are high in price, the savings in the fuel bill by using such a highly economic Engine as the "Standard" will be very gratifying to the owners' pockets. THE STORY OF THE PLAY.
Red Fox was the name with which someone had dubbed him, and it had stuck to him. He was proud of it, and proud that he was as crafty as any of the foxes, that, like him, were creatures of the forest. How he loved the forest, the giant trees, the dark, still glades, and the holes in the thickets of which he alone knew, and in which he sometimes lay for hours with his gun beneath him, listening for the coming of some beast or bird upon which he had set that fierce, poacher's heart of his.

REDUCED SUMMER TARIFF!

Adhering to our usual practice at this period of the year, we have now commenced our REDUCED SUMMER TARIFF. But with this substantial difference: THE REDUCTIONS THROUGHOUT ARE MORE GENEROUS THAN EVER. Our reason for this concession is simple and straightforward. It is because of the vastly increased turnover that comes from an appreciative public, the increased trade compensating us for what we sacrifice by lower prices.

We have not space here sufficient to particularise the many different styles of portraiture to which these reduced prices apply, but will merely point out that WHERE OTHER HOUSES ARE ASKING 21/,

WE PROVIDE PRECISELY THE SAME FOR 15/.

As a notable example of the value of our ROCOCO PORTRAITURE, we would remind you THAT FOR A DOZEN POSTCARD PHOTOGRAPHS YOU PAY 5/ ELSEWHERE. We give you

TWELVE (12) CABINET ROCOCO PHOTOGRAPHS
(in which we include a Beautiful Framed Enlargement) for

8/6 COMPLETE. 8/6 COMPLETE. 8/6 COMPLETE.

We guarantee our best work to every customer, and made satisfaction assured, because we take a number of positions and deliver work on the day promised.

THE QUEST OF THE GOLDEN ROSE.

BY JOHN OXENHAM.

[ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.]

The Golden Rose is blowing still—
Is growing still, is glowing still—
In lowly vale, on lordly hill,
The Golden Rose is blowing still;
And all who seek may find it.
Still breaks and blows the Golden Rose,
Still breaks and blows, still gleams and glows—
'Mid icy blasts and wintry snows,
The Golden Rose still breaks and blows;
Seek well and you shall find it.

BOOK I.
THE YEAR ONE.

CHAPTER I.
THANKS TO BARRI.

The three Englishmen had come striding down the rough mountain path that led, through dense pine forests, from the higher pastures and the great outer world, back of beyond.

The woods up there were very thick and black as night inside, for none but the forester's axe might touch them, and that only to help their growth. They were "bannwald," communal property, jealously preserved as a barrier against the upper snows, and so they grew thick and strong.

The faces of the newcomers brightened to the sunlight and to the sight of the stone-weighted roofs of the village below them.

"Obergmarde," said one, in the tone of a pilot announcing port.

The second nodded.

"Food and drink, anyway," said the third, "if there's anything like a decent inn in the place."

As they turned into the one street of the village a glance showed them the inn, fifty yards lower down, with its neat row of shrubs in little green tubs in front forming a screen for those who liked to take their pleasures on the everyday level, and its wide creeper-covered wooden balconies running round the sides and back for those for whom the sight of snowy peaks, and valleys of glamour, and the gleam of ever-falling waters held still the charm of rare occurrence.

The Englishmen strode round the balcony to the back, as Englishmen always did. And two of them drew deep breaths of delight at the marvel of the view that greeted them there, as most Englishmen did. And the other one thumped lustily on the table nearest the seat into which he had dropped, which was another thing Englishmen were in the habit of doing, sooner or later, if the necessity for it had not already been anticipated by the appearance of Heidi, with her hands in the pockets of her very neat apron and a welcoming smile on her very comely face—a smile which graduated itself instinctively according to the appeal the wayfarers made upon Heidi's feelings.

It was not with her in the very least a question of how much they might spend. Whatever they spent, much or little, it was all to the good, and Heidi's father was a man of substance apart from the inn. No, with Heidi the question was simply whether she liked them, liked them much, or liked them not at all. If they found favour in her eyes, her smiling presence, as she hovered about them, gave an added flavour to their meal, even though it ran to nothing more than bread and cheese and a bottle of country wine. If, on the other hand, they were not to her taste, her ministrations were performed with solemn punctiliousness, and she was out of sight again at the first possible moment.

But there was no possibility of mistaking these three for anything but Englishmen. There was certainly nothing obnoxiously, nor even obtrusively, insular about them, and yet every man and woman they had passed on their way had, with a single glance, said to themselves, "Englander," or "des Anglais," according to that which came easiest to their tongues, and had then, with smiling nod or curtsey as the case might be, given them a welcoming "Gruss Gott!" or "Bo' jou'!" and in some of the less self-respecting villages the children had even extended tentative hands and murmured, "Plea', saire, ae penny," as they passed.

But the Swiss see so many strangers in that wonderful playground of theirs that they speedily catch the trick of the various nationalities. And none could possibly have mistaken these three for Germans, who have ways of their own; nor for Frenchmen, who have manners of their own; nor even for Americans, who have ways and manners and customs and tones of their own. It was Heidi herself who explained all this to me, so I know it must be true. Still, the characterisation is hers, and I take no personal responsibility for it.

And so, as Heidi found the free reserve which characterised most Englishmen to her liking, she put on her pleasantest smile as she came round to give them welcome.

Only one face greeted her, however, and that well, her smile reconsidered its proportions for a moment, but beamed its fullest again as the other two faces, which had been leaning out over the balcony, swung in again under the creepers and smiled responsive to her own.

"Good morning, sirs!" beamed Heidi, proud of her English and her acumen.

"Guten morgen, gnadige fraulein!" said the tall, brown-haired man, with the deep-set eyes, in which the satisfaction of his outlook still shone. "This most wonderful and never-to-be-forgotten sight ought not to be desecrated by vulgar eating. Nevertheless we have the hunger of famished wolves, since we have eaten nothing for the last three weeks in order the more properly to enjoy the admirable breakfast you are about to give us on this your most worthily-situated balcony—"

All this in a curdling torrent of excellently-rendered German. But Heidi was not to be misled.

"I spik English—"

"That you do—perfectly! Let your breakfast be but half as good as your English, my dear, and we are fallen well."

"Fallen well?" queried Heidi, with a laughing shake of the head. "I do not unterstan'. But the breakfass shall be goot."

"And quick!" said the man at the table. "We're absolutely starving. Bring us a bottle of wine to go on with. My throat is like a brick-kiln. Asti—you have Asti?"

"Asti Spumante, yes! three francs," nodded Heidi.

"That's it—Asti Spumante. A bottle quick!—no—two bottles—the biggest you have," and Heidi vanished in search of sparkling Asti.

"It's the prettiest place we've struck yet," said the tall brown man, with hearty depth of enjoyment in his voice. "I wouldn't mind stopping here for a month. What do you say, Keith?" to the one who had been leaning over the balcony with him.

"It's fine, but it's too big and wide for what I want. It's the whole of it together that makes it so wonderful, and one could only do justice to bits of it. I shall stick to the place I found last year. It's been calling to me ever since."

"You won't beat this in a hurry, my boy," said the man at the table, as he lit a cigarette and glanced out through the creepers at the valley below, all a shimmer with golden haze, and the white peaks opposite gleaming like frosted silver. "I'm bound to say it's a long way ahead of the Temple, though it's mighty sore on one's feet."

"This is the Temple," said the other, with a smile in the corners of his drooping moustache. "That rabbit warren of yours is most horribly misnamed."

"By any other name 'twould smell as sweet."

"Undoubtedly," with a slight dilation of delicate nostrils.

"Ah, here's the nicest thing I've seen this morning," as Heidi came jingling in with bottles and glasses and a clean cloth for the table. "Open one at once, my dear. Never mind the tablecloth. The sight of it makes me thirstier than ever. . . . Take a pull, Oramore! . . . You'll see things ever so much better. . . . Yes, it's a glorious place, this, and that's a wonderful wine for the money. I must stock some in London, and think of the merry Swiss-land every time I drink it."

"It won't taste half as good there," said the tall brown man with an indulgent smile.

"Oh, yes, it will. It would taste good anywhere, would Asti."

Heidi came fluttering in with knives and forks and spoons and bread, and presently with a deftly-turned golden omelette to go on with. And while they eat we may make their closer acquaintance.

The tall, brown man, with the clean-shaven face, is Maurice Helme, F.R.C.S., of Harley-street. When you look at his face, you look again, and yet again, and wonder where the attraction lies. Not in any special regularity of features. It is strong and it is attractive. Mouth firm, with just a hint of sadness in it, which vanishes when he smiles. Eyes?—ah, there you have it! Deep-set under strong brows, dark, at once penetrating and inviting. Look once into Helme's eyes and you trust him absolutely. And it is good that he himself should have good eyes, for that is his chosen department in the economy of the healing art. For those who see badly he has a great compassion. For those who see not he grieves sorely. For all he strives mightily and rights the wrongs of Nature or of Circumstance wherever it is possible. His hands, too, if you will observe them, are the fit implements and complements of the clever eyes and brain—strong and delicate, flexible and tender, naturally endowed and most carefully trained to the performance of operations wherein a fraction of a hair's-breadth means perpetual darkness or the heavenly light of day.

The other, who had leaned out with him over the balcony, is Keith Oramore, A.R.A.—the Painter of Snows. He stands as tall as Helme, close on six feet, but is of frailer build and more nervously organised, distinctly lacking the robust strength and health of his friend, but very good to look upon,—with his eager searching eyes and delicately-turned nose, rippled hair flung back from a wide white forehead, brown Vandyke beard and moustache, and long flexible fingers, as delicate as Helme's but not so strong. He wears mustard-coloured tweeds and a loose-ended brown tie, carries a small tin case of water-colours in one side pocket, and a sketch-book in the other, and can with the one transfer to the other the impression of a scene almost before you have begun to admire it.

The champion of Asti is Godfrey Pollak, barrister, of the Inner Temple, comparatively briefless as yet, but beginning to make headway out of the ruck, and living in hope—of practice and other things—on some £300 a year, which would have been £3000, but for some unfortunate speculations on the part of his father just before he died two years ago. He is shorter in inches than the others, but of a strong and sturdy build. Dark-haired, dark-eyed, rather square-faced, with dogged determination in every feature of it, and in his solid neck—a sufficiently good-looking fellow. But, all the same, Heidi liked the other two better.

The link between them was Marlborough, where they had all been boys together. They had drifted apart since those days, but still, whenever they happened to meet, the old tie held more or less.

Between Helme and Pollak there existed also a certain distant connection by marriage. Two years before this, Helme had married—and had lost within a few months of their marriage—Margaret Moir, sister of that Katherine Moir, who was, just at this time, stopping with Godfrey's mother at Inselen, in the Oberland, for Katherine and Margaret were nieces of Pollak senior, and his wards. Their not inconsiderable fortune had escaped the disasters which had befallen his own, for he was a strictly honourable man, though but an indifferent speculator. And Margaret's portion having, by Helme's desire—he having enough of his own—been settled on herself, with reversion to her sister in case of her death without issue, Katherine was a prize well worth the winning, quite apart from the fact that she was in herself all that was good and charming.

She continued to make her home with Mrs. Pollak after her guardian's death, and it was Godfrey's great hope in life, as it was his mother's, that a still closer relationship should unite them, and that Katherine's fortune should go to the making of Godfrey's.

With such a wife and such an income, and the dogged determination which was his best characteristic, and was already winning him some slight acknowledgment in the Courts outside the Temple, Godfrey saw no limit to his possibilities, and his whole heart and soul were set on making the very most of them.

Disturbing elements were not lacking, however, and one of them sat opposite to him at the moment, contemplatively smoking a cigarette, in the person—the very handsome and engaging person, he could not but acknowledge—of Keith Oramore. "The Snow Man"—as Oramore had come to be called by his intimates since the previous year's Academy, in which his painting of the Jungfrau from the Grutsch Alp, all aflame with the fires of the dying day had made so great a sensation—was not a rival to be despised, if rival he was. Godfrey could not be sure.

It was through Helme, with whom he had always been on terms of close friendship, that Oramore had become acquainted with Katherine. And Katherine had a mind of her own, and was mistress of herself and her fortune.

If a wish or a look could have precipitated Oramore into the valley three thousand feet below—without any unpleasant consequences to the wisher or looker—ninety-nine per cent. premium would hardly have procured him an increase on his life policy from any company capable of gauging Godfreys' feelings on the subject, supposing, that is, that they attached any importance to them—personal feeling not coming within the range of ordinary actuarial risks.

Outwardly, however, the three were on perfectly friendly terms.

When at last they sat back refreshed, waiting for Heidi to bring in their coffee, Pollak said approvingly, "Capital little place, this. I feel like you, Helme. Wouldn't mind stopping a month here. But duty calls—"

"Beauty," smiled Helme through his cloud of smoke.

"Same thing—fortunately. I promised my mother and Katherine I'd run across for a few days if I could get away."

"No great difficulty, I suppose," murmured Helme again, with another transient gleam.

"Well, you never know what may turn up even in the Long—consultations, and that kind of thing, don't you know. Last time I took a month I missed a lovely little tit-bit. Old Chick, for whom I'd been devilling, sent a commission out to the West Indies—you remember the case, Bell v Bell and others, and I could have had the appointment for the asking. Just my — luck. However—"

"Compensations, I suppose," murmured Helme again, and got up lazily and sauntered off along the verandah.

Pollak both amused and irritated him. His determined utilitarianism was distinctly out of keeping with the uplifting beauty of their surroundings, and jarred upon one at times. Chance had thrown him against them two days before at Bern, and when he suggested joining their somewhat casual and undefined tramp, they could not well refuse him.

FIRST OF NOVEMBER.

(By P.C.L.)

"If you're waking, call me early," was the injunction given in many a household in this (Oberon) district on Thursday night, for the following morning was to witness the removal of the six months' prohibition on trout-fishing, and every one who indulges in that healthful pastime is emulous to make the first catch of the season. Prospective anglers reconnoitring the strongly-running streams for weeks past, had noted with a complacent eye that the fish appeared usually plentiful this year, thus promising good hauls when the embargo should have been removed. Under these circumstances, it is small wonder that soon after daylight on the banks of the Duckmaloi, Fish River, and other district watercourses, may have been noticed a goodly number of Izaac Walton's disciples either whipping the streams in true orthodox fashion, or patiently trying to lure the quarry per medium of the more primitive natural bait of worm or grub. Nor need we wonder that during the preceding week local storekeepers' stocks of lines, hooks, and kindred appurtenances had become greatly depleted, as a result of the approach of November 1. A few tourists were amongst those early-risers, but they were merely the advance guard of the great number who are sure to be attracted from afar as the season progresses and fine catches are reported. More than one comfortable boarding-house in Oberon and in the vicinity of the Duckmaloi caters for this class of patron, and considering the reputation of the district as a trout-fishing centre, and its comparative proximity to the metropolis, it is not surprising that an ever-increasing stream of anglers direct their steps hitherward each year. Some depart with reason to be well satisfied with their luck, and the sport-providing capabilities of the streams, others (for fishing is proverbially a precarious occupation) hie away disappointedly to the more distant trout streams. But whatever the result of whipping the Oberon streams, it would be an egregious exaggeration to estimate that each trout caught actually cost the enthusiast £5 a piece, as has been said of some localities in this State. Dame Fortune dealt as capriciously as she is wont to do with the Waltonians on Friday last. One local man bagged nearly 30 fine fish, another 20, and varying degrees of luck attended the efforts of the general body, some being entirely disappointed of a fish dinner on November 1—a traditional institution in these parts.

A distinguishing characteristic of the average country fisherman is that he eschews artificial bait, reels, landing nets, and modern rods, as affected by the touring sportsmen. He is as a rule quite satisfied with a natural bait and the 15ft bamboo rod, and in justification of his choice will point to results as a criterion. Howbeit, his enjoyment of the sport is as thorough as that of the man with more up-to-date equipment, and the frequency of the occasions when trout enters into the family menu during summer testifies both to his skill in the piscatorial pastime, and some efficacy in his tackle.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

MILITARY BOOKS.

"Our Cavalry," by Major-General M. F. Rimington, is an interesting book by one who, as the founder of "Rimington's Horse," is able to speak with authority upon the subject. The author discusses this branch of the service very fully, and describes its functions in the past and present, with concrete illustrations from various campaigns and ventures upon anticipation of what its functions will be in the future. He starts with the general principle that a nation whose cavalry is of a high order of efficiency has always been glorious in war, from the days of the Parthians downwards. There has of late been a tendency to depreciate the value of cavalry in action. Sedan and Mars la Tour have taught lessons that can never be forgotten, and the headlong charge against infantry armed with weapons of precision is a thing that we shall never see again. However, Major-General Rimington is very emphatic in denying that cavalry's occupation has gone. Its sphere of usefulness is restricted, but within that sphere it is supreme. The same rules apply to-day as they did 2000 years ago; "direct shock" must be its chief tactical weapon, the thundering gallop, which throws a body of men knee to knee, projectile like, upon the enemy. Against opposing cavalry, for raids and guerilla warfare, for reconnaissance, cavalry will always be of paramount importance.

The author proceeds to discuss the most suitable arms, the training of men, and the care of horses, and the examples he adduces from military history often upset all our preconceived ideas. For instance, we all think of Murat as a magnificent cavalry leader. As far as the actual field of battle was concerned this is perfectly true, but he was without one very essential quality; he paid too little attention to the welfare of his horses. In Napoleon's Russian campaign, Murat crossed the Niemen with 43,000; two months later he could only put 18,000 in the field. He had worn them out by keeping them saddled up 16 hours a day, by giving them insufficient food, and by chasing wisps of elusive Cossacks. Appropos of this, Nansouty said to Murat: "The horses of the cuirassiers not, unfortunately, being able to sustain themselves on their patriotism, fell down by the roadside and died."

Naturally much is said of the oversea irregulars who fought in the South African War. The author considers that our men, with their initial advantage of good horsemanship, will not require much to make them even more formidable than they are. "A short training," he says, "will bring them almost level with the regular cavalry, and enable them to employ shock tactics. Then they should be armed, in addition to their rifle, with sword and lance, as the rifle and bayonet are not the best weapons for this purpose."

The book closes with an interesting comparison which we might do well to study. "In the late South African War one might sum up the situation in a few words: Our regular soldiers had need to be more like colonials, and our colonials more like regular soldiers. Some of our soldiers lost their way a mile from camp; our colonials never did this, but their views on military discipline were curiously lax. Our soldiers were the victims of routine, and it cost them their lives often enough; our colonials could hardly be trusted to lay sufficient stress upon an order to carry it out, but they were never at a loss for an expedient. Both looked after their interests at the expense of the enemy, or even their own side. Both were very brave; both fought and scouted cunningly, but it came first and naturally to the colonial, who gave his enemy credit for slimness, and had a more cultivated imagination and better appreciation of the value of ground. The rearguards both 'stuck it out,' if anything too long, rather than give the enemy an idea that they could be bustled." (Macmillan and Co.)

"On War of To-day" is the title of a most exhaustive study of military matters, by General Frederick von Bernhardi—in some quarters regarded as the greatest living expert on the subject. Where Major-General Rimington confined himself to one branch of the service, General Bernhardi includes all, whether on land or sea—and even in the air. Much of this volume, no doubt, possesses an interest largely technical, but there is also much that will appeal to the civilian as well—in particular that part which deals with the future of the aeroplane in warfare, and the introduction which gives an account of Germany's political problems, and the difficult international situation she finds herself called upon to face. (Rees; Angus and Robertson.)

It is rather curious that although in her day England has seen a good deal of fighting one way and another, no one has thought to give an account of the general principles of strategy which have guided hostilities upon English soil. Mr. Hilaire Belloc has seen the deficiency, and has filled it with "The Conditions of Warfare in England." Though it primarily concerns England alone, it also helps the layman to understand certain things connected with warfare which may often cause him bewilderment. Why, for instance, should a brook a few yards wide, which a pedestrian could easily wade through, prove an insurmountable barrier to an army? Why should a fort in the middle of a plain check the advance of an army with a frontage miles in extent? Why does an army habitually march in a day less than a third of the distance which a person of ordinary powers can cover? Mr. Belloc explains these and kindred questions, and makes them the basis of his observations.

Modern fortifications and modern artillery occupy no place in this book. There has been no fighting in England since 1745, and no serious fighting since the Civil War, and consequently recent principles of strategy necessitated by later developments in either have never received illustration in this fortunate island. Castles, walled towns, roads, and waterways were the all-important conditions of warfare. British military history, and hence its political history, has been largely shaped by two apparently insignificant things. The Pennines, separating Lancashire from Yorkshire, made Manchester on the one hand and Pontefract and York on the other cardinal points. The Thames, extending almost across England, divides it sharply into north and south; its valley has been a main theatre of warfare, and incidentally it has made London a place of immense strategic advantages. In tracing the course of the Roman Conquest, the Norman Conquest, the Wars of the Roses, and the Civil Wars of the 17th century, Mr. Belloc returns again and again to this one point—the governing position of London. The chief town in the island has never since the 11th century been besieged or even entered against its will by a hostile army. Its wealth, its population, and its geographical position have largely determined the fate of every struggle upon English soil. It is what the author calls a "nodal point," whose possession gives the control of a large area of England, and those prophets of evil who foretell its bombardment by an invader are wide of the mark. No invader would dare to attack London; there are other cheaper and more effective methods of securing its submission. (Williams and Norgate.)

BRITISH EAST AFRICA.

To the inhabitants of one of the great dominions the term "The British Empire" connotes Australia, Canada, New Zealand, and South Africa, India, Egypt, and a vague group known as "the Crown Colonies." But though we are apt to dispose of the latter in a summary fashion, they are in many cases of the highest importance. Places such as Nigeria, Uganda, and British East Africa are no mere tropical trading posts, but communities which are rapidly going ahead, which are even now attracting a considerable white population possessed of capital, and which may one day prove serious rivals of our own for this very desirable class of immigrant.

"A Colony in the Making," by Lord Cranworth, is an exceedingly interesting account of one of the newest and least known of these colonies, namely, British East Africa. Up to a few years ago it was little more than a geographical expression; now it is a flourishing place, with an important railway connecting Mombasa with the head of the Nile, and a considerable number of white inhabitants engaged in pastoral and agricultural pursuits. Lord Cranworth destroys another cherished illusion. The climate is healthy, for most of the country consists of a lofty plateau, where the temperature is distinctly pleasant. Malaria and dysentery exist, but are yearly becoming less common, which applies also to insect pests. Indeed, the author includes among the principal causes of illness whisky and lion-bites.

He gives an account of the various native tribes, whom he describes as "moderately lazy, barely moderately honest, and decidedly intelligent," and who, if properly treated, will solve the labour problem. He also has a good deal to say about the Indian population, for whom he has scant appreciation. 25,000 of these were brought in to construct the railway, and when it was finished remained there, constantly reinforced by fresh arrivals. They are of the coolie class, riffraff whose influence has been altogether bad. They exploit the native, pander to his vices, introduce all manner of evils, physical and moral, and their competition in trade bids fair to drive the European out of the country. The white population is cosmopolitan. "We have the Public school boy from Eton downwards, the crofter, the farmer from all parts of England, the townsmen, the planter, the Canadian, the Australian, the Africander, the Boer. It is wonderful how well they fit in," although he goes on to state that the Boer may prove a disturbing element in days to come.

Nearly all of these are "on the land." Hemp, wheat, and maize are produced, and coffee, which promises to become the staple export. Sheep and cattle thrive, and ostriches are extremely lucrative if they can be kept from the lions. The lion has an extraordinary liking for ostrich flesh, which he will go to any trouble to gratify. "Last year two breeders completed an ostrich enclosure, which they felt to be so secure that they might rest happy in their beds. The boma was 40yds square, and consisted of huge posts 10ft high, and was bound together by strands of barbed wire without and within at intervals of 3in or 4in. In all there were more than seven miles of barbed wire round it. Outside again was a fence of thorns, in itself almost impenetrable. Nevertheless the settlers' confidence was misplaced. One morning they were aroused with the unwelcome tidings that four lions had visited the enclosure, had slain 50 odd out of the 70 ostriches contained therein, and had decamped—all save one who was too swollen to retreat through the gap by which he entered. The captive despatched an inspection was made, and the fury with which the lions had made their attack was evidenced by the blood and fur strewn around. The gap had been formed by literally tearing with teeth and claws the wire from its supports, and eventually forcing open a hole."

Indeed, the lions were at one time a very serious problem in B. E. Africa. When the railway was being built they established a reign of terror, literally snatched people out of the carriages, took possession of the platform, and held up the construction for days together. Now they, with rhinoceros and buffalo, are still in sufficient numbers to provide good sport, and the author has much to say about big-game shooting in the colony; also he does not scruple to express his scorn at the rather theatrical expeditions of distinguished persons, which have been so widely advertised of late years. Altogether it is a most readable book, which gives a picture of life in one of the newest and most promising dependencies. (Macmillan and Co.)

FAMOUS SPEECHES.

Those who wish to cultivate the art of oratory would do well to study "Famous Speeches," a compilation of addresses delivered by famous people on famous occasions, and edited with introductory notes by Herbert Paul. In this we obtain examples of all that is best in latter-day English and American rhetoric. Of course, a selection such as this depends very largely upon individual taste, and one feels that Mr. Paul might with advantage have substituted for some of the speeches he has included others which he has omitted. However, that is principally a matter of personal predilection, and this volume gives an admirable illustration of the different kinds of eloquence our great modern speakers have affected. To name only a few of them, Beaconsfield is heard in defence of his Budget in 1852; Parnell on behalf of the first Home Rule Bill in 1886; America is represented by Abraham Lincoln and J. R. Lowell, while Mr. Paul has brought us almost to the present day with various important speeches by Lord Salisbury, Sir William Harcourt, Mr. Chamberlain, Lord Morley, and Lord Rosebery. (Pitman and Sons.)

EUCLID SUPERSEDED.

Those of us who in our youth painfully struggled through various books of Euclid called down many an anathema upon his head as the inventor of that hateful science known as geometry. Our only consoling thought used to be that we were learning some extraordinary and exotic branch of wisdom to which Euclid alone held the key. However, even that consolation is now denied us. Mathematicians have arrived at the same results as Euclid by means totally different, and no doubt to those conversant in such matters infinitely easier.

"Non-euclidean" geometry has long been a fait accompli, and a critical and historical study of its development has been written by Professor Bonoli, of the University of Pavia. This has been translated by Professor Carslaw, of our own University, with additional original appendices, and while it is not a book which will be appreciated by the multitude, it will be of great value to those who are interested in the study of mathematics. A NEW AUSTRALIAN NOVELIST.

The latest recruit to the ranks of Australian novelists is Miss Gertrude Hart, who has made an auspicious debut with "The Dream Girl," a very dainty and charming love story. A young writer-artist injures himself by an act of heroism, and during his convalescence Mollie becomes his amanuensis. There is also another, "the dream girl," who writes him tender and delightful letters. In due course it appears that Mollie and the author of these mysterious epistles are the same, and Max finds his unsubstantial and imaginary sweetheart replaced by one in the flesh.

However, a bare recital of the plot does not by any means do justice to the book, whose charm lies in the delicate and fragrant spirit pervading it. It is written with grace and sympathy, and in the letters of "the dream girl" we have a pretty picture of the gradual blossoming of the flower of love in a maiden bosom. The stage is principally held by this pair, but the minor characters are excellently drawn, notably the kindly old German 'cellist, and altogether Miss Hart is to be congratulated upon a most creditable first novel, which gives promise of greater achievements in the future. (George Robertson and Co.)

AUSTRALIAN BOOKS.

There was a time, and that not so very long ago, when the appearance of a book written, printed, and published in Australia was a comparatively uncommon event. Now, however, we have no cause to lament any such state of affairs. Scarcely a week passes without the production of a work locally which has some pretensions to rank as literature, and Australian authors have little reason to complain that they are unable to obtain a hearing. An example of this is afforded by three books we have received from Angus and Robertson, two of them fresh editions of old favourites, one a new publication, and in each case the enterprise of this firm has been directed towards worthy objects.

"Stories of Old Sydney," by Charles H. Bertie, illustrated by S. Ure Smith, is a charming and interesting little book. The author is an indefatigable delver into the records of our past, and he has realised that while, as such things go, we cannot boast a long history, there is a great deal of the true romance buried in our past. Mr. Bertie has the faculty of exercising the dry bones of our civic chronicle, so that they live and breathe, and he has contrived to make actual to us those remote and almost incredible days when the Rocks was a fashionable residential area, and our be-stocked and top-hatted ancestors dined at 4 p.m.

This book contains five sketches of Sydney in its infancy. "Ghosts in Hunter-street" brings back to earth various notabilities of the past who, with Sir Henry Parkes as Cicerone, marvel at the changes they see—and are not entirely pleased to find their old landmarks gone. "The Windmills of Old Sydney" describes another phenomenon of a leisurely epoch, when every height was crowned with these picturesque if dilatory contrivances, Darlinghurst, perhaps from its altitude, was especially favoured in this regard, though Miller's Point, Church Hill, the Botanic Gardens, and Waverley each had their mill; indeed, to this the first-mentioned owes its name. "A Mysterious Affair" tells of a maritime episode, which created an immense stir in the "thirties," and the remaining chapters give a general account of Sydney and its inhabitants, as they were more than half a century ago. Mr. Smith's admirable illustrations are an equally important feature of the book, which, in addition to its interest, presents a great antiquarian value. Of late years much of Old Sydney has disappeared, and every day the ruthless hand of progress sweeps away more. It is well that we have these two gentlemen to put on permanent record its picturesque aspects before the opportunity is lost for ever.

The other two books are new editions of the poetical works of J. Brunton Stephens, and of "Hearts of Gold," by Will Ogilvie. When the history of Australian literature comes to be written, Brunton Stephens will probably be accorded a high and almost a unique place. His "Convict Once" remains the greatest sustained effort of any of our poets. No doubt, it is prolix, and its metre—the rhyming hexameter—is one which has never proved satisfactory in the English language, because in its classical form it depended upon principles of length of feet, while English versification is based upon an accentual rhythm. At the same time for sheer splendour of pictorial rhetoric there are passages in "Convict Once" of which any literature in the world would have cause to feel proud. Moreover, Brunton Stephens' fame does not rest on this poem alone. His lighter verse, as in "Byron's Fork," "My Chinese Cook," "To a Black Gin," show a vein of wit, and a comic verbal felicity as distinguished after their kind as the prophetic and splendid lines on "The Dominion of Australia," written half a century before the dream was realised. It is now some years since Brunton Stephens was taken from us, and this new edition will not only do honour to his memory, but will make his work known to many to whom he has previously been little more than a name.

Mr. Will H. Ogilvie has a niche secure in the temple of fame consecrated to Australian literature. "The appearance of "Fair Girls and Grey Horses" proved him to possess all the verve of the bush ballad school, with more of the genuine fire than they claimed to possess. "Hearts of Gold" confirmed that impression. He sings pleasantly, if not very deeply, and the love of a good steed and a gracious lady are the two things which lend his main inspiration to this Australian troubadour. It is the fashion now to sneer at this type of verse as shallow and facile, but Mr. Ogilvie's lilting lines will linger in our memory long after those of more pretentious bards.

RECENT FICTION.

An interest quite apart from its actual merits attaches to "The Price She Paid," by David Graham Phillips, because it is the last book that author composed before he was assassinated in a New York hotel. In some respects it is also his best book, and throws an interesting light on the chivalrous attitude with which the American nation is supposed to regard the feminine. It also describes the utter helplessness in which a woman accustomed to luxury may find herself if suddenly thrown upon her own resources. When Henry Gower, the millionaire, dies suddenly, it is found that all his riches have disappeared, and his wife and daughter are thrown upon the world literally penniless. The only thing to be done is to secure the support of a man, and so Mrs. Gower marries one, deluding him into the belief that she is wealthy. Naturally he is furiously enraged when he learns the true state of affairs, and practically forces his step-daughter to relieve him of the burden of herself by marrying an odious individual, who has nothing to recommend him but his money, and who makes Mildred's life so unsupportable that she leaves him. Henceforth begins the hard and sordid struggle for existence; it is an unending round of poverty, hard work, and disappointment, until in the end she wins success as a singer. It is a powerfully told story if an unpleasant one, and Mr. Phillips has given us a graphic picture of certain aspects of New York life. (Appleton: G. Robertson.)

"The Trespasser," by D. H. Laurence, seeks to dignify rather a commonplace intrigue without succeeding in being very convincing. Siegmund McNair is a great musician, with an unsympathetic wife and several children. At last he finds the strain of his unhappy domestic affairs too great, and elopes to the Isle of Wight with Helena, an ex-pupil. There they pass a week in soft dalliance and love-making of an intensely self-conscious nature. On his return he realises to the full the misery and sordidness of his surroundings, and takes the easy way of escape from them by hanging himself. Helena is thrown into a numb apathy by the shock, but time proves a healer, and we take leave of her in the process of finding consolation at the hands of a young and ardent writer. There is a good deal of "fine writing" and a good deal of semi-esthetic jargon, but we are unable to arouse ourselves to any great sympathy for the various characters. (Duckworth: G. Robertson.)

A long time ago, in his "Mystery of a Hansom Cab," Mr. Fergus Hume introduced to a responsive public an entirely new kind of story. The public is still responsive, although the kind is no longer new. Mr. Hume has had many imitators, some of whom have eclipsed the originator. However, he continues to hold his own, and within the not very exacting limits of this type of fiction is always readable. "The Mystery Queen," his latest effort, contains all those ingredients which ensure popularity. In the first chapter there is an inexplicable murder, whose elucidation forms the theme of the story. There is a powerful organisation of criminals headed by the heroine, a lady who combines great beauty with extraordinary force of character, and is an accomplished aviator, to boot. All the resources of civilisation are introduced, including speedy motor cars and wonderful aeroplanes, and the whole, which is ingeniously contrived and adequately told, will relieve the tedium of an idle hour. (Published by Ward, Lock, and Co.)

In these days, when eugenics is a word upon the lips of everyone, "The Unknown Quantity," by Charles Inge, makes an opportune appearance. It also provides an illustration of a matter against which votaries of this science will find it hard to contend—the natural power of love. Robin Peveril is a wholesome susceptible young man, who falls under the influence of a certain Dr. Wepener and his teachings, and resolves to devote himself henceforth to the betterment of the race. His resolution taken, he promptly falls in love with a blind girl, in whose family blindness is hereditary. The conflict of desire and judgment is painted most sympathetically, and the situation is complicated when a very modern young girl throws herself at his head. However, in the end he finds that his passion counterbalances all possible risks the future may bring, and definitely renouncing the doctrines he formerly championed, he marries his early love. At this point the story stops; we do not learn whether his apprehensions were justified; and a thoughtful and suggestive novel leaves us, like its chief actors, in suspense. (Bell and Sons.)

One of what may be termed the by-products of aviation is that it has provided novelists with a new type of hero. The motorist has been driven from his place by the young man who invents or drives aeroplanes. In "The Golden Venture," by J. S. Fletcher, for instance, he has found a means by which an aeroplane can fly across the Atlantic in 30 hours, and proposes to sell his discovery to the British Government. This amiable design is continually thwarted by various unscrupulous financiers who steal his plans, corrupt his mechanics, and, when all else fails, endeavour to blow up his machine. However, their knavish tricks are conveniently frustrated with the aid of two beautiful girls, and we leave the hero in the enjoyment of honour and affluence. The story does not aim very high, but is quite readable, although we feel that the hero showed bad taste in his choice of a bride. (Bell and Sons.)

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

The production of the new French drama, "The Turning Point" (Henri Kistemacher's "La Flambee") at St. James's Theatre on October 1, opened the month strongly in London. The weak point in the new play seems to be the "comic relief," and the fact that the dialogue is a bit old-fashioned. One critic describes the comedy passages as "appalling," and another remarks that the comedy-scene about chocolate in the third act, "made us want to scream, so foolish and unnecessary it was." As this was written after the first night, it is almost certain that Sir George Alexander will cut out, or otherwise amend, this particular scene; for, as a rule, successful London productions reach Australia in an improved form, with the glaring mistakes on which the London press has exercised its wit, carefully rectified in order that the Australian critics may find as little to say as possible! Besides the actor-manager's long emotional part as a military man, in which he worked strenuously, "but never quite reached the thrilling point," there was the return of Miss Ethel Irving. This "actress without a peer," in a character much broken up into little bits, "had moments when she had a chance of showing her great power"; and there was Mr. Godfrey Tearle (the original Ben Hur in Sydney ten years ago), "who played with praiseworthy reticence" as the lover. Generally, the reviews are very favourable. The story deals with Colonel Felt, a brilliant military officer, temporarily estranged from his young wife, for whom he has gone deeply into debt to a financier named Glogau. Though the marriage was a love-match, the wife has just begun to have a weakness for the distinguished young Deputy, Beaucourt. The climax is reached when Glogau, in a confidential midnight interview, offers to cancel the whole debt of £8000 if Felt will betray his country by selling the spy the plans of the fortress under his command. In a burst of righteous rage, the colonel strangles the man. Then, broken and unnerved, ruin before him, he visits his wife's room, confesses what has happened—and is taken to her arms with a cry of joy as a hero and patriot! She now has to help him to conceal the body, and after that to dismiss Beaucourt, recently made Minister of Justice. Husband and wife reconciled, Beaucourt not only takes leave like a gentleman, he also muzzles the Crown Prosecutor—and all ends happily. The new play, which was received with enthusiasm, has been purchased for this country by Mr. Allan Hamilton.

Miss Grace Palotta, who is so successfully playing Mme. Blum ("A Quaker Girl"), on entirely new lines, as a vivacious, stylish woman of the world, in doing so deliberately avoided the London model, which was that of a stout, shrewd manager. Such is not the type of the director of a fashionable Maison Blum on the Continent, but having been so represented to suit the London cast, was subsequently repeated in the same form for the English provinces. The popular Viennese artist has been absent 18 months from Australia, to which she is paying her fifth visit, since her girlish debut in 1895. Only five or six weeks of this period were spent in London. Whilst there, her old manager, Mr. George Edwardes, introduced her to Mr. Franz Lehar, who was delighted to hear the soft accent of Vienna as soon as she began to speak in German, and she saw and admired his new opera "Gipsy Love." The composer was anxious to place the visitor in London, but she had already signed for Australia. "The Sunshine Girl" at the Gaiety was booked right out so far ahead that Miss Palotta was not able to see it, and would have missed "Milestones" for the same reason, only that the play was performed at a "Titanic" matinee. The drama covers three generations, and incidentally illustrated the gradual emancipation of Woman. In the first act the young girl marries exactly when and where she is told, but in the last she chooses for herself—"and it was charming to see such a stride in the right direction," triumphantly remarked the sparkling comedienne. Miss Palotta formed a poor opinion of Pinero's cruelly sordid picture of theatrical life in "Mind-the-Paint Girl," which described scenes and sayings which have not come within her stage experience. Mr. Dion G. Boucicault, regarded now as the greatest producer in London (and Australia had him in the same capacity for more than a decade!), played a character in the piece very cleverly, and Marie Lohr had the leading part. In Vienna Miss Palotta saw Lehar's operetta "Eva," and thought it the most brilliant he has written, but though it has been played with success throughout Germany, France, and Italy, it has not yet reached London. Indeed, the metropolis is very slow in such matters, and was nearly three years finding room for "Gipsy Love." She also saw "Le Jongleur de Paris," a beautiful grand opera by Massenet, in which there is not a single female character. At Covent Garden the chief part was transferred to a woman—and the piece failed! Debussy's "Peleas and Melisande" is now in the regular repertoire on the Continent, and is always magnificently staged. Miss Palotta did not find this example of modern "atmospheric" music at all difficult. The new light work by Richard Strauss, "Rosenkavalier," completely captured the artist by the charm of its music, and the wondrous elegance of its staging. The name-part falls to a mezzo-soprano attired in silver and white as an old-time gallant, who bears in his hand the silver rose, round which the story centres. This same cavalier is subsequently disguised as a waiting-maid courted by a duke, and the comic acting of the mezzo as a woman imitating a man's idea of behaving as a soubrette was very fine. Miss Palotta, who is at home in many cities, and has heaps of friends in Sydney, will remain in Australia until next June.

Emilie Lambert (Mrs. Burke), who was appearing here within the year at many concerts, more especially at the Salon Classical Trio recitals, has since worked hard in London with Sir Charles Santley, who admired the quality of the light contralto voice, and musingly added that "there was something Spanish about it." The veteran was very much on the alert, as it seems that the singer's grandmother actually was Spanish! However, as prearranged, Miss Lambert joined M. Bouhy in Paris as soon as his midsummer holiday was over. Her first interview with the great French baritone lasted an hour, and formed quite a lesson, and she has been to him daily ever since (as per letter, dated Paris, September 19). "M. Bouhy has a beautiful flat just off the Champs Elysee, decorated with autograph portraits of celebrities, including himself, in various characters. He is a gentleman of polished manners, and speaks English perfectly, and he uses his fine voice generously in illustrating the art of interpretation. He has a theory that a half-empty room gives a flattering resonance to the voice that is deceptive, and for that reason his studio is luxuriously fitted, and thickly carpeted. His method seems to resemble Santley's, and his remarks are most encouraging. I am fascinated by the Paris Opera House, which covers three acres, and cost two millions to build. They give opera three times a week practically all the year round. I saw Gounod's 'Faust' right through without cuts, lasting till after midnight. Just imagine the practice of the permanent chorus, always attacking with the orchestra, and the most wonderful 'cuts off.' We Sydney people have a lot to learn. I heard Franz, a really great tenor, as Lohengrin, and at the Opera Comique I heard a quite ordinary cast in Massenet's dainty opera, 'Manon.'"

Musical talent first, and then by some happy chance a voice afterwards, is not an uncommon order of affairs in the case of singers who rise to any distinction. The Royal Comic Opera Company has now acquired a new principal soprano, in whom this art development is illustrated. Miss Ivy Bickford, the new Princess Mathilde, was originally a child-pianist of talent. Three years running she won the piano scholarship at the Marshall-Hall Conservatorium, Melbourne, and during that time she secured the A.R.A.M. from the Associated Board. At the Conservatorium she studied singing under Mme. Wiedermann, but when halfway through her third year accepted a contract with J. C. Williamson, Ltd., studied the part of Alice ("The Dollar Princess") in three days, and replaced the American singer, Miss Edmunds, in the role at Adelaide, thus making her stage debut (with Olive Godwin, Lottie Sergeant, Bert Gilbert, and W. S. Percy) on October 23, 1910. Since that time Miss Bickford has sung minor roles in Sydney, and when Miss Godwin left for England early in the year the newcomer took her place in "A Quaker Girl" in Adelaide, Perth, and Melbourne. This Australian soprano, who is likely to become a stage favourite, is an Australian by birth, but by descent through her grandfather belongs to a long-settled Devonshire family. Her faculty for music is such that, becoming obsessed by the charm of "Madame Butterfly" during the Bel Sorel season, she committed the entire pianoforte score to memory from the first note of the opera to the last!

XMAS PRESENTS FOR ENGLISH FRIENDS

They are published at 3/6, and sent post free for 3/8 each.

The Australian reader who wishes to have some of the best Poetry yet written in Australia to send to friends in the Old World should buy some of these books at once. There are Ten Volumes ready, and the following short descriptions will indicate the ground covered:—

GAY'S POETICAL WORKS.—These are now collected for the first time, and contain all his best work. He has been long considered as one of our finest and best writers, and his work has received much praise in England. This is one of the volumes you should have.

McCRAE, "SATYRS AND SUNLIGHT." This is a modern book by a son of one of our veterans. Some of the verse has appeared in the "Bulletin," etc., but the major part of it is new. The first edition of this book was illustrated by Norman Lindsay, and is out of print. It sells for twice its original published price. This book contains a few new pieces, and is revised. The work is of the best, and should be read by everyone.

O'DOWD.—The latest Volume of Bernard O'Dowd, who, as the London "Spectator" says, "Stands out alone among Australian Poets," is the "Seven Deadly Sins." A most interesting Volume, and probably the most striking book of verse issued for some time.

"THE LAND OF THE STARRY CROSS," "Gilrooney," is a good collection of live, active verse. The kind you learn off by heart, and are glad to remember.

"PURPLE AND GOLD" is the title of the first book written by Frank S. Williamson. It contains many splendid poems, including two which should be known by every Australian—"The Magpie" and "Gum Trees." The Volume is not a big one, but it's worth the 3s 6d.

THE FINEST SINGER in New Zealand is undoubtedly HUBERT CHURCH, whose collected "Poems" are now ready. These poems have been very well received in England, and the "Scotsman" says, "He soars to fine heights of eloquence." His poems are well worth reading.

E. J. BRADY Sings of Ships and Seas in a fine, light-hearted way. "The Ways of Many Waters" is the title of his book, and this second edition is finely illustrated by Alex. Sass.

JEPHCOTT, the singer of the Upper Murray, has just issued his "Penetralia." It is many years since his last volume appeared, and "Penetralia" must command a large sale amongst readers of good literature.

Two well-known Authoresses now complete our present list—MRS. M. PITT and MRS. M. FORREST. In "Horses of the Hills," by Mrs. Pitt, democratic verse of great sincerity and force is published, and the volume can be specially recommended to Australians. "Alpha Centauri," by M. Forrest, is a delightful volume of pleasing and sincere verse. It is a book which will be read and re-read with pleasure.

So these are the latest and best Ten Muses of our Australian Poetry. Keep this list before you. They are all well printed, and so attractively bound that you should use them when you want to send a friend of yours a present.

The illustrations also include reproductions of famous places mentioned in Dickens' Works, such as Gray's Inn, Goswell-road, and many others.

To each novel a short illustrated introduction has been written, giving many particulars which tend to make the Works even more interesting than they usually are. The volumes are printed on antique wove paper, made specially for this edition; they are strongly and tastefully bound in cloth, with gold lettering.

At the present day it is unnecessary to say anything in praise of Dickens. The Characters in his volumes are known and loved throughout the whole of the English-speaking world. His works appeal to all, because of his insight into human nature and his keen sense of humour. No library is complete without a set of Dickens' Works. The writings of Charles Dickens are suitable for young and old, and no better or more beautiful or more useful edition than the Standard Edition has ever been issued.

Life of Dickens.

Two volumes are occupied with the "Life of Charles Dickens," by Mr. F. G. Kitton, written specially for the Standard Edition. This is a complete and most fascinating study of the life of the great writer, illustrated with portraits of Dickens printed by the Vandyck process.

The "Morning Post" writes, regarding this life.—
"It is an honest and loving attempt to give a portrait of a great and radiant genius, who has given more pleasure and amusement to multitudes of people than any author save Sir Walter Scott."

The "Manchester Courier" says:—
"It deals in a singularly happy manner with the great author at the most interesting epoch of his career."

Portrait of Dickens.

LIFE IN LONDON AND THEREABOUT.

(CHRONICLED BY HENRY LUCY.)

"Ulster Day"—Mr. Gladstone's Early Treasure—Lord Rosebery's Prize Picture—A Novelist's Earnings—An Old Churchyard.

WESTMINSTER, Oct. 4.

With a natural feeling of relief, the country saw the end of the unskilfully prolonged performance at Ulster. I think the predominant feeling was one of relief that the political antics of Sir Edward Carson and his colleagues did not lead to the threatened conclusion of bloodshed. Had the Nationalist Party, who form a considerable proportion of the population of Ulster, adopted the tactics of the Orangemen on the occasion of the visit of Mr. Winston Churchill, Belfast would have become the arena of horrible scenes of disorder. By grim irony it was the Nationalist leaders that successfully exerted themselves to preserve law and order, their followers in Belfast contenting themselves with celebrating Ulster Day by remitting £1189 to the Home Rule Fund.

The honest Ulster Orangemen have done their share by marching, cheering, rendering royal salutes to elderly barristers, waving flags and firing leadless pistols in the air. It is now the turn of their leaders to keep the ball a-rolling. Place and opportunity will be provided in the House of Commons when committee stage of the Home Rule Bill is again reached. The Ulster members are bound to give their constituents some show for their money. Consequently between now and Christmas we may expect lively scenes in Parliament. I should not be surprised if, following the example of their countrymen in the palmy days of Parnell, the Ulster members get themselves suspended en bloc at some critical turn of the committee stage, and, shaking the dust of the House of Commons from off their feet, withdraw from its precincts, leaving enactment of the bill to the Ministerial majority. In this or other ways we shall have wigs on the green at Westminster. All the same the Home Rule Bill will be carried before the prorogation, will be sent on to the Lords, will straightway be thrown out, the process being repeated next year. Finally, in the season of 1914 it will reach the Statute Book by operation of the Parliament Act.

Mr. Lloyd-George has confided to his biographer a delightful story about Mr. Gladstone which has the additional charm of being now, a rare attribute at this time of day. On one occasion in his far-off time of youth Mr. Gladstone was sitting on the box seat of a coach behind a driver of bibulous appearance, with whom, to beguile the time, he began a conversation. The fare was young enough to be proud of a very fine "repeater" he carried. By way of interesting the driver he showed it to him, and explained its complicated mechanism. The driver took a more or less intelligent interest in the works, and after some time said, "What I want to know is, how do you wind that watch when you're drunk?"

Stage coaches and omnibuses as seating congeries of humanity ever had attraction for Mr. Gladstone. I have heard him at the dinner table talk for ten minutes in charming reminiscences of London 'buses, of which he was one of the earliest patrons. The one he most frequently used travelled between Charing-cross and Hyde Park Corner. It was a two-horsed vehicle, moderate in speed, practically springless, and matted with wisps of straw. "Whether you went part of the way or all the way," he added, in the deep tone of voice that marked profound emotion, "the fare was sixpence." Here obtruded itself a touch of ineradicable nationality. Over a lapse of years, mountains oceanlike in the height and depth of their interest, there lingered in his mind resentment of the enormity of this charge. As he spoke there crossed the mind vision of another Scotsman with his immortal lament, "I had na been in London half an hour when bang went saxpence."

Lord Rosebery possesses many precious pictures. Perhaps the one most prized is his portrait of George Washington. When as Premier he resided at 10 Downing-street, he had it removed from Berkeley-square and hung in the dining-room. It has an interesting history. The work of Gilbert Stuart, it is one of Washington's two portraits now existing painted from life. It was painted upon the commission of Lord Shelburne, and dates about the year 1796. When in 1805 Lord Shelburne died, his pictures were sold by auction, and this now priceless portrait brought £540. It is known in art circles as the Lansdowne portrait, Lord Shelburne having become Marquis of Lansdowne before his death. The purchaser presently became bankrupt, and Washington was again in the market. How greatly the picture had, in a comparatively brief space of time, increased in value is shown by the fact that it now brought 2000 guineas, being disposed of by a lottery, for which 40 tickets were issued at the price of 50 guineas each. It was won by Mr. Delawarr Lewis, at one time member for Devonport. When he died the picture was again for sale, and Lord Rosebery bought it—but not for 2000 guineas. It is a picture as well as a portrait, showing Washington standing by an armchair, from which he has apparently risen, his black velvet coat and breeches, with lace ruffles at the neck, and silver buckles on the shoes, standing out well against the dark velvet with which the armchair is draped.

There recently appeared a letter from an unfortunate gentleman, who gave heartrending particulars of income derived from novel-writing. I forget the precise particulars, but fancy it worked out in the direction of aggregate payment of £200 for eight novels. That is not encouraging. But there have been cases equally hard. Dr. Johnson received from a syndicate of publishers the sum of 1500 guineas for his greatest work, the English Dictionary, which occupied eight years of his life. That is a sorry tale, and it does not tell all. He was obliged to employ a staff of copyists, to whom he paid wages ranging from 23s a week to two guineas. This must have left a mere trifle for the principal worker. Small wonder that the circumstances created a feeling of irritation on the great lexicographer's part, which was shared by the publishers. When the messenger carrying the final proof-sheets returned Johnson asked him what the publisher said. "Sir," replied the messenger, "he said, 'Thank God, I have done with him.'" "I am glad he has the grace to thank God for anything," growled the doctor.

At Dartmouth last Sunday I wandered into the old Parish Churchyard, where the rude forefathers of the hamlet sleep, some of them having been at it for a century and a half. The graves are in sadly shabby condition, it being apparently no one's business to look after them. They are huddled together in embarrassing proximity. They lie under the walls, fill neglected corners, occupy every inch of ground. It seems certain that if anyone else dies in Dartmouth he may not be buried in the parish churchyard. Among the tombstones I came upon two noteworthy in different ways. One standing in a bleak corner formed by the buttress of the church, bore the name of P. S. Wheall, and underneath the line, "Useless is the date of time when the subject is Eternity." Nothing more. No date of birth or year of death, or any reference, mocking after a few years, to the eternal regret of sorrowing relatives. It seems to have been enough for P. S. Wheall that he should be dead, nobody's business when he was born, when he died, or where he lived when yet on this earth.

Not far off is a tombstone that bears in fading letters a century old, a verse that we have all heard of, but I, for one, never saw in actual use. This is how the stanza is printed on the tombstone:—

> Affliction sore long time I bore Physicians,
> Where to vain till god did please that death,
> Should seize to ease me of my pain.

It is interesting to note how the engraver—dead and gone in succession to the lamented neighbour to whom he dedicated the verse—when he got as far as the first line began to doubt whether there would be space to set out the stanza in proper order. Accordingly, he runs in the word "Physicians," which properly opens the second line, and what a struggle he has in spelling it.

WHEN THE BIG GUNS SPEAK

(BY W. R. B.).

"Clear for action!"

The bugles sound, the boatswains' pipes give their shrill calls, men rush hither and thither, officers shout orders, the great guns swing round into position, and his Majesty's ship Advance is ready for the enemy.

This is, perhaps, the most thrilling order which can be given on a British man-o'-war, except one, the last word that is ever heard—"Every man for himself."

Few people, unacquainted with the inner life of the Royal Navy, can imagine the scene which follows the pipe, "Clear for action!"

But there is a great deal to be done before the "general quarters" are sounded, the signal which sends every member of the crew to his allotted post, from engineroom to gun-turret. All the movable deck gear must be got out of the way, derricks, stanchions, rails, davits, and anything likely to impede the men while the fight is in progress, or offer a target to the enemy. The ship's boats are filled with water, to prevent their catching fire, hanging gear is lashed up, fire-buckets placed in position, and the decks are covered with whitewash and sand. But that is not all, for, though the modern battleship carries far less ornamental work than did the old "wooden walls," there is still much elaborate woodwork and gilded joinery, and this must be got rid of before the guns "speak," owing to its inflammability and tendency to splinter. To prevent this, splinter-netting is used, although, wherever possible, ironwork is substituted for wood, as in the case of ladders, handrails, etc.

While this is going on, preparations are being made below deck for the accommodation of the wounded; while lower still, in the very bowels of the ship, stokers are feeding their furnaces, and the trimmers are arranging the coal in the bunkers, so as to afford additional protection should the vessel be hit below water. Meanwhile the electricians and artificers have thoroughly tested the telegraphs, telephones, and signalling apparatus, and examined the ammunition-hoists, hand and steam gears, torpedo tubes, etc., to see that everything is in proper working order.

The decks, which prior to the order "general quarters" appeared bare and almost deserted, are now a scene of bustle and animation. Men appear from apparently nowhere, and rush to their places in the casemates, turrets, fighting-tops, or wherever their respective stations may be, ready for the pipe which will change this grim, grey ship into a bellowing monster, vomiting death and destruction from every side.

But there is no excitement, no confusion, no unnecessary orders or shouting; everything is done quietly, quickly, and systematically. All the guns' crews are waiting at their posts, while the little quickfirers, mounted on the top of the great turrets, endeavour to get the range of the enemy; and then follows the deep, sullen boom of a heavy gun. The auxiliary six-inch batteries on the upper and lower decks amidships are each manned by a crew of seven men and their captain, who take up positions behind the casemates and train their weapons. The two gigantic twelve-inch turret guns on the forward deck are manned by their crews under the direction of the first gunnery lieutenant, while the twin guns on the after-deck are similarly manned. Each of these monster weapons weighs 46 tons, and fires projectiles weighing 718lb each, which it takes 167lb of cordite to discharge. These terrible engines of destruction are worked by hydraulic power, but are so constructed that, should an accident happen to this, they can be worked by hand.

"Out torpedo-nets!"

The great hollow steel booms, 30ft long and 45ft apart, are swung out from the ship's sides, and the net, composed of steel rings 1½in in diameter, falls over the side.

It is a fleet action, and the vessels are steaming about six cable-lengths apart, ready to form up into line-ahead, line-abreast, or bow and quarter line, as the flagship may direct. On the bridge of each of the ships a signalman tramps up and down, his eyes glued to the flagship, ready to take down and report to the officer-of-the-watch any orders that may be signalled. The officer writes them down, gives them to the signal midshipman, and he takes them to the captain.

Having seen the general appearance of a battleship preparing to go into action, it may be interesting to watch the work of the various groups which go to make up the fighting force of the ship, and see how each performs its own particular duties.

Probably the most interesting work from the sightseer's point of view is that which goes on inside the gun turrets. The crew have taken up their station at the command to "close up." The gunlayer stands at the right of the sighting position; one man stands by the elevating lever, and another immediately behind him. At the locking bolt and left sighting position another man takes his stand, while one is stationed at the rammer lever, two at the ready rack, while the powder-man stands between the two guns.

The weapon is loaded, brought to the horizontal, the gunlayer trains it, and then the gun is brought to the "ready," and the word "fire" is given. All this is done with lightning rapidity, for the men have been trained to perfection, and act with the regularity and swiftness of a machine.

With the smaller, or "secondary," guns, such as the 6in or 4.7, much the same evolutions are taking place, except, of course, that the number of men working the guns are smaller. The small machine guns are usually worked by two men, one who adjusts the elevating and training gear, sights the weapon, etc; and another, who fills the barrel casing, arranges the belt in the feed block, and performs other similar duties.

Before leaving the "fangs" of the ship—the guns—let us see how much these wonderful weapons and their accessories cost the nation. The two twelve-inch turret guns, with their mountings and protecting armour, cost about £100,000, and we pay £150 every time they fire a shell; and each gun is supplied with eighty rounds.

The number and variety of projectiles carried by a modern battleship must seem to the layman absolutely bewildering. In order to distinguish the chief classes, various coloured bands are used to mark them; all common shells, for instance, have a black tip; shrapnel, a red tip; armour-piercing shells, two white bands; steel shells, a single half-inch white band; and lyddite shells are painted with yellow ochre.

It is the proud boast of the British Navy that it is always ready; but this has been brought about only by hard and unremitting work. The amount of money spent annually on the training of our officers and seamen appears enormous at first sight, yet it is extraordinarily small when we consider the gigantic interests which the senior service is called upon to uphold and protect.

At the famous "secret manoeuvres" of June, 1910, no less than 44 battleships and 25 armoured cruisers, besides a host of smaller craft, took part. The total number of officers and men employed was 50,460, and their wages worked out at £70,700 for the twenty-four days during which the mock war lasted. No less than six million meals were served during the time, all the materials for which were carried by the ships, as no supplies were permitted from the shore, while the coal bill alone ran up to something like £140,000. The total cost of the manoeuvres that year was £7,249,850.

Practically the same thing takes place every year in order to ensure the efficiency of the navy, while, year in and year out, a proportion of the fleet is always training—night manoeuvres, torpedo work, gunnery, mining, and so forth.

We started by watching a mighty battleship going into action, but there is another side to consider, for it is one of the finest illustrations of perfect discipline and organised power that it is possible to imagine. Here we have a huge steel shell, packed from stem to stern with the most intricate and delicate machinery, carrying on an average 800 officers and men, and costing the nation something like two millions of money. The responsibility of taking such a leviathan into an action where she may be the deciding factor, or, on the other hand, may, by a few well-planted shots, be reduced to a helpless wreck if not altogether destroyed, is such as might well turn the brain of any man less highly trained or self-reliant than the British naval officer.

BIRDS OF PARADISE.

(BY PROFESSOR MACMILLAN BROWN.)

VII.

COLOUR AND SOUND IN BIRDS.

For six weeks I have been hearing little but "Paradies Vogel" echoed along the deck of the steamers on which I have been travelling. I mean from human throats, for there were hundreds of living parrots and lories squawking and screeching all day, some of them loud enough to rival, or even drown the rattle and roll of the patent "noiseless donkey engine." Every deck passenger (and there were generally at least two or three hundred on board) seemed to have bought a lory or two. The birds of paradise that were bought by the thousand were happily all dead and laid in tin boxes, and their peculiar brand of disharmony was to be heard only away in the distant forest, where cannibals and pythons gave the climax to the fascinations of travel. A few I saw in aviaries and cages, in the latter certain to die, because they need space to display their whirring opalescence; but there they rarely confessed their relationship to the crows in their harsh voices. Only the bird-killers, the Papuans in the mountains, witness their plumes in full action when they are engaged in their chromatic amatory dance in the mating season.

THE PARISIAN HAT MARKET.

The bird-buying world was, I could feel, quivering with excitement. For there was a rumour that prices were going sky-high, if they had not already reached the zenith. Some new wave of caprice in Paris and London hat fashions had reached as far as New Guinea. There was some unwonted demand for the beautiful golden plumes. For when we landed in Kokas, at the entrance to McCluer Gulf, and Fakfak, in a bay to the south of it, we found the rumour confirmed. In the stores of the Chinese middlemen, where thousands of the dead birds with the flowing plumes were lying in rows or heaps, not a guilder less than 40 for one would be accepted from any buyer, although a few months ago 20 and 25 were readily accepted. The rise from 35s to 70s could not be explained although a new firm in Macassar was mentioned as being responsible for it, but they would not have bulled the market unless London and Paris had been behind them. By some mysterious marconigraph the flutter in the European fine-feather market had reached the forests of unexplored New Guinea before the astute Chinese buyers of the Malay Archipelago knew anything about it. The unsophisticated bird-killers of the mountains had asked more for their victims from the coastal chiefs, and the coastal chiefs asked still more of the Chinese storekeepers, and they, of course, had to have extra profit from their celestial brethren from Macassar and Ternate for the shock of this surprise that had been sprung upon them; and these latter had to console themselves with an extra douceur from the European middlemen, who charged it with interest to the merchants in Europe. Who started the snowball rolling in the unexplored mountains of New Guinea no one was able to explain; the Macassar firm was more or less the invention of the man in the street who can always lay his finger on the very villain of every mystery. It did not satisfy the buyers: that was plain in every store; they were shy and were going to wait the turn of events. Most of the heaps remained unbought. Some meddler had been at Fakfak before them; it was not the market for birds of paradise; that was away in the north, in the islands of Geelvink Bay.

A BIRD OF PARADISE BOOM.

When I transferred to the steamer that was to go round Bouru and Halmaheira to Jobi, and through the Schouten Islands, and as far as the boundary of German New Guinea, I felt there was even more electricity in the air. Every port up to Ternate added to the contingent of Chinese bird-buyers that filled the cabins of the second-class, and overflowed into the first. Twelve thousand birds of paradise had gone through at the lower prices from Geelvink Bay by the last month's steamer. And this was the last chance of the season. Would the market be beyond them? The excitement was evident at Sorong and Ansus and the other bird ports. Before the steamer could get her anchor down Chinamen were swarming down the side into native dugouts half full of water, and paddling as for very life to the lake dwellings of their countrymen, who had the precious plumed bodies safe in their boxes. Prices had gone up. They were far above what we had heard of on the south coast. And before we left the island of Jobi, on our return journey, as much as £6 had been given for a bird, and £5 was the average price over a heap of birds bad and good. A few months ago they had been literally worth their weight in gold. Now they were worth twice their weight in gold.

LONG PLUMES IN DEMAND.

Naturally buyers were shy, and dozens of Chinamen returned without buying a bird, as one of them explained to me, the commodity was as risky to hold as shares in wild-cat gold mines. The caprice of fashions in millinery is as far beyond calculation as that of love or mining shares. Ten years ago this particular bird of paradise, with the flowing golden plumes beneath the wings, was worth only a few guilders, whilst the little king bird of paradise, with the brilliant red feathers and the emerald watch-spring tail, and the magnificent bird of paradise, with the yellow ruff and the opalescent breast, were at the top of the market. Now the European markets would have nothing but the long golden plumes, and you could get the little gems of shifting sheen for little or nothing; in fact, they were seldom or never shot or sold. The great yellow-plumed bird of paradise has practically none of that feathered opalescence which makes its species the rivals of the humming birds, and is bought, not for the beauty of its general appearance, but for its long yellow feathers, which are pulled out in Europe, bleached of their natural golden colour, and then dyed to suit the fashion of the hour. I saw tens of thousands of this type for sale; of the other forms of intense beauty I saw only an odd specimen here and there.

CONCENTRATED WEALTH.

In spite of the high prices, there were 8000 birds bought, costing £40,000. It was the most costly part of our cargo. The weightiest was dammar, the resin of certain trees in the forests of New Guinea and the Archipelago, the exudation of the bark. Birds of paradise and this raw material of varnish are the only exports of Dutch New Guinea. In the return voyage we still got dammar from the islands and a little copra, and from Bouru we took thousands of cases of the much-prized cajuput oil—the smell of it pervades the whole ship. It differs little from our eucalyptus oil, not only in its smell, but in its medicinal qualities, being used for all sorts of ailments, both internal and external, in the archipelago, and coming also into the European pharmacopoeia. The melaleuca tree, from whose leaves it is distilled, must have a close resemblance to the Australian gums, as the east of Bouru has to Australia, for the name of the oil is the Malay name of the tree, kayu putih, and means "white tree," from the colour of the bark. At Amboina and Banda we took in nutmegs and cloves, as one could tell by the smell of the sacks. But the whole of the rest of the cargo put together was probably not equal in value to the birds of paradise, which filled no more space than a few steel trunks in the cabins of the Chinamen.

A CHINESE MONOPOLY.

Where the profit of these golden birds chiefly filters it is not difficult to guess. For the Chinese storekeepers do not pay in money, but in kind, and, as in all truck, fix their own prices, whatever the sellers may demand, and rake in double, if not treble or quadruple or quintuple, profits. They have been at the trade in Geelvink Bay for more than two centuries; for early in the seventeenth century the company's agents and explorers found a Chinese trader on the north-coast of New Guinea. They have been influencing Borneo for probably thousands of years, and have been settled in the north of that island for several centuries for the wealth of China demanded not only beche-de-mer, and swallows' nests for its epicures, but brilliant feathers for the dresses of its Mandarins; and the plumes of birds of Paradise were probably marketed in the ancient empire of Ternate and Tidore these Chinese traders crept eastwards and southwards into New Guinea, and kept the Papuans ignorant of the value of the birds they killed and skinned, till millionaire Europe, in quite recent times, forced their hand. The coastal natives still keep or try to keep the bird-hunters of the inland forests comparatively in the dark as to the height to which the fashion of Parisian hats can balloon prices.

STRANGE FANCIES.

Yet competition has let the secret out to some extent, and the wild peoples of the mountains squeeze out a little of the magnificent profits. But it is the coastal natives that profit most next to the Chinese storekeepers. The Malays come little into the transaction, though the Bugis, the instinctive sailors and traders of the archipelago, have had a hand in it, especially in the Aru Islands, away to the south, for centuries. That they had no hand in the shooting of the birds is manifest from the Malay name, "burong mati," or dead birds. That they never saw the birds in the forest, or even learned anything about them from the natives, is as clear from the other name, "manuk dewata," or "birds of the gods," a name that is practically the same as "birds of Paradise," given them by the Dutch at the close of the sixteenth century, when they began to manipulate the sultanates of Ternate and Tidore. The natives cut the claws and wings off before they sold the skins, and Europeans, like the Malays, imagined that they hovered in the sky without wings, and never landed on the earth, as they had no feet; the Portuguese called them "birds of the sun," partly because of this fancy, and partly because of the brilliant colours of the plumage, which could come from nothing but the sun. The markets for them nearest to Europe were Banda, Amboina, and especially Ternate, the homes of the nutmeg, and the idea was widespread till recently, even amongst well-educated Europeans, that the birds flew over from New Guinea to indulge in nutmeg, and intoxicated therewith they fell and were seized by the natives for the hats of European ladies.

FEATHERED NEW GUINEA.

There is a bird of paradise native to Batchian and Halmaheira, beside which Ternate lies; but it is too soberly plumed to have ever appealed to the lovers of fine millinery. The highly-coloured and finely-feathered Birds of Paradise all belong to New Guinea and the islands adjacent that are always by the shallow seas between and by their fauna to have once formed parts of that great island. There were no enemies to disturb the even tenor of the chromatic and decorative evolution by amatory selection of the accidental dandies. The singular thing is that New Guinea avifaunal amativeness ran all to colour and plume, and left the voice in its primeval raucous disharmony. One resident of Dutch New Guinea assured me that there was quite a musical chorus from the throats of birds at dawn in the forests of the inland, and of the adjoining archipelago. I have not yet heard a sweet note from the throat of any bird since I came into the region; but I accept the assurance with a lurking scepticism in my mind, based on the fact that not a single native songster have I heard amongst the tens of thousands I have seen in cage or on perch being carried to the markets of the archipelago or of Europe; if there are song-birds surely Europeans at least would be glad to hear their note amid the endless and often deafening squawk and screech of the universal lory and parrot. The only note I heard that in any way approached music was the loud boom of the magnificent-crested crown pigeon. If there are sweet singers in the New Guinea forests there is no fear of their extinction; for no one catches them. For another reason there is no need of any law for the protection of birds of Paradise; the young male birds are as sober-suited as the females. It is only after the moultings of three successive years that they are worth killing for the purposes of Parisian milliners. And it is only from May to September that the plumes of the four-year-old birds are in such a condition as to bring a good price.

PARADISE REALISED.

The beings that need protection are the killers of the birds, and the enemies they need protection from are themselves, and the humanitarian Dutch. We have discarded the ancient maxim "Spare the rod and spoil the child" as false. Most of us in our hearts believe the essence of it to be everlasting truth, and hold that the greatest enemy a child can have is the parent that pampers it, and lets it have all its own way. The Dutch, inspired by modern ideals, are in the fair way to spoil the natives of this their Oriental empire, and so annihilate them. Slavery, the only possible salvation for these idle sago-eating races of New Guinea and the eastern islands was finally abolished in the archipelago in 1879, although it has lingered on in some of the protected kingdoms into this century. And the only thing that kept them from extinction, war, is almost completely suppressed in the archipelago, and on the coasts of New Guinea; headhunting is now a thing of the past, except in the wild, unexplored regions. The men have now more thing to do, and go it with their whole heart and soul. They have never had much care as to what they should eat or drink, they have less than ever. A week's work at the fifth of sago palm would give them enough food for a year; and the cutting of the flower stem of the sugar, or nipa, or cocoanut palm, and hanging a bamboo under the wound would give them a perennial source of liquid oblivion, such as our topers would sell their souls to have. The only care they had was how to secure a wife to make their sago for them; none of the girls would accept them unless they had captured a head to give them on their wedding day; and the sneer of the old warriors when full of sagueir or palm wine in the bachelors' club or temple at night over their headlessness, was a thing hard to bear in addition to the scorn of their sweethearts. War was an inevitable consequence; they either began it in order to get heads or drifted into it through taking heads. But for head-hunting and war they were as near to the paradise of the past or to the realisation of the socialists' ideal of the future, little work and plenty of food, as man is likely to come in this life. And the Dutch, inspired by the humanitarianism of our day, have completed the earthly paradise by abolishing head-hunting and war.

NOT UNLIKE HADES.

The result is the closest approach to Hades I have seen. They are idle millionaires, especially since birds of paradise were turned into a gold mine by fashionable Europe. And they are suffering the fate of idle millionaires, they don't know where to look for a new sensation; and they bury their sorrows in the bamboo of palm wine. The blaring bamboo trumpet warns all women against approach to their karwaries, or temples, and in these sacred bachelors' clubs they soak their senses in sagueir, and indulge to their heart's content in the vices of Sodom and Gomorrah. Most of them are riddled with disease. Decrepitude overtakes the men before 40, and the women before 30. The villages that should swarm with children are solitudes. A competent observer, who knows the north coast and the interior for many miles, tells me that the most usual family in the forest is one. The race will as surely die out as every race of nation or section of mankind will die out, which has realised their ideal of no work, and plenty to eat and drink. A workless paradise, such as exists now in New Guinea, is certain racial death. The only chance it ever had was under the slave-hunting, pirate empires of Ternate and Tidore. The "old Adam" was whipped out of the Papuans by work. Now they acknowledge no master, but their own luxury and vices.

A WORKLESS PARADISE—RACIAL DEATH.

Even with war as a stimulus to energy, sago and sagueir were able to keep the population of New Guinea low; there is little evidence that it was ever greater than it is now. Slavery and the fear of enslavement did something to keep the race moderately virile and fertile up to the left bank of the great river Memberano, which runs into the sea just east of Geelvink Bay, the slave-keeping Papuans extended; on the right bank there were no slaves; those alone whom the pirates of the sultans raided for slaves kept slaves; and they are far more advanced in culture than those to the east and south. Now that head-hunting and war and slavery have all ceased the race is dying. And the wealth that the sale of birds of paradise has brought makes its doom inevitable. It will never work again. Though the seas teem with fish we could get none from the natives of the various coastal villages, and they are ceasing to make sago and have it imported.

There has been talk of companies taking up land for growing copra; it has not yet come to anything; there is no labour, and without native labour even cocoanut plantations will not thrive or pay. Java has plenty of labour, thanks to the empires that have disciplined it, and to the cultivation of rice and the labour it involves, and officials speak of New Guinea and the other eastern islands getting its surplus, but Javanese labour is feeble and perturbing, and, if introduced into the waste lands to the east, it might take to sago and sagueir, and these have doomed far more virile, muscular, and talented labour (the Papuan) to idleness and extinction. It seems to me that these rich islands so thickly forested, will never lose their forests unless by subsidence into the sea, and never carry a less sparse population than it is evident they have always carried. Perhaps the modern humanitarian insistence on the cessation of war and the demand for bird of paradise plumes by London and Paris milliners will complete the havoc that sago and sagueir began, and before many centuries this paradise, in which there is no need of work or clothing, may be left, like its analogy in Genesis, to its trees and birds, the angel of idleness guarding its gateway with his flaming sword of sterility and race-extinction.

SOCIAL.

[All contributions and accounts of weddings or other social entertainments intended for the "Social" column in Saturday's issue should reach this office not later than Friday morning, and be fully endorsed.]

Sydney has been exceedingly quiet during the past week, and many have set seriously to work arranging plans for the Christmas holidays, which will be here almost before we know where we are. Then, there are the English mails to be considered, which will carry our Christmas greetings to those far away, and our gifts and cards must be posted in good time to ensure their delivery for the festive season. We all, more or less, wish to send friends across the seas something typical of Australia, and we look in vain for something new, some novelty. So far we have only seen the same kind of enamels, of stencilling, representing our birds and flowers, and Australian designs on leather work or beaten brass or copper, as we have had upon former occasions. Those displayed at the Exhibition of Arts and Crafts at the beginning of the week were certainly of a high standard, and found many purchasers. But we want more originality of thought and design for our gifts. This year there are several Australian books well worthy of acceptance, and which will show our friends our birds and flora, and give interesting accounts of Australian life and scenery.

His Excellency the Governor and Lady Chelmsford returned to Sydney yesterday morning after spending a week in Melbourne, where they were the guests of the Governor of Victoria and Lady Fuller during the "Cup" festivities.

Yesterday afternoon his Excellency the Governor and Lady Chelmsford were present at the garden party at St. Andrew's College, University, in connection with the annual commemoration.

On Tuesday next Lady King-Hall will open the annual sale of work in connection with the New South Wales Church Missionary Association, which is to be held in the new Masonic Hall, Castlereagh-street. There will be displayed a large assortment of Oriental and fancy goods suitable for Christmas gifts, also Christmas cards and calendars.

Whilst feeling proud to think their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Denman chose a Sydney florist to undertake the decorations, and our beautiful and handsome waratah as the chief feature in the decoration of their brilliant ball given at Government House, Melbourne, on Wednesday evening, we cannot but deplore the fact that our mountains have been so depleted of the glorious blooms by the gathering of the 6000 flowers required, and sent over to Melbourne. It seems sad to thing that so many waratahs, which we all love and admire so much, should have been picked and sent away for one entertainment. We shall only realise the value of our beautiful wild flowers, when we have lost them, like so many other things. It is only a little more than a year ago since a wealthy and distinguished visitor from England, who was so struck by the handsome beauty of the waratah, not only took away seeds, but plants to try and grow the flowers in his hot-house. What would he think of 6000 blooms being gathered for decorating in this part of the world?

Miss Bridges, daughter of General and Mrs. Bridges, is at present on a visit to Sydney, and is the guest of Judge and Mrs. Heydon, "Doreen," Darling Point.

It must, indeed, have been a great disappointment to everyone in Melbourne that the weather during the past week should have proved so unfavourable for the Cup Carnival, and that upon each race day it should have been so wet and cold. Fine weather conduces so much to the success of such gatherings, that for both the members of the V.R.C. and the people in general, we feel sorry the sun did not shine upon them more brightly. However, the accounts of the numerous social gatherings, of the beautiful dresses worn by many at Flemington, and of the large crowds present, all show that when the Australian man or woman is out for a holiday and on pleasure bent, rain will not keep them away. The Vice-Regal entertainments have already been fully noticed in our columns, and were most enjoyable. The social entertainments given were on a large and elaborate scale, each hostess vying, it would appear, to make her ball the most successful and enjoyable of a very gay season. Mrs. George Chirnside's ball on Thursday week was given in honour of the debut of her daughter, Miss Audrey Chirnside, who is an only child, and both Mrs. and Miss Chirnside have only lately returned to Melbourne after spending several years in England, and on the Continent. Mrs. Charles Fairbairn's dance was given for her two nieces, Miss Kathleen Simpson, from England, and Miss Valentine Osborne, from Sydney, and took place on Monday, November 4. On "Cup" night Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Payne gave a very brilliant ball, and on Wednesday evening their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Denman gave their "Waratah ball." A naval and military ball took place on Friday week, and last night the members of the Melbourne Club gave a brilliant ball. During the week there was an excellent amateur performance of "Raffles" at the Theatre Royal, which was patronised by their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Denman, the Governor of Victoria and Lady Fuller, and Lord and Lady Chelmsford. The entertainment was given in aid of the Talbot Colony for epileptics, and the mission to the streets and lanes of Melbourne. There were large afternoon teas, dinners, and dances galore during the week, and the season, despite the rain and wind, was one of the gayest possible.

The opening of the polo season in Melbourne took place on Wednesday last, when the rain again interfered very much with the game, and the enjoyment of the numerous spectators. His Excellency the Governor-General had invited the members of the Automobile Club to meet at Government House grounds, and to start from there for the polo ground at Kooyong. Over 100 cars assembled, and her Excellency Lady Denman, driving her own open car, and accompanied by Lady King-Hall, headed the procession, and proceeded to the polo ground, followed by the other cars. Lady Fuller, with a party from State Government House, was amongst those present at Kooyong.

An interesting wedding (says the "British Australasian") took place on October 2, in London, when Mr. Harry Gullett, so well-known to literary and journalistic circles, was married to Miss Penelope Baynton, only daughter of Mrs. Barbara Baynton, the author of "Human Toll," and other powerfully written works. Mr. Gullett's family are connected with politics and scientific circles in the Commonwealth. Miss Baynton is exceedingly popular and pretty, and the warmest congratulations have been showered on the happy couple. They are now spending their honeymoon on the Continent.

Each year brings its own particular novelty in the way of fancy work suitable for working little Christmas gifts for friends. This season special interest is centreing around the revival of that quaint old coloured bead work, which is so sought after by connoisseurs, and which was so popular in our great-grandmother's days. Needlewomen of to-day are reviving all the beautiful and quaint old bead bags and purses, worked after designs of old-world patterns, and some of these are worked with the real old-fashioned beads in multi-coloured chalk or glass, which some old families possess, whilst others can be bought in every imaginable shade of colour. A fashion has lately sprung up of ornamenting bead bags that are destined to be used for smart bridge parties or theatre wear, with mounts which are as richly jewelled as those that adorn gold and platinum bags. The new bead-work likewise provides occupation for the amateur enameller, whose beautiful art has lately dropped somewhat into obscurity. Now, the enameller is turning her attention to beautifying mounts for the new bags and purses. These are carried out in the same colours used in the bead-work pattern, and they allow a wonderful scope for originality as regards colour combinations and beautiful designs.

Several hundred people gathered at Holy Trinity Church, Dulwich Hill, on Saturday afternoon, October 26, to witness the marriage of Mr. Stanley Charles Stringer, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stringer, of Christchurch, New Zealand, to Miss Stella Smith, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Smith, "Endymion," Marrickville-road, Dulwich Hill. The church was tastefully decorated with floral festoons and palms, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. A. Chambers, M.A. (rector), assisted by the Rev. P. J. Evans and the Rev. S. M. Johnstone, B.A. The rector met the bridal party at the door of the church, and preceded them up the aisle to the chancel, while the hymn, "O, Perfect Love," was being sung, the music of which was specially composed by Mr. W. H. Naylor, who presided at the organ, and was assisted by a full choir. The bride was given away by her father, and wore ivory duchess satin, with an over-dress of Brussels lace, handsomely embroidered with silver crystals, and a veil of Brussels net, embroidered by the bride's sister, and a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white flowers, veiled with tulle and streamers of satin and tulle, the gift of the bridegroom, who also gave her a diamond ring. Miss Bertha Smith (sister) and Miss Edith Netterfield (cousin) were the bridesmaids, and were dressed in ciel blue crepe de chine, with fichus and basques of chantilly lace and "Dolly Varden" hats, lined with blue ninon, and trimmed with pink peaies and black velvet streamers. Their pink shower bouquets, with "Nellie Stewart" bangles, were the gifts of the bridegroom. The two little cushion bearers, Miss Heather Black and Miss Dorothy Lea, were dressed in dainty frocks of white satin, with over-dress of pin-tucked muslin and lace, and wore circle brooches of floral design, set with pearls and garnets, souvenirs from the bridegroom. Mr. J. Vivian Church was best man, and Mr. W. A. Crichton groomsman. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Smith held a reception at their residence, "Endymion," where the drawing-room was artistically decorated. The wedding breakfast was served in a large marquee erected on the lawn, and beautifully decorated with pink and white festoons of flowers and asparagus fern, the table being decorated to harmonise. Amongst those present were Mrs. Missingham (of Dunoon, Richmond River) and Mrs. Netterfield, of Goulburn (aunts of the bride), and Mrs. James East (Shellharbour), great aunt. The wedding presents, which were on view in the billiard room, were both costly and useful. Later Mr. and Mrs. Stringer left by motor car for their honeymoon, the bride's dress being a mole coloured silk crepe, and a tagel hat, with large lancer plumes.

A garden fete and sale of work in aid of the Burnside Orphans' Homes was held at Rippon Grange, Wahroonga, the residence of Mr. F. G. Sargood, on the afternoon and evening of Saturday, 2nd instant. The fete was very largely attended, not only by residents of Wahroonga and district, but by visitors from a distance. The picturesque grounds, in spite of the sultry weather, looked beautiful, and lent themselves admirably to the purpose to which they were used. The fete was opened by Mr. Dugald Thomson, one of the directors of the Burnside Homes, who delivered a happy little speech. He referred briefly to the good work that was being done by the homes, and to the necessity there was for them. He had much pleasure in declaring the fete open, and wished it every success. The several stalls were organised and presided over by the ladies of the following churches:—Variety and novelty stall, St. Peter's, North Sydney; produce, flower, and plants stalls, Pymble; sweets stall, Crow's Nest and Lindfield; refreshments, Wahroonga; dolls and toys, the Sunday schools of Lindfield, Chatswood, Pymble, and Wahroonga. Amongst other attractions there were competitions in golf croquet, target croquet, putting, and nail-driving. There were also a first-class Punch and Judy show, which proved a great attraction to the young people, and a pistol shooting gallery. A band performed on the lawn during the afternoon, and high tea was served in the grounds at 6 p.m. In the evening, when the grounds were beautifully illuminated with electricity and various coloured lights, an excellent programme of music was supplied. Vocal items were ably rendered by Messrs. Gordon and Wellington, and Miss Ward. Mr. H. de Robeck and Miss Middlehurst contributed several monologues and recitations, and Miss Brown gave several 'cello solos. An attractive exhibition of fencing was given by Mr. Alexander and Miss O'Keefe, and exhibitions of conjuring by Mr. Denver. The fete was a pronounced success in every way, and it is expected that when all expenses are paid the committee will be in a position to hand over to the homes a cheque for at least £300. Mr. W. Walker acted as secretary of the fete, and Mr. W. Alderson had charge of the musical arrangements.

A wedding was solemnised at the Hunter-Baillie Memorial Presbyterian Church, Johnston-street, Annandale, by the Rev. J. S. Scott, on Saturday, October 12, when Henry Snedden, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grant, of Albion-street, Annandale, and Pearl Winifred, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theordore Heckenberg, of Harilda, Stanton-street, Petersham, were married. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore cream charmeuse satin veiled with ninon and trimmed with silk applique and pearls, the train finished with true-lovers' knots of pearls, and a spray of orange blossoms, her embroidered veil being held in position by a coronet of orange blossoms; she carried a shower bouquet, which was a gift of the bridegroom, and also wore a gold brooch set with pearls and tourmalines (the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Grant, Scotland). The Misses Ethel and Vivian Heckenberg (sisters of the bride) were bridesmaids, and were dressed in silk Eolienne trimmed with lace and buttons; they also wore pearl brooches, and carried shower bouquets of lily of the valley (gifts of the bridegroom). Mr. Henry W. Prentice (cousin of the bridegroom) acted as best man, and Mr. Victor Arnold groomsman. After the ceremony a reception, followed by a dance, was held at Sargent's rooms, Market-street, where the guests were received by Mrs. Heckenberg and Mrs. Grant, the former wore black charmeuse satin, veiled with ninon and trimmed with silk applique, and a black hat to match. The latter was in an embroidered silk voile dress and black hat, trimmed with osprey. About 60 guests sat down to breakfast, and later the happy couple left amidst showers of confetti by motor to catch the train for Tarana, where the honeymoon was spent. The bride's travelling dress was mauve silk poplin (trimmed with a lace apron and beads, and a floral Tagal hat to match. The presents, which were numerous, were displayed in the hall.

The marriage of Mr. Archibald King Firth, youngest son of the late C. H. Firth, of Riverdale, Sheffield, England, with Miss Margerie King Miles, younger daughter of George E. Miles, L.R.C.P., of Rydalmere, was solemnised at St. James's Church, Sydney, on Wednesday last, November 6, by the Right Reverend Bishop Stone-Wigg, D.D., assisted by the rector of St. James's and the rector of Christ Church. The service was full choral, and the church was decorated by the Misses Docker and other girl friends, with arum lilies and palms. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a simple dress of ivory Duchesse satin, veiled with silk tulle, the corsage composed of old Point de Gaze lace and tulle, caught with a cluster of orange blossoms. The train was suspended from the shoulders and draped with the same lace, and finished with a large Louis XIV. bow of tulle, and her tulle veil was arranged over a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a sheaf of Madonna lilies, and her diamond ornaments, were the gifts of her mother, the bridegroom, and the bridegroom's mother. She was attended by three bridesmaids, Miss Miles, Miss Brown, and Miss Jacob, and two children, the Misses Blanche Prior and Amy Jacob. The three elder ones wore ivory souple satin, veiled in ninon de soie, softly draped and caught with bunches of La France roses; their coatees were of shadow lace, and their tulle caps were finished with a circlet of myrtle leaves, and tiny pink rosebuds, and long tulle veils. The little children wore frocks of the finest muslin, inlet with Malines lace and edged with lace frills, and satin sashes. Their caps and veils were similar to the other bridesmaids. They carried bouquets of Comtesse La Barthe roses, and wore gold expanding bracelets and pearl brooches respectively. Dr. F. J. Blaxland was best man, Dr. Oliver Lathan and Dr. John Wallace being the groomsmen. After the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Miles entertained a few intimate friends at a reception at the Australia Hotel. Included amongst the guests were Professor and Mrs. MacCallum, Judge and Mrs. Docker, Bishop and Mrs. Stone-Wigg, the Rev. and Mrs. Wentworth Shields, Dr. and Mrs. Radford, Professor Mackie, Miss M'Donald, Miss Clarke, Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Jacob, Dr. Thring, Dr. Sinclair, Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Armstrong, Dr. Harold Browne, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Walsh, Dr. and Mrs. Millard, Dr. and Mrs. Prior, Dr. and Mrs. Allen, and Messrs. Gay, Doddimeade, Keith Brown, and Walter MacCallum. Later Mr. and Mrs. Firth left for their honeymoon, the bride's going-away dress being of saxe blue Corduroy silk coat and skirt, faced with white, and a Tagal straw hat with feathers, and a white feather boa.

Dr. Herbert William Kendall, only surviving son of the late Mr. Samuel Kendall, of Braeside, Waverley, was quietly married to Miss Julia Glasheen, third surviving daughter of the late Mr. Thomas Glasheen, of Cappamore, county Limerick, Ireland, at St. Mary's Cathedral, on Thursday morning, October 31, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Father Sherin. The bride, who was given away by Dr. P. R. Kenna, wore a hand-embroidered white muslin, inlet with Cluny and Valenciennes lace, and a large hat of white Tagal straw, wreathed with white ostrich feathers. She carried a posy of white flowers, and also wore a pendant of diamonds, pearls, and sapphires, the gifts of the bridegroom. Miss Josephine Glasheen (sister) acted as bridesmaid, and wore cream voile inlet with Venetian point lace, and a Tuscan hat wreathed with pink hawthorn and pale blue velvet ribbon. Her diamond slide and bouquet of pink roses were gifts from the bridegroom. Mr. A. Grafton Purves was best man. After the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Kenna entertained the wedding party at luncheon, and later Dr. and Mrs. Kendall left by the express for Melbourne, the bride's travelling dress being a coat and skirt of natural-coloured Assam silk, and a Leghorn hat trimmed with pink roses.

Wiston, Darling Point, was en fete on Saturday, October 26, when a small sale of work was held in aid of the Woolloomooloo kindergarten. The sale was organised by Marjorie Kirkland, Olive Perry, and Iris Arnott, and they were ably assisted by Miss Meta Blaxland, the Misses Dorothy Scott, Claire Fauss, and Eugenie Moreau. Thanks to the efforts of these young folk and their friends, a sum of £19 was handed over to the committee of the kindergarten.

Fraulein Jensen entertained a number of her pupils last Saturday at an archery tournament at her residence, Glencairn, Mosman. Tea was served on the lawn.

The marriage of Miss Amy House, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. House, of Toronto, Lincoln-street, Stanmore, with Mr. J. C. Armstrong, of Hobart (Tas.), was celebrated at Chalmers Church on October 16. The Rev. John Paterson officiated. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore ivory-white chiffon taffeta, made in early Victorian style, relieved with point lace and seed pearls; also an orange blossom wreath and veil. The bouquet of white carnations and her diamond pendant, were the bridegroom's gift. The maid of honour was Miss Mary Harrison, who wore ivory white faille silk, with Valenciennes and guipure lace, and a cream straw hat with pink roses. Her bouquet of pink roses and ruby pendant were gifts of the bridegroom. Mr. W. Richardson was best man. A reception and wedding breakfast was held at the residence of the bride's parents, those present being intimate friends or near relatives.

On October 12 a most successful bazaar in aid of the Sydney City Mission Home for Children, at Cronulla, was held by Miss Bertha Crane's pupils in the School of Arts, Epping. Mrs. J. C. Hunt performed the opening ceremony, and was presented with a bouquet of wild flowers by little Miss Helen Laurence. The small stallholders were most businesslike, and looked dainty in mobcaps and frilly aprons. During the afternoon an operetta, "Christmas Eve at Mother Hubbard's," was admirably produced by the children. The financial results of the bazaar were most satisfactory, a cheque for £33 being handed to the secretary of the City Mission.

Captain Langley Webb entertained 75 members of the Sydney staff of Huddart, Parker, Limited, at dinner at Baumann's Cafe on Friday last, in celebration of the marriage of his daughter Olive to Mr. David Elder, of Ardcloney, Sunbury, Victoria. Advantage of the occasion was taken to make presentations to three members of the staff, Messrs. Howard Hinton, W. Jolly, and P. Dolby, as a mark of esteem on their approaching marriages.

A complimentary concert, social, and presentation were tendered to Mr. Joseph Lee by the citizens of North Sydney for services rendered to various charitable objects and entertainments extending over 20 years, at the Friendly Societies' Hall, Lane Cove-road, on Wednesday night, October 23. During the evening, at the request of the committee, Mr. David Fell, M.L.A., member for Lane Cove, made a presentation to Mr. Lee of a handsome gold watch, suitably inscribed with a raised monogram on the outside of the case, also a gold albert with trinket attached. When handing the present to Mr. Lee, Mr. Fell said it gave him the greatest pleasure to do so, and expressed the wish that he would live long to wear it. Mr. Lee, in a few words, suitably responded. Mr. A. Cocks, M.L.A. for St. Leonards, was called upon to make a small presentation to Mrs. Lee as a token of recognition from the committee. Mr. Cocks, on making the presentation to Mrs. Lee of a handsome gold bangle, said that he was proud to know we had such residents in North Sydney, and as he looked round the hall, he saw that people from all the points of the shore had come to do honour to a man who was always ready to assist others. The local arrangements were in the hands of Messrs. W. Cherry and R. Arnold, and the whole by a committee, comprising Mr. W. Job (president), Mr. W. J. Hill (secretary), Mr. J. Mustchin (treasurer).

The marriage of Thomas, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Blackadder, of Stanmore, with Ethel May, eldest daughter of Mrs. Findlay McGruer, of Tumut, was solemnised at the Petersham Presbyterian Church on Saturday, September 21, by Rev. G. A. Gordon, B.A., the church being decorated with palms and lilies by friends for the occasion. The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, who subsequently gave her away, and wore a dress of ivory crepe de chine, trimmed with rose point lace and pearls, and a tulle embroidered veil, and wreath of orange blossoms. She also wore a pendant of olivines and pearls, and carried a shower bouquet, the gifts of the bridegroom. Miss Eva McGruer and Miss Blackadder were the bridesmaids. Both wore frocks of cream lace and aerophane hats, trimmed with pale pink poppies. Their shower bouquets and bangles were the gifts of the bridegroom. Mr. Douglas Blackadder acted as best man, and Mr. Ernest McGruer as groomsman. A reception was afterwards held in the Empire Hall, Petersham, where the breakfast was served and the many valuable presents displayed, after which the happy couple left for Katoomba, where the honeymoon was spent. The bride's travelling dress was nattier blue paillette, trimmed with Irish crochet, and a hat of cream Tagal straw, with a shaded lancer plume to match.

The Manly branch of the Grand United Order of Oddfellows celebrated its fourth anniversary in Reid's Hall, Fairy Bower, on Wednesday, October 30, when a most enjoyable entertainment was held in honour of the occasion. There was a large attendance, and dancing was indulged in, and songs were rendered. The arrangements were in the hands of a committee, including Bros. H. Clark, A. Hamilton (secretary), H. Kulhavy (treasurer), and R. A. Alcorn (N.G.). The M.Cs. were Bros. H. Clark and W. J. Moore.

A wedding was celebrated at St. Paul's Church, Kogarah, on Saturday, October 5, when Florence Edith, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fern, of Piant-street, Kogarah, was married to Albert William, third son of Mr. and Mrs. Hickman, of William-street, Kogarah. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore cream silk, trimmed with silk insertion, ninon, and pearls, also a veil and wreath of orange blossom, and carried a shower bouquet, which, with a gold cable bangle, was a gift from the bridegroom. The bridesmaid was Miss F. Graham (cousin of the bride), in cream lace over cream paillette. She carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas, with pink streamers, which, with a gold brooch, was a gift from the bridegroom. Mr. W. Hughes acted as best man. A reception was afterwards held at Brett's Hall, Kogarah, where the guests were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Fern. The bride's travelling dress was of Saxe blue and a self-coloured straw hat trimmed with cornflowers.

A pretty wedding took place at the Church of our Lady Immaculate on Thursday, October 24, when Elizabeth Margaret (Lily), third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Murtough, of Yattendon, Manly, was married to Mr. Alfred Wallace Bye, of London. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns for the occasion. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a handsome dress of ivory Roman satin, draped with Limerick lace. The court train, which hung from the waist, was finished with posies of orange blossoms. Her wreath and veil were lent by Mrs. C. Malley, of Mosman. The bridegroom's gifts to the bride were a bouquet of lilies of the valley, sweet peas, stocks, and orange blossoms, a diamond ring, and a set of fox furs. The bridesmaids were the Misses M. and K. Murtough (sisters of the bride), who wore ivory crepe de chine with apron tunics of Limerick lace, and white picture hats trimmed with white feathers, pink bebe roses, and pink streamers. They carried bouquets of pink flowers, and wore a gold and amethyst pendant, and gold cable bangle, respectively, the gifts of the bridegroom. The best man was Mr. J. C. Murtough, and the groomsman Mr. E. R. Robinson. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father T. Barry, assisted by the Rev. Fathers P. Sheehy, Sherin (secretary to the Archbishop), and M'Eligott. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Murtough held a reception at Yattendon, where the bride and bridegroom received the congratulations of their friends. The breakfast was served in a marquee, which had been gaily decorated with pink and white flowers. Later Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bye left by motor for the South Coast, where the wedding trip is to be spent. The bride travelled in a tailor-made coat and skirt of silk, and a large picture hat, with pink petal crown, lined with pink tucked aerophane and bebe roses.

ENGAGEMENT.

The engagement is announced of Norah, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. White, Belltrees, Scone, to Dr. H. V. Hordern, Sydney.

THE REV. DR. KEENAN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of 4th instant you say in the obituary notice of the late Rev. Dr. Keenan that, "in his younger days he was a priest of the Roman Catholic Church." This statement is without any foundation in fact. A similar statement in the defunct "Echo" some years ago was contradicted by a writer who knew him in Ireland and Australia.

It is true he came out in 1875 with a number of young men who were selected as ecclesiastical students for St. Charles's Seminary, Bathurst. After spending a few months at Bathurst his connection with the ecclesiastical seminary was severed. His history subsequently at Forbes, Goulburn, and Parramatta probably does not interest your readers. But he had not any orders in the Catholic Church. There are priests in the archdiocese of Sydney and the diocese of Bathurst who were shipmates and fellow-students of Dr. Keenan's. Peace be to his ashes.

I am, etc.,

P. J. DORAN.

ALL WOMEN TALK—"FAT."

Get a number of society women together, and you will be surprised how almost invariably the conversation gravitates to the subject of—Fat. People who travel will tell you that whether they visit London, Paris, Rome, or St. Petersburg, always, as in Australia, the conversation tends towards "fat." All are interested, because those who are fat wish to become thin, while those who are thin fear they may become fat. All womenkind, it would seem, has organised into an army of fat fighters, and, thanks to "Formettes," now easily victory may be theirs. "Formettes" are the only known, tested, and acknowledged remedy for reducing fatness. They are pleasant little herbal tablets, that permanently remove excess fat without dieting or exercising, and without causing wrinkling or sagging of the skin. They strengthen the system, and allow you to eat what and how much you like. ... "Formettes" are sold by all chemists and most stores through the Commonwealth at 3/3 per carton; Anthony Hordern and Sons, ... Clarendon-street, South Melbourne.—Advt.

"LAWN TENNIS IN AUSTRALASIA."

(BY DR. L. O. S. POIDEVIN.)

So far as we in Australia are concerned, although we have for some years held the national championship at lawn tennis, and notwithstanding our intense and increasing enthusiasm for the game, we have, until this week, never had a real representative in the lawn tennis library. In "Lawn Tennis in Australasia," however, which has just been placed in my hands for perusal, we have an Australian book by an Australian author on Australasian lawn tennis. This circumstance is sufficiently noteworthy, therefore, to make the publication specially welcome to Australian devotees. The book, however, in virtue of its underlying character, should have a much wider sphere of interest than the merely local. By means of an extensive and carefully selected set of action photographs the author presents the reader with examples of the way most of the leading exponents of the day execute the various strokes of the game. The photographs have been taken either "in actual match play or in match practice; not one has been posed or arranged." They therefore depict the strokes as the players make them, and on that account their value can hardly be over-estimated. Even a superficial study of these plates will serve to show how very different are the final methods employed by equally expert players in the making of the various strokes. Thus is strongly emphasised the fact that this or that hold of the racket or any particular way of hitting the ball is not essential to success, and one of the prime objects of the book, therefore, is "to present the beginner with a choice of ways of avoiding the pitfall of initial error." In order to assist in the intelligent appreciation of these photographs, the author has sought to draw lessons from each, and though pointing out the defects of this method or the virtues of that he very wisely refrains from launching out upon the sea of controversy as to which is the best grip or the best method. The descriptions like the views themselves are excellent: they are at once lucid, sagacious, and full of suggestion. Half apologetically, the author refers to the fact that in them art has been sacrificed to expediency, but in reality, to the lawn tennis student this sacrifice is less apparent than it may be to the esthete. As a matter of fact, the author, in his neglect of the studied artistic, has merely carried into practice that golden precept, the neglect of which has lost many a match and spoilt many a player's efficiency, viz., never play to the gallery. No doubt the author had this in his mind when, in the chapter on match tactics, he advises adherence to the methods that are serving you well. "The game that is good enough to give you the lead is good enough to keep to—if you can." Every player may rest assured, no matter what style or method he affects, that if he plays correctly he will do quite enough gallery shots to satisfy and please the most fastidious critic.

For the rest, the subject matter of the book is well chosen. The author, who veils his identity under the nom de plume of "Austral," is himself a player of wide experience, of very discerning disposition, of intense devotion to the game, and withal a peculiarly shrewd student of play and players. He is, therefore, well qualified to express opinions upon his chosen subject. The latter aims very largely at supplementing the lessons to be deduced from a studious contemplation of action photographs. These show us a variety of admirable ways of doing practically the same thing, but the author goes deeper in emphasising the fact that all these various methods (involving different grips, etc.) have as a fundamental basis correct footwork and the proper application of the body weight. In a comprehensive chapter on the "modern game" these fundamental facts receive appropriate treatment, and in addition other subsidiary attributes to success are introduced. Old maxims, such as "keep your mind on the game," and "keep your eye on the ball," appear under the headings of "concentration" and "striking the ball," with their dress as varied as to give them fresh meaning and attractions. The author lays great stress upon the necessity of physical fitness, and its attainment. The grip of the racket is wisely left an open question. "Footwork" and "application of body weight" are dealt with at length. The importance of these topics, of course, lies in the fact that the chief secrets of good and powerful strokes are not to be found in great muscular strength, but in timing your stroke, transferring your weight at the right moment, and following well through at the finish. Unless these things are well understood, the young player or the embryo champion can never hope to attain to the highest honours. The author seeks to unfold these secrets concisely, and yet with due emphasis. Under various headings, as, for example, "return of the service," "approach to net by striker out," "volleying," "server's tactics and tactics generally," the author supplies numerous hints and efficient methods of procedure as dictated by his own experience. "The American service," its position in the game, and how to do it are explained. There is a short treatment of "base-line tactics," "the left drive," "cut strokes," and "tosses." The author had been quite frank, and given us the benefit of his wide experience. Some may differ in certain respects from his conclusion, according to the promptings of their own experience. For instance, my own experience seems to tell me in regard to such a simple matter as "tosses" that it is better not to toss down the line or across court, according to a definite rule, as the author advises, but to be guided rather by your opponent's likes and dislikes. In other words, I think it pays before commencing any match to find out which way your opponent prefers to smash (away from him towards the back-hand corner), or across court towards the forehand corner), and in the course of the match to always aim your tosses to the side of the court that cramps his favourite shot, and make him play one that he does not like, and which he almost invariably does indifferently. Personally, I am a great believer in thinking well over the match you are going to play, and in mentally rehearsing beforehand your plan of campaign with a view to making your opponent do what suits you best, and him least. Care in aiming the tosses I have found a most important adjunct to success. More than one reference is made by the author to the centre-court short ball theory. Many will be found, no doubt, who will disapprove of the accepted efficacy of this method. To my mind length on the volley down the centre in a single is of the utmost importance, whilst in doubles I regard the centre-court strokes as of infinite value under two circumstances—(a) to enable the striker to get closer to the net; and (b) as the ideal finishing stroke. By playing his centre stroke with sufficient drop and slowly enough, the striker is enabled to get up into the volleying position fro mnear the base line with a very small risk of being beaten by the return volley, as in the case of almost any other stroke except the deep toss. The centre-court volley is the ideal finishing stroke to cross-court volleying, which, when properly exploited, should not so much be expected to win outright as to separate the opposing players wide enough to gain room for an easy and safe finishing stroke between them. The great danger of making your finishing strokes near the side lines is the danger of hitting them out, which danger is avoided by the other plan of campaign. Under the heading of the modern game, the author, in a very small space, covers a wide field studded with the fruits of experience, some of which are bound to be exactly to the taste of the reader, no matter what may be the degree of his proficiency. Descriptive accounts of the Davis Cup matches in Australasia form another special feature of the book. There is a chapter on "How to Practise," based on the sound principle that the idea in practice should be not to win matches, but to improve your weak strokes. "Match tactics" are dealt with at some length, also "Tactics in Doubles." There is an historical chapter setting out the "history of the game in Australasia," which, like the other features, is dealt with in an entirely original way. The publication of the book this week is very timely, and as the pioneer in Australian lawn tennis literature, its author is to be heartily complimented, for within its 344 pages it contains a storehouse of facts, hints, and suggestions that should easily stand the strain of the demands for knowledge and information of the most zealous students of the game in Australia.

THE BACK WARNS YOU.

"DON'T NEGLECT YOUR KIDNEYS."

Pain in the back is the kidney's signal of distress. If this timely warning is ignored, kidney disease silently fastens its deadly grip—for kidney sickness first shows itself in pains and disorders in other parts, and the real cause is too often hidden until fatal Bright's disease or diabetes has set in. Suspect the kidneys if you are rheumatic and nervous or have lame back, painful, too frequent or scanty urination, weak heart, dizzy spells, headaches, bloating or neuralgia. What you want is a special kidney medicine—not an experiment, but one that has stood the test for years. Doan's Backache Kidney Pills relieve weak, congested kidneys—cure backache—regulate the urine. Doan's Backache Kidney Pills have been curing lame backs and sick kidneys for years. Doan's Pills are made from only the purest drugs, and are absolutely non-poisonous. They are used and praised all over the civilised world.

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills

CURE TO STAY CURED.

SYDNEY PEOPLE SAY SO.

SURRY HILLS.

Mr. William C. Chambers, 41 Crown-street, Sydney, says:—"I strongly advise anyone who offers with gravel or backache to use Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. Some months ago I used five bottles of these pills, and I am pleased to say that they cured me. My trouble was severe pain in the small of my back, and gravel or gritty re-deposit in the secretions, and scalding of the same. Knowing as much as I do, I would never use anything else if I had need to treat my kidneys again. Doan's Backache Kidney Pill were recommended me by one who was cured, and in return for my cure I publicly recommend them. I firmly believe that Doan's Backache Kidney Pills will never fail to cure all who have kidney troubles."

Six years later Mr. Chambers says:—"I am still well and absolutely free of gravel, urinary trouble, and backache. Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are marvellous pills."

PARRAMATTA.

Mrs. Schellnack, Rosehill-street, Parramatta, says:—"I have always been a sufferer from weak backs and weak kidneys, but of late years I have been very bad indeed. I had severe backache and indigestion, and used to get so tired that my own weight was a burden to me. I would stoop and groan, without thinking, and plainly would have to get up gradually—you would hardly believe how difficult it was to get up. In fact every movement caused me intense torture. Many and many a time I felt I could not get up, but the children had to be looked after, and I felt that I must do my work, even if I could hardly crawl, so I'd get up when only fit to stay in bed. I can't remember all the remedies I took, one friend would advise me to try this, and another to try that, and when each one failed, everyone said I was incurable. One day I read an advertisement about Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. She lent it me, and sent it down to me. Shocking what a martyr I was. I got the pills at Pye's Pharmacy, and took them according to directions, and a few bottles cured me. When my husband came back from Tasmania, he was surprised and delighted to find me cured. I tell everyone with pains in the back to use Doan's Backache Kidney Pills."

Thirteen years later, Mrs. Schellnack says:—"Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are an excellent Kidney remedy. I suffered dreadfully before I used them, but they put an end to my suffering 13 years ago, and I am still well."

BALMAIN.

Mrs. J. Wigmore, 21R Ann-street, Balmain, says:—"Twelve months ago Doan's Backache Kidney Pills cured me of backache, headache, dizziness, and strengthened and toned up my kidneys so thoroughly that now I feel a different woman. I suffered terribly before I took them Pills. I was always in pain, and my back was so lame that I could hardly get about. Besides these symptoms of kidney disorder I had urinary trouble, the secretions being thick and cloudy, and containing a red sediment. Suffering as I was, you can readily understand that I am very grateful to Doan's Backache Kidney Pills for my quick and lasting cure. I say "lasting" because I have been quite well since my cure was effected 12 months ago. I strongly recommend all who suffer as I once did to take Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, which I consider the finest kidney remedy known."

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are sold by all Chemists and Storekeepers at 2/9 per bottle (six bottles 15/3), or will be posted on receipt of price by Foster-McClellan Co., 76 Pitt-street, Sydney.

THE OCTOBER REVIEWS.

THE DISMEMBERMENT OF CHINA.

This is a subject that Dr. Dillon, with his usual air of authority, discusses in the "Nineteenth Century." He thinks that the incompetent leaders of the Republic are fast ripening the fruits of their folly, and differs altogether from the optimistic forecasts of Dr. Morrison. In particular, he thinks that the frontier provinces are bound to go. Yuan-Shi Kai is rather aptly defined as an opportunist, whose opinions never harden into convictions. Japanese finance, says Dr. Dillon, is in a flabby state, and just now Japan is quite unable to carry out her role of guide, philosopher, and friend to the Republic. Dr. Dillon tells us that, to his personal knowledge, Japan approached Great Britain with a view to upholding the Manchu dynasty—a statement the evidence for which ought to have been given in detail, if there was to be any probability of its acceptance. Further, Dr. Dillon very strongly suspects Yuan of an intention to found a dynasty of his own—which, with all respect, can only be regarded as an absolutely ridiculous suggestion. The main motive of the article seems to be a bitter attack on Dr. Morrison.

NEW YORK POLICE.

Life in New York can hardly be described as a bed of roses, and, according to a "Nineteenth Century" writer, "police protection" is one of its most grotesque ironies. A person of apparently very shady character, who kept a gambling den, twenty per cent. of whose profits went to the police, "squealed" the other day, and was promptly murdered—he said himself that he now the police would "get him." This, in fact, is the encouraging text on which the writer bases his comment. The person who was immediately suspected of the crime was a police gentleman, who had previously shot a boy, and rescued an expert swimmer from the water, who had fallen in at his request, for fifteen dollars. For ways that are dark, and tricks that are vain, the Heathen Chinese must really take a back seat. For another instance, it is said that there are two hundred ex-convicts in New York plying as licensed chauffeurs, and in league with scoundrels of all descriptions. It is also a most extraordinary thing that in the murder case above referred to, the District Attorney was supplied with large sums by private persons to work up his case against the police—a force, says the writer, almost as much engaged in protecting crime against society as society protecting crime against society. It is hardly to be wondered at that he calls New York a "frankly pagan" community. The brokerage on crime was said by a recent Chief Commissioner of Police to amount to £20,000,000 a year!

LIFE AND PROFESSOR SCHAFER.

Sir Oliver Lodge has a few remarks in the "Contemporary" anent Professor Schafer's recent address to the British Association, which seems to have excited a great deal more comment than its author either expected or desired. The presidential address merely enunciated the commonplaces that life was a function of matter, and that there was therefore reasonable expectation that some day science would be able to express vital processes in terms of chemistry and physics. It has, of course, done so already to an enormous extent, and the residuum is not different in kind from what has been quite sufficiently explained. But Sir Oliver, who grows more and more of an obscurantist, will have nothing of this. It is not easy to see precisely what he is driving at, but he is apparently determined to insist on some sort of "life principle" which is independent of matter, and which merely manifests itself through the latter. It is hardly necessary to remark that this is either inherently absurd or violates the principle of least effort in economy of scientific hypothesis.

THE RISE IN PRICE.

The "Contemporary" has a very thoughtful article on this subject by Mr. J. A. Hobson. There has been a general rise of prices since about 1895, and all industrial countries are discovering that the price of food rises faster than money-wages. This is a direct reversal of the process to which the preceding generation had become accustomed. The explanation, says the writer, lies only very partially in the increase of the gold yield, enormous as it is, although in theory the more gold available for exchange the higher prices will be. But perhaps not half of the gold won really functions as money, and the rise of price is in the main due to growth of credit. The writer very justly points out that modern businesses take a form at which liquid assets are at a maximum, and credit is thus readily available to the extent of the capital concerned. Stocks and shares are a universal credit basis. Another rather pregnant remark is to the effect that through immigration labour is being shifted from regions of cheap to those of dear food, while at the same time such labour is developmental rather than directly productive.

KING EDWARD.

Mr. Edward Legge contributes to the "Fortnightly" a rather remarkable appreciation of King Edward VII. He dwells on the many-sidedness of the King's character, and upon the complex ability which, while he was Prince of Wales, was hidden under an air of insouciance. As a matter of fact, he had an iron will, and an almost unrivalled knowledge of affairs—though, to be sure, he had been trained by the best masters of diplomacy in Europe. Discussing the King's personality, the writer says he was first and foremost a business man; but he was also a man of the utmost kindliness of spirit, and Mr. Legge relates many instances in point. At Baden-Baden in the old days the Prince often used to make purchases at a small shop, and asked the man to come and see him if he ever happened to be in England. Long after the man was there and left his card at Marlborough House. He promptly received an invitation to spend three days at Sandringham (incidentally Mr. Legge makes some scathing remarks about Sir Sidney Lee's biography).

RECENT RHODESIA.

A writer in the "Fortnightly" has a good article on the Rhodesia of to-day. A territory of 440,000 square miles is certainly worth talking about. Probably there was never a country which for its first two decades had such a succession of evils against which to contend, but it now it is less exciting it is at least far more secure. A boom of foreign capital is no longer expected or desired, and the Rhodesian of to-day is content to get his capital out of the ground by the sweat of his brow. Rhodesia has exchanged an artificial for a real development. Gold mining is steadily progressing, though not on the boom scale, but cattle breeding is an even more important industry, and has been largely entered into—one company, for instance, has an option over two million acres, and is rapidly stocking up. The writer says that the country will one day carry 25,000,000 cattle.

A NARROW BATTLESHIP.

From the particulars which have been published in America of the prospective dimensions of the new battleship just authorised by Congress, it appears (says the "Times") that the Panama Canal is likely to have a similar effect upon her design to that which the Suez Canal had upon some of the British battleships built about 15 years ago. The vessel, it is said, will have a displacement of 31,000 tons, as compared with the 27,500 tons of the two battleships authorised in 1911, and her length will be 630ft, as compared with 575ft. But there will not be any proportionate increase in the beam of the new vessel over that of the Oklahoma and Nevada, which is 95ft. The reason for this is said to be that the locks of the Panama Canal, being only 110ft wide, would be hardly large enough to take safely a vessel with more than 100ft beam.

THE FOREST PRIMEVAL.

(BY R. M.)

"It was the forest primeval," speaking broadly, the great metropolis of the vegetation of a continent. To be more explicit, it was the semi-tropical scrub that luxuriates over the north coast of this State, in the particular region known as the Dorrigo plateau.

Being primeval, beyond all it was beautiful and proud, for the tribes of blacks that wandered through it left feeble impress upon its magnificent strength. Born of a plethora of sun and rain, of country at a high elevation, dense mists swept across it like wraiths in summer and winter alike, and mosses drooped dank lengths from many a bough. Amid the tangle of brush or undergrowth grew an infinite variety of ferns, burrawongs, tree ferns, cycads, umbrellas, and, towering most tall and slender, the graceful bangalow. Softwood trees rose in their midst straight as masts and countless as the stars in the Milky Way, whilst the kingly hardwood trunks stood out from the common herd, though their branches interlaced inextricably in the unbroken canopy overhead. Myriad vines swung as ladders up the masts, to find a system in whose profusion would baffle the skipper of the most beroped sailing ship that ever sailed. They ranged from gaunt grey cables a foot in breadth to delicate threads among the ferns, bearing orchids in bloom; they wound like constrictors about lustry trees, and strangled their life in a slow caress; they clung like lovely parasites about the carrabeens in particular, decking them from crown to base in a faery-like green mantle, suspending their weighty emerald streamers from every bough, interspersed with stag and elk horns of noble proportions.

Such was the aspect of the virgin scrub 50 years ago on this plateau, whose seclusion was protected by a great mountain buttress of similarly timbered miles. Most of its lavish brush flora is still unnamed, save by the botanist's Latin mouthful; but, to enumerate some softwoods alone, they included fig, oak, carrabeen, sassafras, cork, ringwood, yellow-wood, tamarind, white cedar, and beech. The hardwoods comprised almost every valuable timber the world can boast—red cedar, blood wood or teak, blackbutt, mahogany, ironbark, turpentine, tallow-wood, gum, and box, whilst pine, that splendid all-round standby, crested the spurs and ridges in plenty. The box-trees often attained a measure of 20ft round the trunk, and very venerable specimens of the old nobility of the vegetable kindom they appeared, wearing their huge carbuncles like honourable scars. In the brush the vine known as lawyer-cane flourished profusely, of a quality that has been proved as strong and durable for basketware as any in the world, though tested only on a small private scale.

Fifty years ago the first white-skinned invaders carried an axe into this sylvan paradise. They climbed up the trackless mountain that here separates the North Coast river valleys from the New England plateau in a manner both decisive and steep, making their way by a circuitous route that must have covered 10 ascending miles, through dense scrub scenery that deserves fame for its originality and grandeur, little known beyond locally as yet, but unsurpassed by any mountain vista in New South Wales. As eager as gold-seekers they felled the stately red cedars of a hundred years' growth when they found them in plenty at the summit. Not for long after was their transport by bullock teams made feasible, but the remorseless cedar-getters laid low all before them, intending to return and claim the booty at some future date. In the end many remained untouched, and the present Dorrigo settlers can point to their rotted lengths encumbering their farms, whilst hardly a specimen survives far or near. Beech is also a practically unknown quantity. Alas, for an irremediable loss!

The summit of the plateau presents a changed aspect to-day, bristling as it does with the stumps of the departed giants, like relics on a battlefield. The limits of the lordly scrub are being pushed back further and further, to allow for the advent of closer settlement and the essential dairy farmer, till they loom only upon the horizon. Every spring the energetic settler chooses a dry spell to set fire to the remaining patches upon his property that he has ring-barked, and the bush huts for miles around are besprinkled inside and out with layers of fine white ash floating in the air, from the dissolution of the timber belts, the clean sweep of the valuable woods before mentioned. True, a small percentage is snatched from the burning, for a sawmill flourishes, but it is chiefly devoted to pine from the ridges, and at no great distance time and cartage along the inadequate pioneer roads, combined with the distance to railway connection, make expenditure exceed profit, and the fatal blaze inevitably results.

Meanwhile, a warning rumour is floating round the world, whose meaning falls dully upon our ears. The forests of Europe are fast being decimated, and all timber takes on the importance of a great national asset in a proportionate degree. Even in our own land it is becoming yearly more costly and difficult to procure, and it is easy to predict the pinch in the comparatively near future. Our reserve is very rich, and no doubt it will not be exhausted, but it will be necessary to strip the heights and ridges, those natural features of the physiography of a country, whose robbery may materially affect its rainfall and climate. Again, the scaling of the rough back ranges is a task fraught with the greatest difficulty, as he knows well who has seen the bullock waggons laboriously hoisted up a steep spot by wire ropes, after the unharnessing of the whole team. Such spots are branded accessible; but it is into those branded inaccessible we must yet penetrate, perchance, by the more modern means of a tram rail, but at a cost of time and cash at present unreckoned.

It may be argued that an amiable science will provide us with substitutes for building material and fuel. That is counting our chickens before they are hatched; but even it it ultimately becames a fact, the day of its universal application is remote, especially in the bush. Nor does it follow that the value of timber resources would diminish; there were many who prophesied the swift retreat of the horse before the motor car, but the noblest animal has so far more than held his own. Meanwhile the Old World may call upon us for supplies, and a flourishing trade result, for Germany alone among the nations has shown forethought by planting acres of pine in the Black Forest, with highly satisfactory results to herself.

Realisation of these conditions has caused much recent attention to be centred upon the protection of Australian forests, but still this wholesale destruction continues on the timbered pioneer country thrown open for settlement in New South Wales, of which the Dorrigo plateau is one glaring example on the particularly thickly studded North Coast, an average single acre of which is as rich as ten elsewhere. There is but one remedy for the future, and that lies in the establishment of reserves, and the advent of numerous sawmills and railway facilities before settlement takes place, a step which should pay the Government by a claim on the value of the timber. At present its excess would glut the market; therefore, it is debatable whether further land should be thrown open in such a district, suitable as it may be in other respects. There is land equally suitable in other parts of the State, some to be resumed and some owned by the Crown, which has yet to be exploited, and the burden of clearing it would be a considerable lightening of the settlers' starting load.

It is only because of a fervent belief of the wisdom and foresight of a reserve policy, and a hope of its furtherance by a more public realisation of the facts, that this picture of the beauty and worth of the rapidly disappearing Big Scrub has been drawn.

"NATURE'S PLEASANT LAXATIVE."

Such is the familiar sub-title earned by California Syrup of Figs throughout the civilised world. It is pleasant in every way—pleasant to taste, pleasant in action, and pleasant in results. It stands quite alone amongst aperient medicines, not only because of its all-round pleasant qualities, but because it stimulates, strengthens, and sustains the liver, kidneys, and bowels, and in this way permanently overcomes habitual constipation. Of all chemists. When purchasing, be sure to emphasise the word "California."—Advt.

WATER AND WEALTH.

IRRIGATION IN AUSTRALIA.

(BY J.E.D.)

Wonderful results have been achieved in Southern California by dry-farming and water conservation. In Australia, where irrigation is still in its infancy, astonishing success has been met with at Mildura and Renmark. Mr. Alfred Deakin, ex-Prime Minister of the Commonwealth, is an enthusiast on the subject. It is Australia's vital problem, and Mr. Deakin was one of the first to recognise that the key to Central Australia lies in the development of the Murray waters system. Many years ago he visited India and America to make special inquiries at a time when not more than a handful of Australians gave the question serious thought. But things have changed since then. Irrigation was once regarded as the pet theory of a few dreamers and lunatics. To-day the thoughtful people of the Commonwealth see in it the salvation of this island continent. Mr. Deakin has been an interested observer of this great change in public opinion. "I do look forward now," he said a few days ago, "with a great deal more hope than I have been able to do for the last 20 years to the immediate future of irrigation in Australia. Personally I have not the slightest doubt that the costly Barren Jack experiment will be a brilliant success."

Apart altogether from the collecting and the utilising of the Murray and other waters, there is still another problem to be solved. The precious fluid is being lost in a mysterious way. It is asserted that to the west of Echuca (Vic.) a large stream of water disappears within a comparatively short distance. And, amazing as it may appear, one can obtain considerable quantities of fresh water out at sea off the West Australian coast in the Great Australian Bight. Australia cannot afford to lose water in this wholesale fashion. Mr. Deakin urges the necessity of a thorough examination of the waterways of Australia. "From somewhere on the mainland," he says, "there is pouring into the Great Australian Bight a supply of fresh water which would prove invaluable to portions of the country from which it comes. If that water can be captured and utilised it may affect a transformation in that part of Australia where water is most needed."

But even if the source of this leakage cannot be discovered, there are immense possibilities ahead of irrigation. The catchment area of the Murray, according to Mr. Elwood Mead, includes 414,253 square miles, or over 250,000,000 acres of land. Of this 43,542,000 acres are irrigable in New South Wales if the water can in any way be provided, 4,000,000 acres in Victoria, and 2,700,000 acres in South Australia. The Victorian irrigation expert has pointed out that the whole of this vast area is semi-arid. Without the use of the Murray for irrigation it can only support a scanty population. It can only produce crops of low acreage value, and the conditions of life must always lack the attraction which comes with a plentiful water supply for irrigation.

The Mildura settlement in Victoria has long since emerged from the experimental stage. It is now an object lesson to the rest of Australia. "An eye-opener" was the way the Minister for Lands (Mr. Beeby) expressed himself when he went there several months ago. He admitted, too, that we on this side of the Murray had been asleep. Something has been done at Wentworth, but a peep at Mildura convinces one that Victoria is deserving of unstinted praise. Twenty years ago the Mildura district was looked upon as a desert—almost hopeless, except for casual developments on the borders of the stream. To-day it is a thriving settlement—a garden of beauty and productiveness. Many experts consider that it rivals some of the best Californian colonies in their early stages. The people are prospering, and what is even more important, they are in touch with nature, reside amidst delightful surroundings, and are living assets, whose value to the Commonwealth it would be hard to assess. It is very seldom that a Mildura settler changes his domicile. Many of the orchards are valued at as much as £150 and £200 an acre—almost prohibitive prices. But it is not surprising that the owners of these properties, where the crops have grown to maturity, do not wish to leave. Their income is assured, and as Mr. Deakin aptly puts it, "their homes are healthy and restful, while their freedom and independence make their citizenship a greater prize than it is in city communities as we know them."

Intense culture has been reduced to a fine art at Mildura. In 1911 a community of 6000 souls (men, women, and children included) produced £500,000 worth of fruit, lucerne, and vine crops. In spite of this splendid achievement, Mr. Deakin and other ardent irrigationists regret the years, the population, and the prosperity that have been lost by the tardiness that was shown for some years after the set-back of 1892. Remembering what happened then, the leader of the Federal Opposition urges Australians not to lose sight of Barren Jack. "New South Wales," he says, "is there engaged on one of the greatest works likely to be constructed on this continent. We may confidently expect that the advantages to the thrifty and patient who settle there will not only far more than repay them for their exertions, but will furnish other object lessons, such as Mildura furnishes in Victoria to-day."

Mildura is famed for its long, wide thoroughfares. Beautiful trees have been planted at intervals along the spacious pathways, giving even the streets a parklike aspect. Deakin-avenue, the main road, is five miles long. A story is told that many years ago a man was induced to settle at one end of this avenue on the understanding that hardly any time would elapse before an electric tram would be running. The settler is still waiting for the tram, but as he is doing well the fact that he has not the same means of transit as are enjoyed by Sydneyites does not trouble him very much. Unlike Sydney, again, there are no hotels—Mildura is a dry district. But there are three fine clubs—the Mildura, the Settlers', and the Workmen's—and a coffee palace. The town also boasts a splendid free library—the Carnegie. To-day the transformation is complete, and Mildura is one of the most attractive spectacles in Australia. The houses are embowered in beautiful verdure, there is a higher level of culture than in many other places, while the opportunities for pleasurable social converse are unrivalled.

Several months ago there was witnessed the lowest Murray that has ever been seen at Mildura. All the craft were tied up. That raises the question of how far it would be possible to combine with irrigation a system of locking the Murray. The objective, of course, would be to obtain a permanent stream of sufficient size to enable a traffic by water. This means of transit is by far the most economical in the case of wool and other heavy loads.

Turning to New South Wales, good results have been obtained by farmers in the dry mallee country of New South Wales with a rainfall of from 9 to 12 inches. It is known that the Minister for Lands regards the western division as a huge reserve, the possibilities of which will be gradually determined by experiment, and which in the future will be called upon to meet the demand for wheat lands. There is every likelihood that these western lands, hitherto regarded as chronically drought affected, may yet be made suitable for agricultural settlement. At Lake Benenee, 11 miles from Euston, the Western Lands Commission proposes to water 27,000 acres by running channels from this fine sheet of water. It is typical mallee country of good prospective value, but at present is worth next to nothing. At Gol Gol, too, there are 130,000 acres of vacant Crown lands, which are considered equal, if not superior, to that on the Mildura settlement, from which it is separated only by the river Murray. The practicability of making this country carry a large population has already been brought prominently before the Government. The scheme which the Western Lands Commission has in view provides for the laying of 200 miles of channel pipes. Each man will put down his own little tank, and the Western Lands authorities will fill it once a year. The chairman of the commission (Mr. M'Master) contends that on these 1500 to 3000 acre blocks each man will be able to do his farming, and carry 1000 sheep as well.

SOME GLIMPSES OF OLD SYDNEY.

(BY EDWARD STACK.)

When Samuel Lyons, an old-time auctioneer, in the early forties of eighteen hundred, built the terrace in Liverpool-street so well known as "Lyons'-terrace," they were among the finest group of residences in the city, and were one of the prominent features in that part of Sydney, but owing to the resumptions by the City Council, they are to be numbered among the things of the past. Fifty or sixty years ago they were tenanted by some of our well-known old families, among whom may be mentioned Sir Alfred Stephen, Dr. Sprott Boyd, John Bayly Darvall, General Wynyard (Commander of the forces), John Thacker, a well-known Sydney merchant, and Miss Moore's Ladies' School. Behind the terrace there was a paddock, which extended from Little Macquarie-street (now Commonwealth-street) to Brisbane-street. Brisbane-street contained only three or four houses, notably among them a large cottage known as "Napoleon Cottage," which was for many years the residence of one of Sydney's old identities, Mr. Gregory Board, an old-time publican and timber merchant, who amassed a fortune. The neighbourhood at that time was not built upon, and consisted of open paddocks extending to the Old South Head-road (now Oxford-street), on the southern side of Mr. Board's residence extending to Albion-street (Mr. Terry Hughes's property) and Surry Hills, was vacant land used as paddocks for depasturing cattle; on the west side of little Macquarie-street was a terrace of houses known as "Gloucester-terrace." At that time, the houses were tenanted by people occupying prominent positions in life; the family of Professor Pell, of Sydney University, lived in the terrace. Adjoining the terrace on the south was a garden surrounded by a brick wall, which extended down to Goulburn-street. It was known as the "Sheriff's garden," and was in charge of a Mr. Brown, who was known as the "Sheriff's officer." It was beautifully kept, and always full of the choicest flowers. I suppose the garden occupied about half an acre. Mr. Brown was a short, stout, florid man, and took a great pride in the garden. As a boy, that garden was to me a veritable "Garden of Eden."

A few yards from here was "Market-lane," afterwards known as Wexford-street. At the time I am writing of Market-lane contained a few small houses. There was, however, one notable exception. On the eastern side was a commodious two-storied house, occupied by Mr. Frederick Garling, an officer of H.M. Customs. Mr. Garling was a water-colour painter of marine subjects of some repute. His pictures now command a high place in the opinion of colonial collectors. Many of our early yachts were painted by him. Mr. Garling could always be seen in the early morning sitting near an open window engaged on his work.

A short distance from the residence of the Garling family there was a fair-sized vegetable garden Market-lane extended from Goulburn-street to Campbell-street. In those early days of old Sydney the Chinese were almost entirely confined to the neighbourhood of lower George-street, but about the time when the name of Market-lane was abolished and Wexford-street substituted, the locality became a favourite residential quarter for the Chinese. Campbell-street 50 or 60 years ago contained a number of very good residences. A well-known identity of that day was Mr. Richard Stubbs, city inspector of nuisances, who lived in this street for many years. Dr. Jonathan Croft, a Waterloo veteran, resided at the corner of Campbell-street and Pitt-street. The Crofts were a well-known city family. In the open space on the south side of Campbell-street were the city pounds for the detention of stray cattle, etc. There were also cattle and horse yards, enclosed with high, strong post and rail fencing, in which sales of young, unbroken horses from the country districts were periodically held. These yards extended from Elizabeth-street to Pitt-street, and occupied the site afterwards known as "Paddy's Markets." From Pitt-street to George-street was another open space, occupied only by the building known as the "Haymarket." This building was of brick, and consisted of open archways roofed over. The roof was surmounted by a clock turret, in which was a clock which tolled the hours. The surrounding space on market mornings was crowded with teams from the country laden with hay and other produce. Some of the teams were drawn by horses, but more generally bullocks. The whole of this Haymarket space was about the years 1815 to 1820 the site of the Government brickyards, hence the name of "Brickfield Hill." From this same source the cool, southerly winds or squalls that were so refreshing in the summer-time were called by the old residents "Brickfielders," because they came from the direction of the brickfields, and brought clouds of red dust in their wake from the fields. The name "Brickfielder" is never used now except by some few of the old hands. The hotels, of which there were several in the vicinity of the Haymarket, did a roaring trade in providing for the wants of the teamsters and their horses and bullocks. Every hotel had displayed in some conspicuous place the sign "Good accommodation for man and beast."

Perhaps the best-known hostelry in the vicinity of the Haymarket was "Hanslow's Dog and Duck." One hotel in Campbell-street, kept by a man named Walsh, was called the "Bee Hive." Over the door was a swinging sign, on which was gaily painted a beehive, and underneath were the following lines:—

Within this hive we're all alive,
Good liquor makes us funny,
If you be dry, step in and try
The flavour of our honey.

"The Woolpack" Inn was another house well patronised by the teamsters. The Haymarket-square and the cattleyards were bounded on the southern side by Hay-street. At one corner of Pitt and Hay streets was the residence of the Rev. Dr. Fullerton (Presbyterian), and his church was on the opposite corner. A creek or watercourse from Surry Hills ran through this portion of the city, and terminated in a huge swamp behind Dickson's mush off Sussex-street.

And now to-day everything is changed. New streets are being formed, a superior class of buildings erected, and when the improvements are completed, it is hoped there will arise a new district, well laid out, and a desirable acquisition to that part of the city.

BURIED ROMAN CITY.

Further interesting discoveries are being made day by day in the excavations at the buried Roman city of Uriconium. Some of these were reported at the annual meeting of the Shropshire Archaeological Society at Shrewsbury. Mr. J. Bushe Fox, who is superintending the excavations for the Society of Antiquaries, said that the finds included a large amount of decorated Samian ware, specimens of continental ware, and fragments of querns of Andernach lava; in bronze, several brooches, a bell, a pair of shears, and some keys; in iron, knives, axes, hammers, stylli, a scythe, and an anvil. There were pieces of worked jet and hairpins, one with a gold top. There was also a fragment of roof tile with writing scratched on it. About a hundred and sixty coins had been found, ranging from Nero to Gratian, one of these bearing the portrait of Helena, mother of Constantine the Great. The best small find is a little gem from a ring, engraved with the figure of the God Pan. Five wells have been found, all stone-lined and well made. Three large houses have been uncovered, and all appear to have had some sort of portico in front of them facing the street, suggesting the Chester Rows.

One of the boldest robberies ever committed in New York was carried out by four burglars in extraordinary circumstances (says the "Daily Chronicle's" correspondent). The men drove up to the Metropolitan Warehouse with a van, and began taking out boxes of cigars. They filled the van with £2600 worth while a policeman looked on and actually prevented any interference with the men. The burglars each wore a detective's badge, and gave the constable on duty to understand that they were making a raid on the warehouse in behalf of Mr. Loeb, the Collector of the Port. The policeman believed that they were secret service agents, and kept guard while the burglars calmly removed the loot and drove off. The facts were not found out until the warehouse was opened next morning and the policeman on duty examined.

REAL ESTATE.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

The real estate market this week has been quiet as far as investment properties are concerned, but the pleasing feature of the market is the healthy condition of the sub-division sales. These keep up wonderfully well. Not only are the auctions well attended on Saturdays, but those inquiries through the week and the private sales which follow are evidence of the desire of the people to own a block of land with the ultimate object of having a home of their own.

Last Saturday there were seven sales, all well attended, and in the aggregate over £15,000 worth of land was sold. The two sales in the popular Narrabeen and Cronulla Beach districts were successful, and good prices were obtained. It was the third sale of the Lakeside Estate at Narrabeen, and the prices went up to as high as £7 11s per foot. As the estate is back off the beach some distance it really sold well at that price. At Cronulla prices were also maintained. No fewer than 13 lots of the Gunnamatta Bay Estate were disposed of at from £3 11s to £5 per foot. Land at Tom Ugly's Point, alongside the hotel, sold readily last Saturday at from £2 to over £5 per foot. Nineteen lots were disposed of at those figures, the average being about £3 10s per foot.

But another very successful sale last Saturday was the Neutral Bay freeholds, part of the Monastery Estate. There were not many lots to offer, but nine blocks were sold at from £5 to £20 per foot. Some of the very best of the water frontage allotments still remain.

The popularity of the Epping district, with its beautiful orchard country and its elevated position and health-giving qualities, has induced many to make inquiries for land in that quarter. Evidence of this was forthcoming last Saturday at the sale of the Grand View Estate, where there was a large attendance, including many visitors to the district for the first time, and these people bought freely. The best of the blocks sold rapidly at from 30s to 35s foot, but the average price of the 31 lots disposed of was 24s. The garden blocks at the back sold at prices from £11 10s to £46 each. Since the sale there has been quite a demand for the unsold blocks, and the auctioneers, Messrs. Hardie and Gorman, have disposed of a number this week. The medical profession have favoured the mountain air along the line from Strathfield to Hornsby, and, Epping being central and handy to the city, a big demand for houses is reported locally, but they are not to be obtained.

At Flemington last Saturday good building land realised from £2 to £3 per foot.

The indoor sales this week were well attended, but business was slow all round. There was plenty of bidding, but few properties were disposed of from the rostrum. The chief sale was the property occupied by Messrs. Sargent, Ltd., in Market-street, which was sold under the hammer by Messrs. Raine and Horne for £15,000. The purchasers were Sargent's, Ltd. This property was sold by order of the executors of the late Sir Daniel Cooper, K.C.M.G. It is centrally situated, on the southern side of Market-street, between George and Pitt streets. The land has a frontage of about 41ft to Market-street by a depth of 88ft. The land was leased to Messrs. Bennett and Wood on a 25 years' lease, at a ground rental of £400 per annum. Fourteen years of the lease has yet to run. Messrs. Bennett and Wood sub-leased to Sargent's, Ltd. Now Sargent's, Ltd., have become the purchasers of the freehold.

Casey's Hotel, George and Liverpool streets, which was reported in last week's sales as having changed hands, was sold to Mr. Trautwein for £20,000. The property has a frontage to George-street of 37ft by a depth along Liverpool-street of 70ft. This works out at £810 per foot on the George-street frontage, or £11 11s 6d per square foot on the block. This is regarded as an excellent price, and is evidence of the great progress this end of the city is making in land values. The agent for the sale of the property was the Central Property Exchange.

At yesterday's sale at the rooms of Messrs. Richardson and Wrench there was good bidding all round, but no sales of any note were effected. From £7 to £10 per foot was offered for land at Stanmore; at Randwick £960 was offered for a residence, which Mr. Greer said he would take £1000 for; two cottages at Croydon, £900 was bid for, while good offers were made for other properties, but these were all just below the reserves.

On Thursday Messrs. Raine and Horne sold 45ft of land at Randwick (Frenchman's-road) at £6 per foot, also land at Bellevue Hill at £5 per foot, and at Gladesville at £2 7s 6d per foot.

As an instance of the continued demand for land recently sold in subdivision lots, Messrs. Hardie and Gorman this week added to their last Saturday's sales by private contract about 20 lots of land at Hurstville, Dulwich Hill, and Epping. This represents about £1100 worth of land.

The Rosebery Park model suburb is making splendid headway. The sales have already got up to £23,000. This represents about 4000ft frontage of land. The price maintained is £3 per foot, but this week three allotments were sold at £3 10s per foot. This estate has about 64,000ft frontage, with about 14 miles of street frontage. This week Mr. Stanton disposed of a block to the Methodist Church of 300ft frontage. It was almost a gift, the price paid by the church being simply nominal.

Messrs. Stanton and Son have had a record year in connection with the sale of properties in the garden suburb of Haberfield. The sales for the year just closed amount to £69,000. This is £2000 in excess of last year. It represents the building and selling of an average of six cottages per month.

There are still many inquiries for property in the Cronulla district. Both the auction and private sales are good, and it looks as if the agents are going to have a record season. The next auction is to-day, and then Thorne's Estate, by Messrs. Richardson and Wrench, on 23rd inst. There are several sales to follow.

The private sales effected by suburban agents this week have been good. In the Western Suburbs quite a number of cottages were sold at from £400 to £2000 each, and three brick shops on the Parramatta-road, Annandale, for £2400. Land at Burwood brought £3 5s per foot. On the North Shore line a cottage residence at Chatswood sold for £1160, and several others from £300 to £800 each in the different railway suburbs on that line. At Watson's Bay, in the Eastern Suburbs, a stone cottage on New South Head-road sold for £680.

There is yet to be another addition to the ranks of the city auctioneers and land agents. Mr. William V. May, a London auctioneer and land agent, who has had a large experience in connection with the transfer of property, has established himself in business at the E. S. and A. Bank-buildings, No. 72B King-street, Sydney. At one time in the course of Mr. May's professional career he held the position of chief officer in the survey and compensation department of one of the English railway companies (the S.E.R and L. C., Dover), and during that period property taken under compulsory powers or otherwise to the value of over two millions passed through his hands.

To-day's subdivision sales are numerous, and comprise a very fine choice of sites. Messrs. Richardson and Wrench have three sales for this afternoon. One is the great subdivision of the Knightley Estate, at Pittwater, near the celebrated Hole in the Wall, and also handy to the ocean beach. The second sale will be at Mosman, on the Upper Spit-road. It is good building land, close to the tram, and includes water frontages to Middle Harbour. The third sale is the Mount Pleasant Estate, at Normanhurst. This is a new suburb, on the high lands near Hornsby, and adjoining the Loretto Convent. These are beautiful sites, 600ft above sea-level.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman will to-day offer the Broad Road Estate at Maroubra. This is the widest road in the State, 198 feet, and it is the second sale that has taken place of this land. The previous sale was most successful.

Messrs. Raine and Horne will conduct two sales this afternoon. One is at Artarmon, a second subdivision of the Artarmon Estate, consisting of choice building sites, with frontages to several made roads. The property is close to the Lane Cove-road, and in the heart of an up-to-date suburb, within easy distance of Sydney. The second sale by this firm will be the Hilltop Estate, in the Sutherland district. This subdivision forms part of the early selections in the original Holt-Sutherland Estate. It is handy to the train, and is one of the highest points in the district.

Messrs. H. W. Horning and Co. will offer some good land at Kogarah, right in the heart of the suburb. The lots are in the midst of good residences, and about two minutes from the railway station.

The Haymarket Permanent Land, Building, and Investment Company, Ltd., will conduct a sale this afternoon at the famous Cronulla. It is also known as the Hilltop Estate, and is situated in the centre of the highest country in the Port Hacking district, and surrounded by the favourite fishing centres, and also within a few chains of Yowie Bay.

Messrs. Forsyth and R. B. Paterson hold a sale this afternoon at Wentworth Falls. This district has made such excellent progress that the supply of land is not as great as it was. The subdivision to be offered to-day is the Brasford Estate. It has been subdivided into 15 allotments, within easy distance of the station, and handy to all the sites.

New estates still flow into the market, and the auctioneers' books, giving dates of sales, are filling fast. Bookings have taken place right up to Anniversary Day. As an instance of the amount of work auctioneers are asked to get through on a Saturday, Messrs. Hardie and Gorman have four sales announced for 23rd inst., viz., at Terrigal, Randwick, Strathfield, and Wahroonga. This is probably a record for one day. Messrs. Richardson and Wrench have quite a number of dates on which they hold three sales, and Messrs. Raine and Horne have two and three sales on one day; but none of them have yet tackled four on a Saturday.

Another Hill Top estate is to come under the hammer next Saturday. It is at Concord, by Messrs. Hardie and Gorman. This is the second subdivision of this estate. The first sale went off smartly, and every allotment was sold.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman have also near dates fixed for sales at Rose Bay, Auburn, Randwick, Pymble, and other places.

On the 30th inst. Messrs. Batt, Rodd, and Purvves will offer Smith's paddock in the heart of Five Dock. It comprises business and home sites.

Next Saturday Messrs. R. T. Forsyth, and Messrs. Stack and Co., conjointly, will sell the Parramatta Park estate, facing the park. The subdivision comprises 32 choice lots overlooking and adjoining the park lands.

The Carlisle estate at Mount Victoria is to be offered at auction on Saturday, 30th inst., by Messrs. Horning and Co.

There is to be a sale next Saturday of land at the celebrated and much-sought-after Vaucluse Bay. Messrs. Richardson and Wrench will sell a subdivision adjoining the land recently resumed by the Government.

NURSE RECOMMENDS CUTICURA REMEDIES.

"It is now more than twelve months since the skin on my hands became rough and itching. I tried simple dressings and several patent ointments but they only eased them for a time. If I did any washing the acute irritation afterwards was terrible. It would make me up at night. The neighbours of the skin turned to deep ruts. I have had to wear gloves night and day for a long time. I had to stay at home for a whole month and not take cases, because the disinfectants I used in my profession only aggravated the irritation. I sent away for several samples of different cures at different times, but until I got Cuticura Ointment and Soap I had no real relief. After using the sample box of Cuticura Ointment my hands became easier, but they had been bad for so long an the cure were so very dear that I had to use four boxes of Cuticura Ointment before I had a complete cure. I began to think they never would be right again, and if I had not persevered with Cuticura Ointment they never would. When I have been at my case, I have shown them to several doctors, and have had ointment from them, but I only had temporary relief. I shall only be too pleased to recommend the Cuticura Remedies wherever I come across any skin troubles." (Signed) Nurse H—, 232 Dudley-road, Wolverhampton, England, May 9, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world a sample of Cuticura Ointment, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to R. Towns and Co., Dept. 59 K Sydney, N.S.W.—Adv.

HOMEDALE HEIGHTS ESTATE is just a continuation of the best selling part of our Old Homedale Estate. We allude to that part which fronts the deep, clean water of Oatley Bay—a picturesque arm of the George's River.

The blocks fronting the bay range in size from one to two acres—just the right size, soil—and conditions for raising the best poultry and ducks.

In addition to this, the estate comprises a number of splendid home sites on high ground and commanding great views. The air is as pure as that in the Mountains and a more perfect place to bring up a healthy family—to say nothing of the ducks and chickens—it would be hard to find.

This property is one of the "quick selling" variety, so don't let the grass grow under your feet, but come in for your plan to-day.

LET YOUR RENTAL BUY YOUR HOME!

It is so easy to become the possessor of your own home—free from the harassing fear of the serious lifting of your rental. Give this matter immediate consideration. It means much to you now—it will mean more and more to you as the years go by.

Do you wish to live under the healthiest, pleasantest, most consental conditions? Do you wish to save yourself much money? Do you wish to live in your own home—absolute master of it—rent free—happy? Do you wish to avoid the unpleasant feeling that, after 20 years' of rent-paying, you own nothing more than a batch of rent receipts?

It is almost unnecessary to put these questions to oneself. Still, put them to YOURSELF, and you must sensibly answer them to your own advantage. And the advantage is, shortly, OWN YOUR OWN HOME AT HABERFIELD.

If you have only Fifty Pounds to pay as deposit we can deal with you at HABERFIELD. Our Easy Terms of repayments, on a 5 per cent. basis, will astonish you. In most cases the repayments are practically less than the property is worth on a rental basis.

Modern, artistic cottages are available for purchase at from £395 to £475. The cottages are built under the Haberfield SYSTEM OF CONSTRUCTION, which, by eliminating many ordinary building and contingent expenses, is money saving in the extreme. Every cottage is attractive, dignified, and distinctive in exterior design, and each interior is embellished with appropriate regard to the general scheme.

The design of "Sydney's Garden Suburb" always aimed at realising fully this title. The wide, tree-lined streets, the large, open, park-like spaces, the fine grounds and gardens surrounding the handsome homes, give a true sense of living under the most healthful, pleasant conditions.

The shops are confined to a definite restricted area, and no building may be produced which will intrude a jarring note into the general harmony of the whole scheme.

Then, the almost settled intention of holding an annual Regatta on the Haberfield Canal has drawn attention to "Sydney's Garden Suburb" as "The Henley of Australia." As natural advantage and artificial betterment confer so much on this delightful district, you cannot do better than make an immediate investigation of the liberal offer made to you to acquire a house or home site in this neighbourhood.

There are many potent reasons why you should act immediately in securing a home of your own. Sydney Suburban Property—especially that convenient to the city—is steadily and surely increasing in value. Haberfield Homes are a grand investment. Their value must materially increase.

Haberfield is conveniently situated, being but 20 minutes from the heart of the metropolis. Take Abbotsford or Haberfield tram in George-street, and alight at O'Connor-street. By "through train" to Summer Hill the journey is 10 minutes.

RURAL CRICKET.

Nearly every little rural centre has its cricket club, the members of which manage to arrange ten or a dozen matches with neighbouring clubs or shearing sheds during the season. Twenty-five is an average enrolment of members, which at 5s a man provides all the equipment necessary for the game, without necessity of batting fee or other incidental charges, save luncheon subscription, when a visiting club is being entertained. The pitch is generally the raw earth chipped to an even surface, and covered with a mat, though sometimes a quantity of ant-bed material is put on the pitch and stamped compactly. Overspread with a mat it makes a good substitute for the more expensive concrete. Match playing and practice are generally indulged in on Saturdays, but during the busy times of harvesting and shearing Sundays are not objected to. A cricket match always evokes the keenest interest in each community concerned, and the ensuing issue of the local newspaper is sure to contain a detailed and glowing account of the Homeric contest, generally contributed by the secretary of the successful side. A 20-miles' ride through the bush to meet a rival team is considered no hardship by ardent country cricketers. Last year a team had an engagement with another at a place about 23 miles distant. Starting at dawn, the members reached the trysting spot about 9.30, to learn that the match was "off" on account of the sudden death on the previous evening of the patriarch of the settlement, whose ramifications of relationship extended to nearly every one chosen to play for that particular locality, as it did also in the case of a neighbouring club pitted for the same day against a team at a place 12 miles further on. There was no telephone available to be utilised to avert this contretemps, affecting two other teams, but some of the players suggested that the team straightway ride the 12 miles and meet the other disappointed team. This was done, and great was the surprise created when the team arrived at 11.30. A few words of explanation ensured a hearty welcome to both a game and the dinner provided for the expected visitors. After a strenuous trial of skill the visiting team reached home about 10 o'clock at night—not exactly "as fresh as paint," but satisfied that it had practically demonstrated the members' ardour in the cause of the good old game.

The cricketers' dinner is always a bright, outstanding feature of the arrangements. The home players by subscription provide for the visiting team. The meal is sometimes partaken of al fresco under some umbrageous gumtree, or, maybe, some selector's near-by residence is the scene of this pleasant function. The dining-room may be so circumscribed as to be incapable of accommodating at one sitting the 20 odd cricketers, and in that case the entertaining team, with the spirit of hospitality typical of the bush, stand back to a man, and allow their guests to regale themselves first. But if the accommodation is limited there is no shortage about the bill of fare, which provides a meal as satisfying and toothsome as obtainable at the average country hotel. To bring about this consummation must often rack the brain and try the resourcefulness of the housewife entrusted with the onerous task.

The bush cricket field is usually situated on a flat beside some tree-fringed stream, or is a cleared patch reclaimed from the "forest primeval" on some selection. Conditions for expert play are mostly wanting. The outfield retains its minor natural protuberances, which give to the flying ball a very erratic course at times. Half-burnt logs and isolated trees remain in that part of the arena of play known to cricketers as the "country"; while rabbit-burrows are not unknown, within reach of the boundary drive. Last year play was temporarily suspended in a match played up country on account of the only ball on the field being driven into a gaping burrow, and more than once the ball has been "treed" or "logged," with resultant delay of play. Year by year cricket retains its fascination for the sons of the soil, who cheerfully accept these inherent limitations, and disabilities as "all in the game."

In the hinterland of our State, while tennis is popular among bush dwellers, on the whole cricket is the favourite outdoor diversion. Its effects as a healthy recreation and means of instilling principles of fair play, manly instincts, and pluck, are as potent there as in scenes where the game is played under more favourable circumstances. But nowhere does more enthusiasm or gusto, relatively speaking, enter into the friendly battle of skill than on the rural cricket field. The traditions of the national game are perpetuated in the remotest part of this outpost of the Empire, to the betterment of the national character, and as an outward and visible emblem of our connection with the heart-centre, whence the game emanated.

SOME NATIVE TREES AND SHRUBS.

Clearing the bush and scrub away to erect a new house, the writer came across a pair of little saplings with stems about one inch in diameter, the leaves were quite ornamental, and it was decided to spare one of them. Now, 10 years later, we have the result. And what a glorious result! The tree—for such it is now—stands to a height of 16 to 18 feet, in tall, pyramid form, clothed from about three feet from the ground to its top with its leafy mantle. The leaves themselves are picturesque in their life, but through the winter one here and there has finished its life work, and adds to the beauty of the whole by turning a deep red, looking at the distance as if the tree was bearing large red flowers. In September of most years every leaf joint begins to show flower-buds, which gradually open, until in December the tree is covered with blossoms like a mantle of snow. The flowers are shaped like snowdrops, with pretty fringed edges, and are white or pinkish lilac in colour. The bloom lasts for a long time, and after it falls it is followed by berries, which turn a beautiful bluish purple, and make another source of beauty to remain on the tree until the blooms appear again next year. This tree is sometimes called blueberry ash. Botanists call it Elaeocarpus cyaneus, and it is worth a place in any shrubbery.

In the naming of wattles, there is no end. Every locality seems to have its own pet species, and some varieties are intensely local. Acacia obtusata is a variety that the writer has seen but in one locality—the neighbourhood of Talong, on the southern line. It was very plentiful there. It is a tall shrub, from three to six feet in height, and about the same spread. Its leaves or phyllodes, as the botanists call the flattened leaf-stems doing duty for leaves, are about half an inch wide, and point upward at an abtuse angle to the stem. During the winter months every branchlet terminates in a great bunch of the typical fluffy sulphur-coloured balls of the wattle in even greater profusion than most other varieties. The blooms preserve their beauty for a long while either on the bush or as cut flowers. The intense yellow colouring seems not only to pervade the flowers, but the stems and "leaves" as well turn a yellow colour, and add to the golden hue of the bush, as a whole. The beauty of this shrub as a specimen plant for the lawn has hardly been realised. It is very hardy, and may be seen flowering when its branches are weighed down with snow and frosts intense enough to remain in the ground around it right through the day.

The lilly-pilly tree (Eugenia smithii) generally grows near the water level of deep sheltered creeks, where its dark-green, shiny leaves make it a conspicuous object amongst the more sombre bu surroundings. The flowers are small and white, rather inconspicuous, but are followed by berries of a pretty lilac colour. The berries are about three-quarters of an inch in diameter, and have a hard seed in the centre, but are covered by a watery, sweet flesh, about an eighth of an inch in thickness, that is quite pleasant to the taste. The tree, although its native habit is in such crammed places, does well in the open. There was one at Lavender Bay Garden with a spread of nearly 50 feet, and quite 30 feet in height. It forms an extremely handsome tree. There are other varieties growing in the other States which are even more suitable for cultivation than Smithii.

ITEMS.

A veterinary club has been established at Pyramid Hill (Vic.) by the local stockowners, who have undertaken to pay a vet. £150 a year as a retainer. A scale of fees has been agreed upon.

There is a strong rural demand in Victoria for an effective pure seeds law. Through importation and tainted seed most of the weed pests have been introduced. Although this is known, nothing is done to remove the cause.

The Victorian Government has appointed three irrigationists to assist with advice settlers at Rochester, Tongala, and at Shepparton. They will send in monthly reports to the Commissioner as to the progress of the settlements.

A Richmond River farmer, whose dairy herd numbers 41 on 71 acres, for the past nine months has averaged £48 17s 9d. The average number of cows per month would be about 30. During that time he has paid into the bank £440 9s 11d.

The chairman of the Queensland Farmers' Union, Mr. Roberts, says the time is past when their representatives in Parliament should be the joint in the tail of the Liberal party. It was the intention of the union to become an independent entity in politics as soon as possible.

An influential committee has been formed in London to raise £10,000 for the purpose of establishing a Chair of Agriculture at the Queensland University. Mr. R. Christison, who has given £1000, has promised that if £9000 is subscribed he will make up the balance. Four steamship companies in the Queensland trade have promised £1000.

Friction has arisen in Victoria between the State Minister for Agriculture and the Federal Minister for Customs as to the wages which are being paid in the beet-growing districts. The latter said the rates were too low, when Mr. Graham pointed out that if the men worked they could earn 12s per day, or 7s more than was paid in the United States. He says thet if Mr. Tudor carries out his threat of insisting that a standard rate of 8s per day be paid, instead of the present method of payment by results, the growers will be forced to discharge all the men who cannot reach a certain standard of efficiency.

On the wheat farm sheep will play a more and more important part in the rotation of crops as the land becomes dearer. And rotation will become an absolute necessity.

Lamb and mutton will probably be the main products on the wheat and sheep farm. Wool will be a by-product. Whatever breed is used two general principles must be followed—the sire should be purebred, and the dam possess a roomy frame and robust constitution.

Sheep are a great benefit on the farm apart from the direct monetary return they yield. They clean up the fallow and weeds, and fertilise the land at the rate of about 3lb of liquid and solid manure per day, thus adding humus to the soil.

Alternating wheat crops with bare fallow tends to deplete the soil of humus, and running sheep on the land helps to restore fertility.

Sheep keep weeds down. As a South Australian farmer put it:—"It is a much happier and more economical plan to let the weeds walk to market as mutton than to chase them round the paddock with a cultivator."

In South Australia, when rape and peas were tried in rotation with wheat, the results, as far as the wheat was concerned, were fully 20 per cent. better than the returns from the bare fallow system.

In the "Agricultural Gazette" the dairy expert, Mr. M. A. O'Callaghan, gives the following method of estimating approximately the amount of cheese which may be made from a given quantity of milk:—Ascertain the fat test of the milk, multiply it by the number of pounds of milk, and divide by 100, thereby obtaining the number of pounds of butter fat available for cheese-making.

THE WOOL TRADE.

GREAT INHERENT STRENGTH.

Large catalogues, attractive selections, and excellent clearances at recently established rates have been the features of the auctions in the Sydney market this week. Buyers were in full attendance—back from the Brisbane series last week, when record offerings were made—and all sections operated freely, extreme values being paid for super wools. This is what might reasonably be expected, considering the inherent strength of the wool supply position on the one hand, and the excellent state of trade on the other. We are now in the fifth month of the current statistical year, about three-quarters of the clip has been shorn, and the decrease in the wool receipts in Sydney to date, and in Victoria to Saturday last, totalled 186,297 bales, a decrease of 22 per cent. compared to the corresponding period last year. The occasional rains of late may have steadied receipts to a slight extent, but will not materially alter the supply prospects as made in previous estimates. This, coupled with the favourable outlook in Europe, as far as the war in the near East is concerned, the reduced quantity of wool that will be offered in London for the year ending December next, and the result of the Presidential election in the United States, makes the situation an exceedingly favourable one for the disposal of the balance of the Australasian wool clip.

According to a private cable from London yesterday the probability is that 92,000 bales will be available for the next and last London series, including 7000 bales of old stocks; as compared with 128,000 bales at the corresponding series last year. The list does not close till Monday week next, and the sales open November 26. If that estimate of the quantity to be offered is correct, there will be a decrease in London for the year of 136,000 bales. Through difficulty in connection with industrial disputes, there will have been only five series of sales for the year ending December next, instead of the usual number. The quantities compare as follows:—

Series, 1912.	Bales.	Series, 1911.	Bales.
1	180,000	1	196,000
2	275,000	2	232,000
3	262,000	3	268,000
4	127,000	4	173,000
5	97,000	5	132,000
		6	126,000
Totals	941,000	.....	1,077,000
Decrease, 136,000.

What the prospects are like for next year naturally depends largely on Australasian production this season, as well as next. A material shortage is inevitable in the clip now mainly shorn, and through the poor lambing no great improvement can be looked for next year. Under these circumstances, with no setback to trade in spite of wars and rumours of wars, the prospects of supplies being below rather than within trade requirements are exceedingly bright. In addition to that aspect of the supply and demand position, there is the exceedingly gratifying election of Dr. Woodrow Wilson to the Presidency of the United States, which ensures to American wool-users a lower tariff as soon as the legislative machine can be set running. Fortunately there can be no more vetoing of tariff bills by Mr. Taft. The House of Representatives was Democratic, the Senate now becomes Democratic, the President and Vice-President-elect are Democratic, and the Democratic ticket includes a lower wool tariff that will admit of American wool-users securing a far wider range of the staple in Australia, London, and other markets than is possible under the present prohibitive tariff. How long it will take to overcome the obstruction of Mr. Taft is mere conjecture; but as wool supplies are very light this season, and must necessarily be of moderate dimensions next season, there should be room to put a little wool away on American account if the tariff drops from 5½d per lb duty on greasy to something like 2½d before many months have passed by.

Under all the circumstances there is a very close connection between supplies and requirements to-day, as well as prospective supply and demand before next season's clip becomes available in quantity. The trade has to face a shortage this season, which bids fair to be below the demand even with the handicap of a prohibitive American tariff, and we cannot see any improvement in the supply position before the Wilson-Underwood regime releases the United States wool-users from the thrall that has oppressed them so long.

How Sydney wool receipts to date compare with the corresponding period of last season may be seen as follows:—

BY RAIL.

With such an outlook as the present buyers have operated very confidently during the week in Sydney and in interstate markets, including Adelaide on Monday last. At times faulty and inferior descriptions have been easier, but generally all good wools, both merino and crossbred, have realised late full rates. THE WEEK'S AUCTIONS.

On the four selling days this week ten catalogues were submitted, aggregating 46,792 bales, of which 43,233 bales were realised under the hammer, bringing the total offerings for the season to 225,835 bales, and the sales at auction to 208,094 bales, a decrease of 56,388 bales and 54,272 bales respectively. The larger proportional sales at auction indicate the more satisfactory level of values this season, and the readiness of owners to accept current rates. One catalogue this week cleared every large lot at auction. All sections of buyers have been competing freely, the Continental operators securing the bulk of the purchases. Yorkshire, however, keeps well in evidence, Japan is active, and orders are being filled on American account.

The week opened with two catalogues, totalling 10,497 bales, of which 9484 were sold at auction. There was an attractive selection, almost wholly of greasy wools, the display of scoureds being very small. The offerings comprised a large proportion of good useful wools, with a number of super lines. Greasy sold to /16, paid for 15 bales c. of GWM/Yass, a very bright wool, of excellent quality and free. 6 bales the same brand made /14½, while 20 bales sup com e of JMS/Burindi (Barraba) realised /15½, 27 bales ex sup com e /15½, 24 bales sup com e /15¼, and 41 bales 1st com /14½, a very soft, fine-haired, bright, free wool, in excellent condition, and well classed. Scoured sold to /21.

On Tuesday four catalogues aggregated 12,264 bales, and the clearances under the hammer 11,552 bales. The selection in the greasy was a good average one, and the display of scoureds was a better one than on the previous sale day. Greasy sold to /14½, obtained for 14 bales 1st com Rhota/Mindle, 11 bales 1st com making /14½, a well grown wool of good quality, in attractive condition. Scoured sold to /22½, for 75 bales 1st com e w of W&A McC/Coomburrah (Q.).

Two catalogues on Wednesday totalled 12,531 bales, of which 11,627 were cleared from the rostrum. The selection in the greasy was mainly average to good wools, with a number of super lines, and the display of scoureds a fairly good one. Greasy sold to /14½, paid for 7 bales sup com h e of D (rev) M (conj)/Kayuga (Scone), 46 bales making /14, a lofty, bright combing wool. Scoureds sold to /21½, for Belar/B (Warren), the top line of Curranwinya/PCM (Hungerford) /21½, and 8k dman/Tinapagee (Wanaaring) to /21.

On Thursday two catalogues totalled 11,851, and the clearances under the hammer 10,671 bales. The selection was an attractive one, and included a number of super wools in the greasy, with no special lines of scoured. Greasy sold to /15½, paid for 15 bales of WTM/Merryville/Yass, a styliy, well-bred wool, of fine quality, well grown and in attractive condition. Lines to sell to /14½ were SCM/Vale, Beder/Yass, and R Burrawong (Molong).

The sales for the week and totals to date by all the brokers compared to the corresponding period last season are as follows:—

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

Sales were held in Adelaide on Monday last, when some 33,000 bales were offered. The selection was eminently suited to Yorkshire requirements. Best merino and crossbred were very firm, but faulty and inferior sorts were reported as slightly easier. Owing to "Cup day" holiday, the offerings in Melbourne were lighter than otherwise would have been the case. Better-class merinos have been in strong demand, but top-making sorts and inferior and faulty have shown some irregularity.

The offerings and sales in interstate markets, as well as New Zealand, for the four months ended October 31, compared to the corresponding period last year, compiled by Dalgety and Co., Ltd., are as follows:—

Messrs Wenz and Co., writing September 30, with reference to tops, said that during the previous fortnight the volume of business had further increased, both in merinos and crossbreds. Prices had risen about 2 per cent. for all good merinos and crossbreds, and 3 to 4 per cent. for inferior Australian merinos, which were scarce and strongly inquired after. In noils the demand was better, and prices were improving. The output of the combing mills was at a minimum.

"TAKE-ALL" IN WHEAT.

The current number of the "Agricultural Gazette" writes concerning "Take-all":—

If the disease is followed from its earliest appearances, it will be seen that plants succumb at various stages of growth, according to the time and severity of the attack, the nature of the season, and the condition of the plants themselves.

In some spots or patches where the fungus is prevalent, and the young plants are attacked early, the disease may appear before the formation of the stalk. The plants assume a sickly appearance, having lost their dark green colour, their leaves turn yellow, and soon they shrivel up and die. Again, the attack may be later, as the plants are better able to withstand the fungus, and so they linger on longer, but ultimately die. The fungus spreads from a centre, attacking the plants in its vicinity, and so dead patches occur here and there throughout the crop, to which patches the name of "Take-all" is given.

It is quite common for the wheat plant to produce its ears and look as if it were going to fill them, but suddenly, as it were, they become bleached as if prematurely ripe, and the plant dies from the root upwards. Every gradation has been met with from the "Take-all," in which the plants died young, to the "White-heads," in which the ears consisted of mere empty husks, or, if the grain is formed it soon shrivelled and did not come to maturity. In some soils, especially rather firm sandy loams, the early destruction of the plants is hardly so noticeable as on loose friable soils, and the plants seem better able to withstand the fungus for a time at least, and when they do succumb it is only after the ears have begun to appear.

If the dead or dying plants are closely examined at the root, they will be found more or less blackened at the butt; hence the name given this disease in France is "Foot rot" or "Black-leg." If such plants are pulled, it will be found that the roots break off short, leaving only a short, dark, hairy, and swollen portion attached to the stem. It often occurred that new roots had been given off by the stem above the diseased portion, and they were sometimes able to prolong the life of the plant, but sooner or later they became unequal to the task of keeping up the supply of food, and so death ensued.

The disease thrives on barley grass (Hordeum murinum), spear grass (Bromus sterilis), and on barley.

Owing to the rapidity of development of the disease, and because it is only observed after the fungus has made considerable progress, little can be done to cure the disease directly. Much might be done, however, by way of prevention of the disease, directly by destroying the spores, and indirectly by starving out the fungus. Applications of iron sulphate, copper sulphate, liver of sulphur, and corrosive sublimate have been used more or less successfully. Theoretically, it might be expected that burning the stubble does much to mitigate the disease by actually destroying large number of spores, and in practice it is found that, wherever there has been a good stubble burn, the resultant crops are free from "Take-all." Many spores are on underground parts of the stems and roots, and so we must not be too sanguine of success.

The most practical method of prevention would appear to be a resort to the method of starving out the fungus. It cannot live on the oat plant. The farmer suffering badly from "Take-all" is earnestly advised to fallow early next season, keep down by cultivation the plants or weeds that may act as a host for the parasite, and substitute a crop of oats in place of the usual wheat crop. The spores left in the soil from the diseased wheat crops are encouraged to germinate by the process of fallowing, and if the fallow be kept free from possible host plants, the spores that germinate die out. A great many spores will pass through the season without germinating, but would possibly be encouraged to germinate in the succeeding year. The oat crop now occupying the land does not act as a host, and the spores that have germinated necessarily perish. If, then, the land is fallowed up again after the oat crop is reaped, and wheat is sown after the fallow, it is reasonably certain that the "Take-all" on were reported as slightly easier. Owing to "Cup day" holiday, the offerings in Melbourne were lighter than otherwise would have been the case. Better-class merinos have been in strong demand, but top-making sorts and inferior and faulty have shown some irregularity.

TRAVELLING STALLIONS.

There have recently been brought under the notice of the Chief Inspector of Stock several cases of mares sent to travelling stallions suffering from an inflamed condition of the external organs. While the animals do not appear to be suffering from any specific disease, yet there seems to be no doubt that the affection is transmitted from one animal to the other. Owners of brood mares are advised to note the condition of the organs of stallions which they propose to use, and on no account to permit the use of any stallion which shows ulcerations. Any animal which becomes affected should be isolated, and treated by washing with a 1 per cent. solution of lysol, and the Chief Inspector of Stock will be glad if any cases noticed are reported to him, when steps will be taken, if practicable, to investigate the outbreaks.

A STRANGE FLEECE.

Mr. R. Symons, of Upper Mitcham, writes the S.A. "Register," to the owner of a sheep which possesses some remarkable features. The animal is said to be the result of a Dorset Horn-north-eastern merino cross. In ordinary circumstances such a sheep might be reasonably expected to produce wool of short staple, similar in appearance to that of any Down-merino cross. The fleece of this particular specimen, however, exhibits all the characteristics of an English lustre wool, and most approximately resembles that of the Wensleydale, a breed which is little known in Australia, and probably not at all in the central State. The wool grows on the sheep in thin, stringy locks, very closely crimped, quite different from the broad wave of the Lincoln, and much closer than the finer Leicester wool. The length averages about 8in. A peculiarity immediately noticed on first observing the sheep is the tremendous amount of yolk contained in the wool. The fibre is perfectly sound, and in quality runs up to about 50's spinning count. The sheep is a six-tooth, and is in the best of condition. Mr. Symons has preserved the fleeces each year, and intends to have the wool manufactured into a suitable souvenir.

"A PUEBLO LEGEND."

WEIRD TALE OF INDIAN FOLK LORE,

BY THE A.B. COMPANY.

Hundreds of years ago, long before the coming of the Spaniards, there existed in the region now comprised in some of the Southernmost of the United States a very high state of civilisation, of which only a few indications remain to-day. But the peoples of these old times were very intelligent and clever, and they had some high religious and moral ideals. These things are just a few that are certain in the clouds of obscurity and uncertainty in which the lapse of hundreds of long years has shrouded the history of these ancient peoples. One other thing that is known about them is that, associated with their religious beliefs, was a very beautiful legend of how a great turquoise stone fell from the realms of the Sun God, and was imbedded in the earth, there to remain until someone, beloved of the gods and the people, should discover and unearth it, when, immediately, light, and happiness, and prosperity would come to the people of Isleta. Many were the quests in search of this New World Holy Grail. Many were the adventures, the hardships, the trials, the disappointments of those who followed the search. Then came the day when a priest of high austerity and exemplary purity of soul undertook the quest. And the story of his search, one of the most beautiful, most weird, and most exciting ever told, is related vividly in clear photography in the great two-reel film drama, "A Pueblo Legend." The story was re-enacted by members of the famous American Biograph Company, in the old Pueblo at Isleta. The costumes, the weapons, the utensils, the accessories of all kinds, are those actually in use at the time of the original story, and were lent by the authorities of the Museum of Indian Antiquities at Albuquerque. The drama is a wonderful and very beautiful work, remarkable for the artistic attention to minute detail that has made the A.B. Pictures famous and as popular as famous the world over.

"INCRIMINATING CARD."

INTRIGUE, ADVENTURE, EXCITEMENT.

"For she had lovers a plenty, and plenty of lovers had she." So runs the song—and so gallops the drama called the "Incriminating Card," in which the handsome and wealthy Baroness Henoer finds enough admirers to pave a street with, and appears to like all the men who chase her except her husband, which, of course, is but natural. There is one in the bunch of admirers, however, who is specially favoured, and gets billets-doux written under the postage stamps of innocent looking postcards, and is caught by the Baron whilst reading one, and just dodges a duel by the Baron being found next morning lying quietly in a lane with his head pushed in, patiently waiting for the hearse. Things look sick for the favourite till a detective of supernatural prescience takes the job in hand. Then comes a big, long series of exciting times, and arrests, and ruptures and escapes, and confessions and third degree trials, etc. But the Baron remains dead all through, and one of the other admirers qualifies for a job as his companion in the next world and gets it. And there is very nearly a rebirth of the "cold bakes funeral meats," for another wedding, but, well, the film is a long and very interesting one, and, after all, even a baron's wife cannot help him going dead on her and staying that way when it looked like about the best thing he could do.

A PRETTY FAIRY STORY.

Once upon a time there was a beautiful princess, and as she grew up she became more and more beautiful, until she was the loveliest princess on earth. But "There is a fine beginning for a fairy tale." Who wishes to see the remainder of it? Who wants to know all about how the beautiful princess stern old father wanted her to marry a prince she had never seen and believed to be ugly, and how she ran away from the castle and got a job in an inn and waited upon people, and finally fell in love with a beautiful prince, but who ask foolish questions? Everyone loves a fairy tale. And when it is told in the form of a magnificent picture drama, with all the wealth and splendour of the Court lavishly portrayed, with all the lovemaking real, and all the fighting actual, and all the adventurous and extraordinary tableaux vividly set forth, in the liveliest possible way, everyone, of course, wishes to see it. And the fairy story of how the Princess of Lorraine came into her own is a very fine story indeed, magnificently told.

"THE DECEPTION."

FOUNDED ON ONE OF DUMAS' NOVELS.

Of the elder Dumas it has been said that his best works are those that are least known. "Il Lapidario," or "The Deception," is one of the least known, but at the same time one of the best of that famous novelist's dramatic creations. It is an extremely powerful drama, instinct with passion, abounding in exciting and splendidly dressed situations, and having all through it a deep, thrilling undercurrent of that extraordinary human sympathy that distinguishes all this great man's works. The acting in the film reproduction of the drama is just splendid, and the photography does it full justice. Lovers of the romances of this greatest of French novelists should take opportunity of seeing this—one of the least known of his works.

LAW REPORT.

(Before the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Pring, and Mr. Justice Sly.)

CHARGE AGAINST COUNCILLOR.
QUESTION OF DISQUALIFICATION.
Wall v J. Neate, Junior.

The Chief Justice, in delivering his reserved judgment, said that there were two cases for decision, and in the first it was necessary for the prosecutor to establish that the defendant had, within six months prior to the laying of the information, acted in the office of shire councillor of the A Riding of the Mount Victoria Shire, while disqualified. The information was laid on April 30 last, and it would be sufficient, therefore, if an offence was shown to have occurred during the month of November, 1911. The date of the offence charged in the information was the 17th November, on which date it was admitted that the defendant acted in the office of shire councillor by attending a meeting of the council. The magistrate's finding, in effect, was that the defendant was not shown to be disqualified on the 17th November, because the contract between the council and M'Millan, in which defendant was charged to have been interested, was then no longer in existence. There was ample evidence that at an earlier date the defendant had been interested in this contract, and that that contract entitled him, as against M'Millan, to share in the advantages of the contract. But as early as the 13th October M'Millan, having performed the contract on his side, had received and accepted the council's cheque in full discharge of their obligation to him under the contract, and the cheque itself seemed to have been met on November 1. The only question to be considered was whether appellant's contention could be supported, that though the interest causing the disqualification had ceased, the magistrate was wrong in law in holding that the disqualification itself had ceased. This question must turn in every case on the wording of the particular statute dealing with the subject. In the present case the disqualification was imposed by the words of section 70: "A person is disqualified for such office if . . . ("J") he is directly or indirectly engaged or interested in any contract agreement or employment with, by, or on behalf of the council," etc. This seemed to him distinctly to limit the disqualification to the period during which the person was so engaged or interested, unless something in the rest of the Act extended it. After citing various cases his Honor said that in the Local Government Act a conviction under section 71 for acting while disqualified under section 70 ("J"), entailed a disqualification for office for seven years; and by section 72, the councillor acting while disqualified rendered him liable to ouster on application to the court. But by the limitation, section 202 (4) these consequences only attached if proceedings were taken within six months, and he could not regard them, therefore, as supporting the contention that the disqualification produced by interest continued after the interest ceased, unless proceedings were taken within a time. As he found no other provision in the Act making the disqualification a continuing one, he was of opinion that the magistrate in this case rightly applied the law and that the appeal must be dismissed. As the case involved a novel question of considerable public importance and the respondent (defendant), as the evidence was left at the hearing, escaped liability merely through a short delay in the initiation of proceedings, he thought that the dismissal of the appeal should be without costs.

In the second case also the information was laid on April 30, but according to the admissions made at the hearing the defendant sat at meetings of the council on the 3rd, 8th, and 17th November. There was evidence sufficient to support a finding that he had had an interest in, and in fact was the real party to, a contract ostensibly made between one Kasper and the council, whereby Kasper was to supply certain fencing material to the council. This contract had been completed on Kasper's side by the 23rd September, but no payment under it had been made by the council, nor had any account been sent in for payment. The magistrate decided that under these circumstances the defendant was not disqualified from acting as councillor, and the question for the Court was whether this decision was erroneous in point of law. He thought the view that the defendant remained disqualified at the time of his acting in the month of November was entirely consistent with any inference to be drawn from the rest of our local Act. It was urged that this interpretation would enable a council to unjustly exclude its creditors from candidature for office by wrongfully withholding payment of a just demand on the eve of an election. This was merely an argument "ab inconvenienti," and was met by the equal danger of creditors seeking seats in the council for the purpose of furthering questionable claims of their own. So far as the wording of the Local Government Act was concerned, he was of opinion that the view taken by the magistrate was erroneous, and that the appeal should be sustained with costs, and the case remitted to the magistrate for adjudication.

Mr. Justice Pring and Mr. Justice Sly delivered separate judgments concurring.

In the first case, therefore, the appeal was dismissed without costs, and in the second the appeal was sustained with costs, and the case remitted to the magistrate for determination, when (as the Chief Justice remarked) it would be open to the defendant to go into evidence if so advised. At the hearing of the appeals Mr. Watt, instructed by Mr. J. J. Carroll, appeared for the appellant, James Thomas Wall, and Mr. Flannery, instructed by Mr. Joseph J. Jandelman, for the respondent, John Neate, junior.

OFFICE IN THE TRADES HALL.
A DISPUTED TENANCY.
Re G. E. Palmer and others (G. Rutter, respondent).

Mr. L. Armstrong, instructed by Mr. A. C. Roberts, appeared for Mr. G. E. Palmer and others, trustees of the Federated House and Ship Painters, Paperhangers, and Decorators' Employees of Australia (N.S. Wales branch), and moved to make absolute a rule nisi for a prohibition to restrain George Rutter, agent of the Industrial Trades Hall and Literary Institute, and also the Trades Hall, from further proceeding upon the decision of Mr. C. N. Payten, S.M., on the 23rd September, directing a warrant to issue to put the Trades Hall in possession of an office used by the union in the building. Mr. Windeyer, instructed by Messrs. Dowling and Taylor, appeared for respondent Rutter. It appeared that there was a dispute between the appellant union and the Trades Hall authorities as to the right of the former to occupy a room in the hall, and the union trustees received notice to quit. The latter, however, contended that the relation between them and the Trades Hall was not that of landlord and tenant, but of trustee and cestui que trust, and that the Landlord and Tenants Act did not apply. Appellants asked the Court to set aside the magistrate's decision, mainly on the grounds that there was no evidence of tenancy, and, if there was a tenancy, there was no evidence of its determination, and that the notice to quit was not directed to, nor served upon, the appellants.

The Court, after hearing Mr. Armstrong, and without calling upon Mr. Windeyer to reply, held that there was evidence that a weekly tenancy existed between appellants and the respondent association. The second ground of appeal was that the alleged notice to quit was not directed to, nor served upon, the appellants, but the Court was of opinion that there was evidence that it was served upon an officer of the union authorised to receive it. The appellants failed on the whole of the grounds, and the appeal was dismissed, with costs.

Accused, who is a school teacher, was committed for trial by the police magistrate at Tingha on the 25th October last upon two charges of a serious nature.

Bail was granted accused in £100 on each charge, with one surety in £100 or two in £50 each.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Judge Heydon.)
COACH-MAKERS' (ROADS) ASSISTANTS.

There was an application before the Court for a variation in the constitution governing No. 7 board, Leather Trades Group, dealing with coach-makers (roads). It was pointed out to his Honor that under its present constitution, the board had no power to deal with the assistants engaged with coach-makers, coach-trimmers, coach-painters, and wheel-wrights, because there was no mention made of them.

In dealing with the question, his Honor said that it might be open to doubt whether the Court could enter again into the constitution of a board once it was constituted. The practice had been adopted of cancelling a board and reconstituting it in the amended form. But that seemed a clumsy method, and one which might produce considerable difficulty. So, in this case, his Honor said, he would make direct representation, without this troublesome practice, for the varying of the constitution. His Honor agreed to recommend the variation sought, so as to bring labourers and assistants engaged with coach-makers, coach-painters, coach-trimmers, and wheel-wrights into the board. The county of Yancowinna and the Chief Commissioner for Railways would be excluded from the effects of this decision.

DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Judge Murray.)
ACCIDENT AT ST. MARY'S CATHEDRAL.
Baker v O'Haran.

This was an action instituted by Delia Baker, wife of Charles E. Baker, salesman, of William-street, Sydney, who claimed £400 compensation from the Rev. Monsignor O'Haran and others unknown to the plaintiff, for injuries sustained by her through the alleged negligence of the defendants in leaving a drain or excavation within the grounds of St. Mary's Cathedral Presbytery unfenced and unguarded at night-time.

Mr. Windeyer (instructed by Mr. J. W. Abigail) appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Watt (instructed by Mr. J. J. Carroll) for the defendant.

Plaintiff stated that she had visited a friend named Mrs. Coffey, who was housekeeper at the presbytery, and on leaving the premises she fell into the drain, which was unguarded. She sustained severe injuries, which necessitated medical and surgical attention, and she still suffered from the effects of the fall. Her husband had lost his position as a salesman through having to look after her.

At the conclusion of plaintiff's case Mr. Watt applied for a nonsuit, on the grounds that there was no evidence that the defendant was in possession of the presbytery gardens and grounds; that there was no evidence of negligence on the part of the defendant; also that plaintiff had not established that she was lawfully on the premises, and even if she were not a trespasser, she was bound to take the premises as she found them.

His Honor decided that there was a prima facie case to answer, and refused to nonsuit the plaintiff.

The further hearing was adjourned till Monday next.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Backhouse.)
Crown Prosecutor, Mr. H. Harris.
APPEALS DISMISSED.

Walter William Best, 32, compositor, appealed against a conviction by Mr. G. H. Smithers, S.M., at the Central Police Court on September 2 for using improper language. He was fined £5, and ordered to pay £1 for malicious damage. Accused threw a signboard into the road, and used bad language when spoken to by the owner of the board. His Honor dismissed the appeal, and ordered him to pay £3 3s costs.

Sidney Spencer, labourer, was sentenced to one month's imprisonment with hard labour, at the Water Police Court on August 19, for stealing a pair of trousers, valued at 10s 6d, the property of Mary Anchor. He appealed against the conviction, but his Honor dismissed the appeal.

APPEAL UPHELD.

His Honor quashed the conviction of Jack Lear, 22, labourer, who was sentenced to six months' hard labour for having stolen half a sovereign from the person of William Bourke on August 31. Accused was discharged.

APPEALS ALLOWED.

William Leslie Lynam, 26, and Louis Flynn, 29, appealed against their convictions at Glebe Police Court on September 20 for the alleged theft of a handbag from Martha Bushby. His Honor allowed the appeals.

SENTENCED.

Jean Young, 32, who was convicted of stealing a handbag and jewellery belonging to May Hills, on October 16, was sentenced to 10 months' imprisonment in Long Bay Reformatory, with permission to petition at once.

REMANDED FOR SENTENCE.

A recent arrival from England, Henry Jackson, aged 18, pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering the warehouse of M'Ilwraith, Ltd.

Answering his Honor, accused said he had been in this country eight months from England, and had been working at Camperdown for a firm that made lifts.

His Honor: According to the depositions, you had a burglar's outfit in your possession when arrested.

Accused: No, your Honor, they are tools I use in my work.

His Honor: What is the piece of silk for, with two holes in it; it is not a mask?

Accused: No, your Honor; I use it in my trade as a metal worker.

His Honor remanded accused until Monday.

BREAKING AND ENTERING.

Daniel Skehan, a young man, who had pleaded guilty to breaking and entering, was sent to gaol for six months. He was further ordered to find a surety to be of good behaviour for 12 months, in default an additional six months' imprisonment.

LAND APPEAL COURT.

(Before Mr. H. A. G. Curry, president, Commissioner W. Houston, and Acting Commissioner C. E. Rennie.)
MURPHY v WARD.

This was an appeal by Peter Murphy against the recommendation of the local land board for refusal of his special lease application, parish of Cumbamurra, county of Harden, for purposes of agriculture.

The Court decided that in all the circumstances the appellant deserved to have his application proceeded with as far as an area of about 235 acres was concerned. This would leave a similar area open to competition. To this extent the Court sustained the appeal, and remitted the case to the board for necessary action.

QUESTION OF 5/.

Sydney Snow, Ltd., were the defendants in a case in the Industrial Magistrate's Court yesterday. They were proceeded against by Inspector Davis for an alleged breach of the Shop Assistants' (Metropolitan Drapers) award, in not paying one of their employees, Lily Young, her full wages of 30s a week. It was alleged that 5s had been deducted one day when she was absent through illness.

Mr. Rolin, K.C., and Mr. Wickham, instructed by Messrs. Read and Read, appeared for the defendants.

After hearing argument, Mr. Addison adjourned the case till the 15th inst.

"WORLD'S TEMPERANCE SUNDAY."

To-morrow will be observed as world's temperance Sunday. The movement is, indeed, practically universal, and lay preachers of all denominations all over the world have been requested by the official heads of their respective Churches to preach temperance sermons, or in some way to give prominence to the cause of temperance.

Provision is made in the "International Sunday-school Lessons" for the study of a temperance topic in the afternoon, while many of the Sunday-schools have arranged for special temperance addresses to be followed by a pledge-signing crusade. The Methodist Sunday-school department in Sydney has issued a pledge specially suitable for children of tender years.

The whole of the Congregational churches are heartily co-operating in the movement. The N.S.W. Alliance has had a big demand for speakers and preachers for to-morrow, practically the whole of its large staff of honorary lecturers being pressed into special service for the day. The Y.M.C.A., Salvation Army, Men's Brotherhoods, and kindred institutions are also observing the day, and many open-air meetings in different parts of the city and suburbs have been arranged. The annual drink bill of over 5½ millions, and the 2700 convictions for drunkenness each year in New South Wales, are two facts to which attention will be directed. Altogether a great effort will be made to-morrow to enrol the citizens of the world against the power of alcohol.

The sermons, addresses, and Sunday-school talks on temperance will form the beginning of a week's campaign. On Thursday a metropolitan conference under the acting-president, Dr. Clouston, will be held at the Bathurst-street Baptist Church. Saturday next is to be devoted to a harbour excursion, at which representatives of all the principal temperance societies will be present.

The institution last Easter at St. Peter's Church, Neutral Bay, North, of the "free-will" system of offerings in place of bazaars and similar devices for reducing the church debt, has proved highly successful. Wentworth Shields.

The Rev. W. J. Cakebread, the departing vicar of St. John's Church, Balmain, was presented by the citizens with a handsome casket and a substantial cheque on Monday night. There was a large gathering at the local town hall. The Mayor of Balmain, Alderman Geo. Clubb, presided, and others present were Mr. J. Storey, M.L.A., Mr. J. P. Franki, and others. Mr. Cakebread replied, and thanked the people of Balmain for the kind manner in which they had marked his leaving Balmain.

On Sunday next Archbishop Kelly intends to visit Manly, and to confer the Order of Deaconship in St. Patrick's Seminary. During the afternoon he will administer confirmation in the parochial church. ONE OF THE BEST-KNOWN MEN IN THE GOLDEN WEST SAYS THIS OF CLEMENTS TONIC.

"I was a martyr to headaches; my nerves went to pieces. Since I took this medicine I have neither pain nor ache."

Mr. Joseph Scattini is Forest Inspector to the West Australian Timber Company, a position he has held for years. He is emphatic in his opinion of the value of this great nerve and blood medicine in restoring loss of vitality and curing sick headache. Here is his letter, straight to the point. Read it —

"CLEMENTS TONIC, LTD.

"I owe a duty to speak of the benefits received from your splendid medicine, CLEMENTS TONIC. About twelve months ago my constitution was thrown into a regular disordered state. I believe my liver was the chief cause of the trouble, for I was A MARTYR TO HEADACHES, day after day they were my companions for months. Then my kidneys became very much affected, and would cause intense pain, afterwards MY NERVES WENT COMPLETELY TO PIECES. I was quite six months like this, going from bad to worse. I made every effort to get better. I had taken a number of medicines without the slightest benefit. A friend from Victoria—loud in his praise of Clements Tonic—WAS SURE IT WOULD CURE ME. I have taken five bottles of CLEMENTS TONIC, AND HAVE NEITHER PAIN NOR ACHE, and never felt better in my life.

"(Signed) JOSEPH SCATTINI."

This letter proves the undoubted powers of this medicine for restoring health after long illness, dengue fever, typhoid, or for the rapid relief of insomnia, weak nerves, the relief of constipation, poor appetite, biliousness, sick headache, and debility. ALL CHEMISTS AND STORES SELL IT.—Advt.

SLIGHTLY USED PIANO BARGAINS AT PIANOLA HALL.
There is always an excellent assortment of Pianos by leading makers, such as Steck, Bechstein, Ronisch, Lipp, Bluthner, and others, available at enormous reductions at Pianola Hall. The reason, and the only reason, they have been exchanged is the desire of their owners to replace instruments they could not play with others which they could play. For the first time in the history of the Piano business Pianos which were entirely satisfactory have been exchanged by their owners. They have come from some of the best homes in Sydney, and are remarkable for their excellent condition, as well as their uniformly high grade.
THE PIANOLA PIANO (Steck or Steinway Piano) represents an entirely new thought in musical instruments. Its advantages for the accepted type of pianoforte are so manifest that thousands of Pianos heretofore satisfactory are destined to be disposed of to make room for this 20th century production.
THE PIANOLA COMPANY are manufacturers of the Steck and Stroud (ordinary Pianos) as well as the Steck Pianola Piano. They control the largest producing factories in the world, making last year over 20,000 instruments. All instruments sold by the Australasian houses are manufactured expressly to meet Australian climatic conditions. They are shipped direct from our factory, and are sold throughout Australia with but one profit added to the cost, that of the manufacturer—thus saving the profit of the home exporter and indentor. We invite you to visit our Showrooms, where we carry large stocks of Steck and Stroud Pianos, Steinway and Steck Pianola Pianos, besides a huge selection of slightly-used and Second-hand Pianos. The Steck is represented in Burr Walnut, Circassian Walnut, Rosewood, Mahogany, and Waxed Oak from a small Upright Piano to a Concert Grand.
OUR SPECIAL EASY TERMS OF PAYMENT SYSTEM ARE WELL WORTH INVESTIGATING.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR PICTURE SHOWMEN.

We have been instructed by Mr. FRANK WADDINGTON to sell his well-known PHOTO-PLAY THEATRE at NORTH SYDNEY. This is a highly profitable business, and is one of these big chances which are not often offered. Mr. Waddington's reason for selling is that North Sydney is somewhat distant from the other part of his circuit, and, as he has decided to devote his entire energies to his two other large shows, he is prepared to offer this business on particularly favourable terms.

Mr. Waddington would entertain a partnership proposition with approved partner, as such an arrangement would relieve him of some of the personal attention which the business requires.

CRONULLA.

THE HILLTOP ESTATE

is the centre of the high country in the Port Hacking district, and is surrounded by all the favourite fishing grounds. It is only five minutes' run by tram to the Cronulla Beach, and is only a few chains to the boat-sheds at Yowie Bay.

It is about two minutes from the tram, and is practically at the junction of the new road from Taren Point, with the Cronulla-road. This road will be two or three miles shorter than the old road when the punt crosses from Sans Souci to Taren Point.

You will doubtless see the importance of land in the neighbourhood of this junction, the more especially when you consider that the junction for the Port Hacking traffic is only two or three hundred yards away also.

The land is high and open, with views over the surrounding country and is all cleared and ready for occupation.

THE AUCTION SALE, TO-DAY, TO-DAY, is an important one for two reasons not yet mentioned, viz., that the land will be sold on the EASIEST TERMS ever offered in the district, viz., £1 deposit and 10s per lot per month, with interest at 5 per cent., and the Company has decided to sell at prices which will stand comparison with anything yet offered in this favourite locality.

The Vendors are the HAYMARKET P.L.B. and I. COMPANY, Ltd., 75a George-street, which is in its 33rd year, during which it has earned a reputation for selling good land at reasonable prices, and on really EASY TERMS. Torrens Title. Plans now ready.

THE POWER HAMMER ADVANTAGE OVER MANUAL LABOUR IS IMMENSE.
With manual labour, you have to heat up a job over and over again, whereas a Power Hammer mostly completes the job at one heating.
You hold the work and operate the machine with your foot—thus saving a striker's labour. You can hit hard or easy, fast or slow, hit once, twice, or keep on hammering continuously—and all from one convenient foot lever.
The Hammer we sell is the latest belt-driven type, and designed by a practical blacksmith. Will give unequalled service in any "smithy" on any job, more especially repetition work.
You can weld axes, draw out springs, and manufacture local bridge and structural ironwork, which without a Power Hammer you couldn't compete for. Plough Shares can be sharpened, too—in fact, you can work any job up to 2 inches in diameter. Power needed to drive is from ½ to 1 horse-power.
PACKED AND DELIVERED ON RAILS, SYDNEY, £25/10/ Net.
IMPROVED HEAVY PATTERN HAND-POWER TYRE SHRINKER.
With this Heavy Pattern Machine, all that is necessary is to heat both ends of the article to be operated upon to a welding heat, and place same between the grips. Immediately give the flywheel a sharp turn, and it will be found that machine has jumped the ends and turned out a perfectly sound weld in every way. Should it be found that the tyre is a little wider across the weld, it is best to cut off the excess rather than narrow on the anvil.
Better than the old way, with the sledge, isn't it.
HOLD TYRES. PRICES (net):—

6½in. wide x 1½in. thick .... £13/10/.

REDUCE YOUR ICE BILL WITH A "WERNER" REFRIGERATING PLANT.
The ice box was a big step forward towards keeping meat fresh. It still does good service for many butchers. But it is always dependent on the ice supply, and if the box is full of meat, the thermometer a 100 in the shade, and the ice doesn't arrive—other things than the meat are apt to get warm.
The modern butcher can't be dependent on an ice supply 50 or a 100 miles away. He instals a "Werner" refrigerating plant, and pleases his customers as well as prevents waste. Send us details and we'll advise you as to the most suitable size in your case. cash or terms.

RAPID LEGISLATION.

IN THE ASSEMBLY.

BILLS PASSED AT DAZZLING SPEED.

CONSOLIDATING THE LAWS.

With breathless haste—a wild scamper—bills were passed through their main stages in the Legislative Assembly yesterday at the rate of about one every five minutes.

"After me the deluge!" Mr. Wood applied the saying to the Government on Thursday night when he was commenting on the frantic efforts that are being made to crowd through as much legislation as possible in preparation for any emergency that might arise, such as dissolution. Yesterday, in furtherance of the piling up of crude, undigested, faulty bills on the Legislative Council, the Assembly met at half-past 10 in the morning.

The proceedings were remarkable. There were 24 bills, consolidating various others now in existence on their particular subjects. After the first half-dozen or so had been put through their second readings, and through committee en bloc, the Opposition, with a final protest, gave up any attempt at reviewing them, and sat and looked on.

The Speaker (Mr. Willis) was kept busy. He does not merely move out of the chair and sit on one of the benches when the House goes into committee, but proceeds to his room with his retinue in solemn procession. The chairman of committees did not even have the bills in front of him. He was given the number of the clauses by the Attorney-General (Mr. Holman); the House merely heard "That clauses 1 to 123 be agreed to—in favour—aye, on contrary—no—ayes have it," and the Speaker was sent for almost before he had reached his room. The attendants stood to attention, and the procession filed in again; the chairman reported that there were no amendments, and the third reading was fixed for Monday.

This went on, while the House cracked jokes about it across the table. The members did not even see the inside of the bills, much less examine them.

There was a fair average attendance of members when the bells rang in the early morning. The Speaker did not appear to be in his sometime genial mood, and he dealt with an Opposition member as a commencement.

Mr. Cohen was asking him a question concerning the attendance on the lavatories. Mr. Willis broke in with the intimation that he would not answer any questions respecting the working of the establishment.

"Will you permit me——" began Mr. Cohen.

"Will the hon. member be seated? If members have any suggestions I'll be most happy to hear from them either privately or by letter."

Mr. Cohen angrily exclaimed that if the Speaker could not hear them in the proper place he would not anywhere else.

This brought the retort from the Speaker that Parliament was the proper place.

Mr. Cohen, turning to the Premier, asked him, before the Speaker could check him, if he would see that members could get a hot bath after an all-night sitting.

"Will the hon. member be seated?" said the Speaker, his voice rising angrily. "He's out of order—for the second time."

Mr. Fitzpatrick changed the subject. He asked the Minister for Works (Mr. Griffith) if he had seen that the Molong Council had denounced the Main Roads Bill.

Mr. Griffith replied that the bill was a good one for the country generally, and it would be carried into law.

Mr. Fitzpatrick next asked the Premier whether he proposed to take any steps regarding the dismissal of 200 gas employees owing to the difficulties in which the company had been placed.

The Speaker: Parliament has nothing to do with the management of the gas company.

Mr. Fitzpatrick: But the trouble is due to the legislation introduced by the Government.

The Speaker: That's quite another matter.

THE DEBATE.

A bill was introduced by the Attorney-General to remedy two anomalies in the law governing the Public Service. The warders and attendants in the gaols and asylums, by an apparent oversight, are debarred from certain retiring gratuities which are secured by Public servants in other departments of similar status. The officers of the Western Lands Board are excluded from the regrading provisions, and the bill makes adjustment.

A FAULTY MEASURE.

Mr. Holman moved the second reading of the Parliamentary Electorates and Elections Bill, a consolidating measure. The second reading was agreed to.

In committee, Mr. Holman proposed to take the 186 clauses of the bill in globo. It sets out to consolidate eight bills, and occupies 56 pages of printed matter. It also repeals one bill. The Commissioner for the Consolidation of Statute Law stated, in a memorandum, that the complex provisions of the Acts consolidated were not easy to reconcile.

Protest was raised by the Opposition against the bill being taken in this way, but the numbers were against them in a division.

Mr. Levy pointed out that in the certificate of the Commissioner there was a reference to a sub-clause, which was incorrect. The Commissioner also said that slight alterations had been made in the schedules. "I asked the Minister to explain them, and he admitted that he was not conversant with them," said Mr. Levy.

Mr. Holman admitted there was an error in enumerating one clause, but that would be rectified.

"That justifies the course we have taken," said Mr. Fitzpatrick. "It shows the need for care."

Mr. Holman thereupon withdrew the bill to correct the inaccuracy.

AN OMISSION.

Mr. Holman moved the second reading of a bill to consolidate the Factories and Shops Acts.

Mr. Levy urged that several other Acts should have been included. Mr. Holman promised that this would be done some time later.

"This sort of legislation should be perfect. All the Acts should be included," argued Mr. Fitzpatrick. "People were apt to be misled by piecemeal work."

Mr. Holman agreed that there was reason in the arguments. He assured the Opposition that that had been the guiding principle in the matter. But if there were cases when definition clauses differed the Acts could not be blended. "They might be collected in one book," he explained, "but to blend them would be impossible." He promised to consult his colleagues to see if an arrangements could be made by the Government Printer to issue measures of a similar character between the same covers.

In committee, Mr. Levy (who was acting as leader of the Opposition) drew attention to the fact that the commissioner's certificate proposed to amend a clause. He (the commissioner) admitted there was apparently a defect in the law, which had been passed over previously by the department.

Mr. Holman explained it was a verbal alteration. He intended to ask the House to consent to it.

"I am glad to get a recognition of that sort. Therefore, it is not a consolidating bill," said Mr. Levy.

The clauses were then passed.

MR. LEVY ON ERRORS.

The consolidation of the Railway and Tramway Acts was next in order. Mr. Holman moved the second reading of a bill with that object.

Mr. Levy discovered another inconsistency.

"That's a misprint," said Mr. Holman.

"That shows the danger of rushing these measures through without care," declared Mr. Levy.

The energetic member for Darlinghurst turned over the pages of the bill, and found several other inaccuracies. His discoveries, however, did not arouse any excitement. A thin House evinced little interest in the work.

The acting deputy Opposition leader was beginning to get on the nerves of the Minister. He went through the Commissioner's memorandum, and picked holes in it. There was a reference to a sub-clause 8 of a certain clause. "Where is it? I don't see any sub-clause 8," said Mr. Levy, turning over the pages.

Mr. Holman had a look, and had to confess that he couldn't see it either. Mr. McGowen, sitting behind him, said something like "Oh, withdraw it."

"A series of mare's nests based on a printer's error," was Mr. Holman's explanation. The numbers, he said, had been thrown [illegible] by one, and that disorganised the clauses in the bill.

"As to the other matters complained of, what is the member going to do about it?" asked the Attorney-General irritably.

"I want to know what you're going to do?" retorted Mr. Levy fiercely.

"Vote against it," shouted Mr. Price.

Mr. Holman said that as far as possible the Commissioner had preserved the sense of the law.

Mr. Levy nailed the Minister to an excuse he made during the afternoon regarding the factories and shops laws. On that occasion Mr. Holman said that with different definitions Acts could not be consolidated. "Now," said Mr. Levy, "the Attorney-General makes the excuse for an alteration of a similar character that it it to obviate ambiguity."

"Well, move an amendment; move an amendment," said the Minister again and again.

"What's the use of moving an amendment in this House?" said Mr. Levy looking at the Government benches.

"The bill ought to be referred back to the Commissioner," said Mr. Fitzpatrick.

"The errors are in the certificate, not in the measure," answered Mr. Holman.

The clauses were passed through committee.

RECORD TIME LEGISLATING.

The Opposition raised a final protest against the way that these ill-considered measures were being forced through. He had asked for explanations, but they were not forthcoming.

"If, as a result, the Government is involved in litigation, I throw the responsibility upon them," said Mr. Levy with emphasis.

The Attorney-General then put on full steam, and put through in record time bills consolidating the Public Works Acts, the Public Parks Acts, the Vine and Vegetation Diseases and Fruit Pests Acts, the Pastures Protection Acts, the Acts relating to coroner's inquests and magisterial inquiries, Coal Mines Regulation Acts, Scaffolding and Lifts Acts, Friendly Societies Acts, Liquor Acts, Banks and Bank Holiday Acts, Water Rights, Drainage, and Artesian Wells Acts, District Courts Acts, Inebriates Acts, Gaming and Betting Acts, and Acts dealing with racecourses, Dentists Acts, Claims Against the Government and Crown Suits Acts, Careless Use of Fire Acts, Medical Practitioners Acts, Jury Acts, Defamation Acts, Small Debts Recovery Acts.

The second reading of the Main Roads Bill was moved by the Minister for Works, who said that when the classification of the roads by the board was complete the Government vote would be available. The Government's desire was that the money paid under the bill should be well spent. If it was ill-spent then the Government would withhold the following year's vote till the councillors did their duty.

Mr. Wood declared that the provisions of the bill were a more difficult proposition to the shire than he was led to expect. To penalise shires which had not spent their votes well was a queer way of assisting the public.

The debate was adjourned, and the House rose at 7.10 p.m. till Monday.

Mr. Griffith was granted leave to introduce a new bill in place of the one ruled out of order, to regulate the fish supply of Sydney, and to vest certain powers in the City Council, in order that fish may be traded in outside the boundaries of the corporation.

Mr. Carmichael was given leave to bring in a bill to provide for the establishment of continuation schools, to provide for the registration of schools other than State schools, and for the registration of teachers in those schools, and to enforce the attendance of children.

Mr. Griffith was given leave to introduce a bill to make better provision for making promotions in the police force, to provide for appeals from punishment imposed on members of the force, to constitute a board and a committee, and to provide for fines.

In reply to Mr. Kelly, the Minister for Works said that he could not say definitely when steps would be taken regarding the proposed railway between Tullamore and Tuddenham.

TAXATION BILL.

CHAOTIC CONDITIONS.

MR. HARDING'S OBJECTIONS.

A protest is entered by Mr. William Harding against a technical and intricate taxation measure being introduced at the close of the session of the State Parliament.

He says:—"Further evidence of the misfortune that invariably attends hastily dealing with taxation measures was clearly apparent by the fate of the 1911 Income Tax Act passed last Christmas, and the confusion now obtaining. That remarkable Act, forced through both Houses of the Legislature at express speed, was so crudely drawn, and was shown to be so absurdly, though doubtless unintentionally, extreme in particular important features that the Government and the Taxation Department would not risk utilising it for purposes of administration.

"But during a short session held in February and March last the whole of the machinery clauses of the Act were repealed by the present machinery Act—the Income Tax (Management) Act—which was also passed in great haste in the last days of that short session, and has proved itself in practice to be perhaps the most hopeless and impossible legislative machine ever created. Diligent efforts were made at the time to warn and point out to the Taxation Department, the Government, and Parliament that the measure must prove to be a failure and completely unworkable, but these protests were disregarded, and the express-speed passage of the bill through Parliament resulted in the ill-considered, unworkable scheme becoming law.

"However, immediately afterwards the Taxation Department began to realise what an absolutely impossible quantity this Act really is, and, after much inconsistent struggling to make the disappointing measure work, the administration has finally become involved in complete chaos, out of which it has no hope of escape until rescued by an amending Act; but the present bill will not reasonably effect the desired purpose. In addition to possessing some features which render it at one and the same time ridiculous and impotent, the measure is very imperfectly drawn, and requires very considerable amendment to make it reasonably fair, and to provide for the business of the State in that connection being decently carried on without harassing taxpayers and inflicting grave injustice upon them.

"The bill now before Parliament will not correct matters, and, indeed, limited to what is thereby proposed, the Government should be prepared for a surprise when it realises, as it will, how little will be gained thereby. It is simply nonsense to go on year after year in this muddling fashion, continuing error upon error, until now as a natural sequence the administration has become helplessly involved in a maze, from which it can only be extricated by a sound and thorough amending measure.

"The proved—and admitted—existing chaotic and inequitable conditions should present a powerful object lesson, indicating the fallacy of patchwork and hasty legislation, sufficiently potent to impel every earnest representative of the people to make a firm demand for thorough amendment of the Act and honest correction of error, which has crept into the administration by inexpedient efforts to dodge, ignore, or disregard inevitable necessities, and for which faulty legislation has been more or less responsible.

"The Government must have an amending Act to enable the department to proceed with the administration; therefore, a very simple course is open to Parliament, and if members act wisely they will see to it that every amending provision that is so urgently needed is embodied in the bill before it is accorded their sanction. It will be useless to pass the bill in its present form under assurance of further consideration being devoted to the subject next year. Somehow, those future considerations in favour of taxpayers' interests have an unfortunate habit of disappearing.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The proposed amendments of the 1912 Act, although more apparent than real, entirely justify the attitude taken up by the committee when the Act was introduced. It was at that time clearly demonstrated by our hon. secretary (Mr. Wm. Harding) that the Act, especially in regard to the assessment on companies' dividends, would prove impracticable and unjust. At last we have the admission from the Treasurer that such is the case. I desire to state publicly that the object of our association is not, and never has been, to raise factious opposition to an income tax which the Government have considered necessary, but by means of expert advice to assist in making that tax equitable in its incidence to all classes called upon to pay it. At this juncture it would not be infra dig for the Treasurer and his officers to accept the assistance of our body, consisting as it does of experts and taxpayers, who are specially qualified to explain the effects of certain clauses which, while superficially or theoretically consistent, must prove cumbrous and unworkable, as well as cruelly unjust in application.

I am, etc.,
S. R. INNES-NOAD,
Chairman Income Tax (1912) Protest Committee (Taxpayers' Association of N.S.W.).

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN BANK.

PERTH, Friday.

The half-yearly meeting of the Western Australian Bank was held on Wednesday. The report shows a profit for the six months ended September 30 of £36,487, which, with the balance brought forward, gives £48,471 for distribution. A dividend of £1 a share absorbs £25,000. The balance of £23,471 was carried forward to the reserve fund, which now totals £640,000.

FEDERAL PARLIAMENT.

THE SENATE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Minister for Defence informed Senator Walker (N.S.W.) that no provision had been made for replacing obsolete warships.

Senator Chataway (Queensland): When the vice-president of the Executive Council informed me yesterday that the Sugar Commission's report would be available in a day or two, was he aware that the commission meets to consider its report 10 days hence, or was his reply merely a guess.

The Vice-president of the Executive Council: I meant to say a week or two.

The Vice-President of the Executive Council moved the second reading of the Loan Bill. The debate was adjourned.

The House rose at 3.20 p.m.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Speaker took the Chair at 10.30 a.m..

The Minister for External Affairs stated that the steamer Imogen, which was purchased by the Commonwealth Government for use in the Northern Territory, cost £1100. The vessel left for Port Darwin on August 7, but her voyage had been delayed by adverse weather and accidents to machinery.

ALTERATION OF CONSTITUTION.

Leave was given to the Attorney-General to introduce a bill to alter paragarph 1, section 51, of the Constitution.

Mr. Deakin (Vic.) asked the Prime Minister if the time limit on members' speeches would be extended, while this subject was being discussed.

The Prime Minister: We will consider that.

Mr. Cook (N.S.W.) protested against the Government's intention of circulating the bill on Tuesday, and going on with the debate on Wednesday. The matter was of so much importance to the people of Australia that more time should be given members to study the bill.

BILLS OF EXCHANGE.

Leave was given the Attorney-General to introduce bills relating to bills of exchange, insurance, and bankruptcy.

THE ESTIMATES.

The Estimates were further considered in Committee.

On division 15, the Treasury,

Mr. Cook (N.S.W.) drew attention to the fact that the cost of administering the land tax had been increased by £25,000, an increase of 50 per cent.

The Prime Minister explained that the increased vote was necessary to meet the larger amount of work done in regard to the revaluation of properties.

Mr. Ryrie (N.S.W.) objected to the way in which land was being acquired by the Commonwealth Bank for offices.

The Prime Minister: The Department of Home Affairs acquires the land under law passed by the House.

In reply to questions, the Prime Minister said that he was not in favour of nickel coins with holes punched in them. In the event of the Commonwealth having a nickel coinage he would much more prefer to copy Italy and India, which countries had small coins, with a beautiful curved, flowing edge, which made them most distinctive.

Mr. Kelly (N.S.W.) said that the Treasurer should seek the advice of the Governor of the Commonwealth on the question of whether or not the issue should be handled by the bank.

Mr. Cook (N.S.W.) claimed that the Governor of the bank should have control of the note issue.

The Estimates for the Treasury, totalling £644,296, were agreed to without amendment.

Progress was reported, and the House adjourned at 4.25 p.m.

REDISTRIBUTION.

COMMISSIONER'S PROPOSALS.

REJECTED BY SENATE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the Senate to-day, the Minister for Defence moved that the Senate approve of the redistribution of the State of New South Wales, as proposed by the commissioners.

Senator Rae (N.S.W.) did not think that what was called community of interest could be observed in every case, but there were several electorates which called for some attention. For instance, Nepean was almost wholly absorbed in Macquarie, and the new Barrier electorate extended from the Queensland border to the Victorian border. He did not object to pastoral and mining country being included, but he did object to a redistribution which paid no attention to the lack of means of communication. He would vote against the scheme, and hoped that in the best interests of New South Wales it would not be carried.

Senator Gardiner (N.S.W.) failed to understand why Wyong had been placed in an electorate which had Mudgee as its centre.

Senator Walker (N.S.W.) said he would like to see the scheme accepted. He doubted whether one vote one value would be effective in New South Wales unless the Hare Spence system were adopted and the State were treated as one constituency.

Senator Millen (N.S.W.) asked whether if the scheme were thrown out a fresh report would be submitted in time to be considered before the close of the session.

The Minister for Defence: "Surely that will be governed by the time the report is received?

Senator Millen: Exactly, and that meant that if the present scheme were rejected the next elections would be fought out on the old distribution. In several instances the new scheme had made tremendous strides towards the principle of equality. Under the old scheme the metropolitan constituencies had an overplus of 96,000 voters in comparison with the country; but the new scheme had remedied that to a certain extent. There did not seem to be the slightest chance of an amended report being received before Parliament was prorogued, and he asked the House to accept the Commissioner's recommendations.

Sir Albert Gould (N.S.W.) said that the commissioners had already considered a number of objections, but had been unable to adopt any of them. Had a single suggestion been made on the debate that would lead to the commissioners adopting it? None whatever. Did members want the scheme sent back so that some of the constituencies should be gerrymandered?

Senator Rae objected to the expression gerrymandered.

The president did not think that the expression in the form in which it was used was out of order.

Senator Gardiner (to Sir Albert Gould): Are you afraid that Mr. Fuller will lose his seat. (Laughter.)

Sir Albert Gould: No, he was dealing with the question in the public interest. It had never been contemplated that these redistributions should be sent back to the commissioners unless there was something gravely wrong. There was no suggestion of that kind in this case. He asked whether if the scheme were rejected it would be sent back to the commissioners immediately with the request that it be dealt with as a matter of urgency?

The Minister for Defence: It will be sent back as soon as you have done stonewalling.

Senator Millen: Yes, but to-day, next week, or the week after?

Sir Albert Gould: If the report was not received in time for consideration before Parliament prorogued, the old scheme would be adhered to, and that contained greater anomalies than were contemplated by the law.

The Minister for Defence said that if negatived the report would be returned to the commissioners without delay.

Upon division the scheme was rejected by 14 votes to 12, the voting being:—

	Ayes—12.
Findley,	Miller,	Walker,
Pearce,	Keating,	McColl,
McGregor,	St. Ledger,	Chataway,

SCIENCE CONGRESS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Mr. L. Sheppard, secretary to the Prime Minister's department, is actively at work in making preliminary arrangements for the congress in Australia in 1914 of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. Each of the States except Western Australia has appointed a local committee. For the preliminary expenses the Federal Parliament has voted £2000. Half of this will be paid in salary and expenses to an organising secretary, who will be appointed from one of the universities. He will receive salary at the rate of £400 a year, and will be required to go to England. A federal council is to be formed to undertake the administration of the trip, the State arrangements being left to the local committees.

CITY ELECTIONS.

PHILLIP WARD.

The Labour banner was unfurled on Thursday night, when Alderman R. D. Meagher, M.L.A., and Mr. F. Bryant, M.L.C., the selected candidates for Phillip Ward, opened their campaign.

Mr. Meagher said he had represented the ward in the council for 12 years, and claimed to be one of the foremost advocates of progressive measures. He had saved the council not merely thousands, but hundreds of thousands of pounds, every year. He commented on the exemption of rates enjoyed by the Federal Government, and the practical exemption of the railway and Harbour Trust properties, contending that this was unfair to the general body of ratepayers. The party stood for the amelioration of the conditions of the people. Human flesh and blood was more important to them than bricks and mortar. (Hear, hear.) The law that permitted only the head of a family to vote at the municipal elections was a one-sided one. He believed in adult suffrage. (Hear, hear.) Referring to what he termed resumption "jobs," he instanced a case where, he said, property acquired for £6000 had, 18 months later, without any improvements whatever having been effected, been sold to the City Council for £15,000. The "gimcrack" critics had told them that the council was on the road to ruin because it was going to give "a few bob" extra to its workmen. The Labour party would never ruin the council, but the land boodlers would. The resumptions were going to cost something like £435,000 over the estimates. That was a matter that called for some inquiry. In regard to the compensation for resumptions, one law for the rich had been observed, and another for the poor. The Labour party would deal out even-handed justice to both. It was a great humanitarian movement that was marching along with colossal strides. (Applause.)

Mr. F. Bryant, M.L.C., dealt with the various planks of the Labour platform, the object of which was to lessen the burdens and brighten the homes of the people. The Labour movement was one of the grandest of modern times. He spoke at length in favour of adult suffrage and Greater Sydney. When the latter was an accomplished fact, they could have a comprehensive Building Act, of which there was great need at the present time.

A vote of confidence was carried, on the motion of Mr. Fern, M.L.A.

MACQUARIE WARD.

Alderman E. Lindsay Thompson addressed a meeting of electors from Wright's Liverpool Hotel, at the corner of Yurong and Liverpool streets, on Thursday night, Mr. Charles Lovely presiding.

The candidate stated that he had initiated the widening of Oxford-street and the widening of Elizabeth-street, and that, on his resolution, the Moore-street extension to Macquarie-street was now under consideration. He severely criticised the prosecutions of citizens for the most trivial offences against the bylaws, and advocated the establishment of a court at the Town Hall for dealing with cases of infringement of the bylaws. The bylaws were becoming so numerous that it might be well to proclaim what the citizens might do with impunity, and thereby economise in printing and litigation. He spoke in favour of carrying out city works by day and night shifts. (Hear, hear.) He advocated better methods of street naming and lettering, more modern methods of street cleansing, closer inspection of immigrants to prevent the influx of consumptives to the city, and the better lighting of streets with cluster lights in the main avenues. He also urged reasonable limitations of the height of buildings, and the establishment of parcels depots in the parks for ladies. He believed in giving ratepayers the option of paying their rates by instalments, thus securing a continuous flow into the treasury, saving interest on overdrafts, and making it easier for the taxpayer. He condemned the incessant annoyance of citizens by inspectors of the council, Board of Health, and other bodies. He favoured a progressive policy, and the dealing immediately with the great problem of congested traffic.

In reply to a question, he said he was opposed to paying aldermen for their services.

Dr. M'Donagh moved a vote of confidence in the candidate. This was seconded by Mr. W. Langer, and supported by Messrs. T. Kemp and P. Green, and carried. The candidate throughout had a good reception.

DENISON WARD.

The two Liberal candidates for Denison Ward—Alderman Reg. Harris and Mr. John Fitzgerald—opened their campaign on Thursday night, when they addressed the electors from the Lord Wolseley Hotel, at the corner of Quarry-street and Bulwarra-road. Mr. John A. Kean presided. Alderman Harris explained his attitude respecting the minimum wage, and gave a brief outline of the work, including resumptions and wood-blocking, in the ward that he had been instrumental in having carried out. He also expressed his appreciation of the bill introduced into the Legislative Council to limit the height of buildings to 150ft, a measure rendered doubly necessary by the fluctuating opinions expressed from time to time by certain members of the City Council. He also voiced the opinion that there should be no more resumptions till the money market eased.

Mr. John Fitzgerald outlined his policy, and endorsed the views expressed by the previous speaker.

Messrs. A. Parbury, C. Plumb, W. Martin, and G. Turner also spoke to a motion of confidence in the candidates, which was carried.

AFFAIRS AT YANCO.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of the 5th instant, under the heading "Mr. Griffith Silent," you publish a letter purporting to be signed by A. G. Edwards (president), and H. Wilson (secretary), of the organised workers on the Murrumbidgee irrigation area. So far as this place is concerned, this is about the first that has been known of such an organisation, and whatever the opinions of Messrs. Edwards and Wilson may be, they are a matter of no consequence, and would be quite unworthy of notice, but for the fact that they are expressed with a view to bolstering up Mr. Griffith in his administrative capacity as chairman of the Murrumbidgee Irrigation Trust and discounting the assertions of Mr. McGarry in regard to the more or less chaotic conditions that obtain at Yanco.

Urgent work is hung up to-day, and unduly delayed, and the question arises, why? On various channels there is an insufficiency of outlets for irrigation purposes to meet the demand of settlers, and while this state of things exists, the men required to do this class of work have been put off. In regard to the building of the settlers' houses, complaints are frequent as to overloading of material above requirements, which means not only too much carting to the jobs, but a lot of carting back, and unnecessary checking, the extra expense attending this has to be shouldered by the settler every time, together with the remote chance of getting correct credits for returned material. A lot of settlers' houses have been finished for which no detailed account of cost is available, although interested parties have been waiting for same for some considerable time. Some time ago the Murrumbidgee Irrigation Settlers' Association requested the chairman of the trust to hold an open inquiry in regard to the alleged maladministration in connection with the construction works on the area, as this was causing a feeling of unrest among the settlers, and also an intimidating effect on intending ones. To date no reply has been received. It can then only be inferred that when Mr. Griffith, in his capacity as chairman of the trust, ignores the honest request of those who have come here to stay, and who will be the factors in the future success of this great scheme, there must be something behind the scenes.

The feeling generally is that Mr. McGarry knew something of what he was talking about, notwithstanding Messrs. Edwards and Wilson to the contrary.

I am, etc., CHARLES LEDWIDGE,
Secretary Murrumbidgee Irrigation Settlers' Association.

COMMONWEALTH DESIGN.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

It has taken 12 years to grace the Commonwealth with a suitable coat of arms. Years ago a design was adopted by the Government, and approved by the College of Heralds in London. No sooner had it arrived back in Melbourne, and been transferred to the Federal stationery and documents, than cynical remarks commenced to be made. Yielding to the consensus of opinion, the Prime Minister (Mr. Fisher) some months ago secured a new design, and sent it to the College of Heralds. It was generally approved, but amendments were suggested. These did not meet the wishes of the Government, which supplied further details to the college. The completed design has now been returned to the Prime Minister. The emu and kangaroo have been vastly improved by their visit to London. The shield has been altered to include the crests of each of the States. The solid ground-work has been replaced by a scroll, made mainly of a spray of wattle blossom, and for "Advance Australia" has been substituted the one word "Australia."

Chamberlain's Tablets are perfectly harmless, and stimulate liver and bowels.—Advt.

SYDNEY'S SURPASSING ADVANTAGES OVER MELBOURNE

Are its many millions more acres in pastoral and agricultural occupation and hundreds of thousands more primary producers. The trade of Sydney is vitalised by the country's incalculable spending power. The country is a congeries of communities, whose close and intimate interests are almost exclusively represented by the local papers. To get into business touch with these communities, publicity is imperative in the local papers. Advertisements must be concentrated within range of the country residents to make palpable hits. There are two markets—the metropolitan and the country. City advertising reaches the former; country advertising alone commands the latter. The paper that is most necessary and interesting affords most effective advertising. Wise business men, alive to the "million" country market, will CONSULT the N.S.W. THE OTTOMAN EMPIRE.

It must be many months before we shall realise fully what are the lessons and what are the results of the war which is now in all probability drawing to a close. There will be much discussion of the methods of the Bulgarians, of their hand-to-hand encounters, and of the apparent superiority of the Creusot artillery over that of the famous Krupp firm. There are certain to be many negotiations before the boundaries of the several States are readjusted, whether the allies insist on settling their affairs alone, or whether they allow the Powers to impose their own ambitions upon them. But already we know enough to be certain that the last few weeks have witnessed one of the decisive events of modern times. The appeal of Hilmi Pasha to Austria for help is a dramatic ending to the chapter which began with the appearance in Europe of a once obscure Siberian tribe, and reached its climax when their victorious armies were laying siege to Vienna. Their career becomes the more dramatic when the story of their conquests is contrasted with the history of the alliance which has brought about their overwhelming defeat. Their first enemies of importance were the Servians, who, after first serving under one Emperor, were scattered into exile like the Jews after the captivity. They first established themselves at Adrianople after the death of Dushan, who died at one of the most critical moments of European history after leading an army of 80,000 men to within forty miles of Constantinople. Dushan was the last Servian leader who was able to keep together the forces of Christendom in an effort to resist the barbarian invader, or at least to check his farther progress. When he died his kingdom like the empire of Alexander the Great passed to a number of petty princes, who one by one fell before the advancing Ottomans. The last attempt of the Servians at union ended in the obliteration of their country, and their own dispersal through the provinces of South-eastern Europe, Montenegro, Bosnia, and Hungary. Until to-day the Montenegrins have worn a black band on their caps in memory of the disaster of Korsovoe Polye, "the field of black birds," and the most pathetic of the Servian national songs commemorates the death of their leader Lazar. For more than five hundred years the Slav races in the Balkans have remained disunited, and without a leader, and therefore without any serious attempt at revenge. The Montenegrins have resisted the aggression of the Turks as they resisted the attacks of the Venetians, protected by their courage and the poverty of a country in which a large army always starves, and a small army is always defeated. The Bulgarians have managed to regain some of the territory which was first given, and then taken from them by the Powers, and have gained the confidence to defy their former conquerors. But until to-day the people who were once the bulwarks of Europe, have been divided into parasitic States. Except, perhaps, by a few persons exceptionally well informed, it has not been thought possible that they would be able to rescue their still oppressed kinsmen without the assistance, still less without the concurrence, of the great Powers. They were not credited with any capacity for united action, nor was it thought probable that even their united strength would overwhelm the Turks.

In a few weeks of fighting they have destroyed the accumulated traditions of a number of years. The Turk's great reputation as a warrior (which has survived since the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, when first the Servians and then the Hungarians were defeated), has been diminished, if not destroyed. The Balkan States have shown themselves capable of defending their own kinsmen, and have appeared to be prepared to resist the dictation of the Western Powers. The old idea that they must always be vassal States, whether the suzerain be Turkey, or Russia, or Austria, can hardly survive such a demonstration of independence as they have given during this year. If anything should have prepared the world for the victory of the Bulgarians, it is their progress since they began for a second time to claim a national existence. For more than three hundred years their name completely disappears from history. Apparently their obliteration was the more complete owing to the hold which the Turks were able to exercise over the south-eastern corner of the Balkan regions from their first capital, Adrianople. Even during the early part of the nineteenth century so little was known of them that Kinglake can describe his journey from Belgrade to Constantinople without mentioning their name. But since 1870, when the Bulgarians within the Ottoman Empire were given a form of religious independence, their progress has been extraordinarily rapid and sure. Whatever the cause of their progress, they have shown themselves the most industrious and laborious of the peoples of South-eastern Europe. In their desire for complete independence they have sometimes appeared to be about to come into collision with Russia or Austria, and once when the great Stamboloff was Premier they were on the brink of war. But the present King appears to have developed a genius for diplomacy equal to the needs of his people, and not unlike that which was used to elevate Piedmont into the kingdom of Italy. We have no means of knowing how much of the success of the recent campaign is due to him, and how much to the Servian Premier. It is at least due to the Slav peoples to admit that they have either produced a statesman of their own, or have known how to follow when one was sent to them.

It was evident before this war began that whatever might be the wish of their leaders the people of the States were passionately in favour of it. To them it meant not only the appeasement of their hatred of the Turks, but revenge for the cruelty endured by their kinsmen, and the establishment of security of life and property for them in the future. It has been said by Ranke that the last of the religious wars ended when the hosts of Brandenburg marched into battle at Leuthen chanting their Lutheran hymns. But in a sense this is a religious war. The Mohammedan has for centuries treated his Christian subjects as different in kind from himself, and disentitled to any of the rights of humanity. For the Servian or Bulgarian the typical picture of the life of a Christian subject of Turkey is of a half-burnt hut, with the corpse of a Slav peasant lying outside. Moltke long ago, before the Balkan States were heard of, spoke of the assurance with which the Turks maltreated their Christians, and of the certainty of disaster overtaking them. No doubt the Bulgarians in their anxiety to attract the attention of Europe have done something to provoke the Turk. But the whole of recent history has shown that there can be no security and no civilised government in South-eastern Europe while the Turk is in any sense master. The powers of Europe for their own ends, and to check the ambitions of each other, have made these peoples suffer too long. The only plan now open seems to be the plan advocated in 1876. "Let the Turks now carry away their abuses in the only possible manner, namely, by carrying away themselves. Their Zaptiehs and their Mudirs, their Bimbashis and their Yusbashis, their Kaimakams and their Pashas, one and all, bag and baggage, shall, I hope, clear out from the province they have desolated and profaned."

"MUDDLING THROUGH."

Recent developments in public affairs reveal us as threatened with serious trouble. The signs of it are very plain to see, and they are remarkably spread over a variety of interests. The State Government, its normal resources at an end, seeks a loan and meets with rebuff. The corporation of the city, discovering its financial position as insecure, makes similar request for accommodation, and is similarly checkmated by lack of response. Directly following upon the Government's difficulty in making ends meet, comes retrenchment. Men have been, or are in process of being, turned adrift from public works. The railway estimates come under the ban to such extent that development works will be hung up far and wide in the near future. The resumption of the traffic of Sydney, a national undertaking, postponed for years, and now imperatively demanding attention, is threatened by the prevailing lack of money. Building operations in and about the city are jeopardised by the inability of a retrenched Water and Sewerage Board to undertake extension work. The Australian Gaslight Company, fearing Government restriction of its enterprise, is making preparation to face a doubtful future, concerned in which are the work and wages of hundreds of men and no small part of the activities of suburban progress. Thus with the Harbour Trust shutting down wharfage works of a vitally necessary character, the Railway Department curtailing its operations, and private enterprise of many kinds anxious under enforced restraint, the outlook cannot be regarded as other than depressing. The seriousness of the case is the more pronounced, too, because there is no warrant for it in the surrounding conditions. We have had our periods of stress before, but they have always been urged upon us by uncontrollable circumstance. Rarely have we had to fear disturbance of our normal prosperity save by natural causes. But here is a crisis for which we have no excuse of long-continued drought. The favouring conditions which in this happy country have always and easily issued in comfort and wealth, are with us now, and have been continuously with us for years. We are, nevertheless, fast in the grip of financial stringency and it behoves the people to measure the significance of a condition of affairs for which there is so little normal warrant, and if possible to translate their conclusions into effort to retrieve it. Of course, we shall recover ourselves, and the accustomed path of easy-going satisfaction with the best of all possible worlds will once again open before us. The trouble is, indeed, that it takes more than even a serious set-back to dislodge the citizen from that pleasant way. Possibly he will continue to walk within it for all this muttering of disaster at the next turn in the road. But if he does so, it can only be by thinking individually, and by taking no heed of himself as a unit in the sum of things. The State surely deserves of its citizens that they sometimes think collectively, and that they sometimes look upon the trend of affairs with a wider vision than that of the immediate and the selfish.

This menace of ill-fortune has come upon us suddenly, and apparently without preliminary hint of its coming. But that appearance of unexpectedness is illusory. The truth is that, though the trouble only now looms upon us in clear-cut distinctness, it has long been gathering up unseen. As is well known, it is the way of a vast body of human misfortune to approach upon us with imperceptible advance. It walks stealthily, hidden from us, may be, for a period of years. Then it takes visible shape, and the blow falls. In very much of human ill it is a merciful ordering that so conceals the coming of disaster. But disease in the body politic has no such sanctions. For one thing it can never be allowed to be mortal. It must be cured, and for its least expensive cure early diagnosis of it is imperative. Our case has lacked just that. The latent disorder has been allowed to expand, and of all the means to that end none is more effective than a policy of drift and postponement. When they are reinforced by extravagance, the real condition of the State very quickly manifests itself. That is what has happened to us. The present Government has been the active agent in the disclosure. With both hands it has spent money for the furtherance of its doctrinaire theories of political economy. Then, when it has been forced to attention upon abiding principles, when it has had to face the problems that time has matured into crises, when some of the things that other Governments had put by have grown to be things that can be put by no longer—it at once becomes palpable that the country cannot bear both lavish expenditure on class shibboleths and necessary expenditure on national needs. And unfortunately for the Government and for us, it is the former which has had first call, and so we come to the position that our national needs are likely to remain such for lack of money. But it is not only the present Government that is to blame. It would be absurd, for example, to attack the present Government for the necessity of a great outlay upon the city traffic scheme. That scheme should have been in hand long before the present Government was in existence. It was often enough allowed to be necessary, and it would have cost much less. And there are other matters now pressing for attention which other Governments could have handled, and to which this Government has merely succeeded, though when all that is allowed fairly and frankly, there remains a heavy balance of responsibility upon this first Labour Administration for its unbalanced measure of the claim of Labour theories as against the claim of national facts. But even when we have apportioned their share of the blame to this and that Government, there is still, as suggested, the responsibility of ourselves as members of the State. Not least of the blame must go that way. Even now, for instance, what appreciable concern does the public reveal? There is little to show that the endangered health of the community by reason of Water and Sewerage Board retrenchment, or the threatened continuance of port inadequacy by reason of Harbour Trust dismissals, is in any sense a live public interest. The fact that the City Council is pressed for money, or that the Government is hard put to it to overcome the suspicion of the financial world, is similarly more or less a side issue as compared with concerns regarded as really vital. The possibility of a city left to welter in its disordered traffic, or given over to the speculative theorising of a Labour City Council, does not seem to perturb the public mind. Individual prosperity serves it well enough. It has hundreds of thousands of pounds available for speculation upon a Melbourne Cup. It has no difficulty in commanding varied individual delights. But in that unconcern of the things that matter, and that absorption in a narrow, personal outlook, it is developing a poor order of citizenship. That, indeed, is the chief danger of the State—a citizenship of low aims that have no faintest horizon of thought for the common welfare. It is also the chief reason for the other dangers now imminent. For though we may blame Governments for them, Governments are but the representatives of the people, and both their actions and their failures to act are but expressions of the people's will.

To-day's "Herald."—Sir Henry Lucy (page 5) has an anecdote which shows Mr. Gladstone's horror of waste. He used to speak of the early 'buses of London, which he frequently travelled in, and made a point that they charged you just as much if you went half the way as if you went the whole journey. There is also an agreeable account of one of Lord Rosebery's chiefest treasures, the Shelburne Washington. On the same page Professor Macmillan Brown continues his illuminating series of papers on the Archipelago to the North, this time discoursing in lighter vein on the vagaries of fashion in connection with New Guinea's lovely Birds of Paradise. A grim sketch also appears on page 5, which is a study of what happens on a great battleship "when the big guns speak." A summary of the chief contents of the October reviews, a paper on water and wealth, illustrating from Mildura the bearing of irrigation on Australia's national future, with Mr. Deakin's commendation of Barren Jack, Mr. Edward Stack's reminiscences of the old Sydney of Lyons Terrace and adjacent district, and an account of the big scrub of the Dorrigo as it was, all appear on page 7. The opening of the trout-fishing season gives occasion for a brief sketch of the first in the Oberon district (page 4). Also on page 4 we begin our new tale.

"Waratahs Will be Scarce."—Waratahs will be scarce for years to come said leading botanists yesterday to a "Herald" reporter, who questioned them in respect to what effect the cutting of 10,000 waratahs for the Melbourne Cup ball would have on the future supply. It was pointed out that if the persons sent to collect the blooms cut them neatly less harm would be done than if they were torn from the plants. "But," added one authority, "I know for a fact that some gatherers did not work as if they were performing surgical operations, but pulled the blooms where they could."

Potatoes and Bacon.—In the Sussex-street market yesterday, potatoes were realising almost prohibitive prices. For weeks past the shipments from all sources have been steadily falling off. Victoria and Tasmania have ceased shipping altogether until the new crop is available, and thus we are entirely dependent upon New Zealand and our own local resources. During the week the consignments received from the Dominion have been small and have been quickly absorbed. Consequently, when the Kingle came alongside yesterday with 750 bags of new season's Clarence River tubers there was a rush to secure supplies. Agents were quick to realise their strong position and at once jumped the quotation up to £15 per ton, at which figure the greater portion of the shipment changed hands. It was anticipated that the same potatoes would be worth £16 per ton on Monday. The same experience led to the wholesale price of bacon was announced yesterday. During the week stocks have been steadily accumulating and merchants have found considerable difficulty in effecting sales at the high rates. An all-round reduction was therefore decided upon. Best factory sides are now offering at 10d, flitches at 9d, middles at from 10½d to 11d, and shoulders at 6½d. One factor which contributed materially to the decline was the enhanced value of eggs. New laid suburban varieties are now worth from 1s 1d to 1s 2d per dozen. It sometimes happens that with cheap eggs and dear bacon a good trade is done in both articles, but with dear bacon and dear eggs business is almost impossible.

Railway Carriage Monopolists.—It is the practice of some railway travellers on arriving at a railway station where there is a refreshment room to cover the seats of the carriage with bags so as to convey the idea that the compartment is full when in reality it might contain only two or three passengers. The matter was brought up at the Newcastle Chamber of Commerce some weeks ago. At the meeting held yesterday a letter was received from the railway authorities informing the council that special directions had been issued for close attention to be given to such practices with a view to preventing them.

Australian Marble.—It might, according to Mr. W. G. Crane, of Sydney, who has just returned from a trip to Europe and the Continent, be perfectly feasible to attempt to develop a big export trade with Australian marble. "It is a good industry in Australia," he said yesterday, "but [illegible] exporting it to other countries, [illegible] England, is ridiculous. A marble [illegible] about £25 value to cut up, weighing [illegible] would be tons in weight [illegible] with practically prohibitive [illegible] no chance the lowest rate possible [illegible] old world of competing in the [illegible] the workmen employed at [illegible] were with Italy." He [illegible] paid only 2s per day.

THE ONWARD MARCH.

TO CONSTANTINOPLE

ANOTHER VICTORY.

FALL OF ADRIANOPLE

OMINOUS POSITION.

Turkish public opinion is hostile to the Government's proposal that the Powers should intervene.

The principal officers of the army have signed a memorial to the Grand Vizier in favour of a continuance of the war.

The Bulgarians have captured Fort Delijumus, about 26 miles north-west of Constantinople.

It is reported that Adrianople surrendered on Tuesday, but the Bulgarians concealed the fact lest the Powers should intervene before the capture of Constantinople.

The Bulgarians have occupied Visa and Rodosto, in Thrace; the Servians have routed 15,000 Turks near Krustevo, and the Montenegrins have taken Jakova, in Western Macedonia.

The Servians resent the warning of the Austrian press against encroachment in Albania, and are determined to have a port on the Adriatic.

TURKISH ATTITUDE.

"FIGHT TILL THE LAST."

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 8.

Public opinion is hostile to the Government's proposal that the Powers should intervene.

Nazim Pasha has informed the Government that the army is determined to fight till the last, and that it is confident of its ultimate success.

The principal officers have signed a memorial to the Grand Vizier in favour of a continuance of the war.

THE TRIPLE ENTENTE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 8.

The disinterested attitude of the Triple Entente (Britain, France, and Russia), after proclaiming its adherence to the maintenance of the status quo in the Balkans, has created disappointment in official Turkish circles.

SERVIA AND THE ADRIATIC.

BELGRADE, Nov. 7.

The Servians resent the warnings of the Austrian press against encroachment in Albania and are determined to have a port on the Adriatic.

Servia does not fear any difficulty in being able to satisfy Austrian railway interests.

M. Pasitch, the Premier, in an interview, stated that Servia wanted the ports of San Giovanni di Medna, Alessio, and Durazzo, which she had possessed in the Middle Ages. The fate of Constantinople, he said, would be left to the decision of the Powers.

BERLIN, Nov. 8.

The Marquis A. di San Giuliano, Italian Minister for Foreign Affairs, has paid a visit to Berlin, and this is regarded as having set the seal on the agreement between Germany, Austria, and Italy as to the line of action to be followed in the Balkans. It is believed that they will firmly resist any attempt on the part of Servia to acquire a port on the Adriatic.

The "Frankfurter Zeitung" states that an Austro-Italian agreement exists, guaranteeing the integrity and independence of Albania, and in regard to this agreement Austria and Italy can count on the support of Germany.

Servia's desire for a harbour, the paper adds, can be gratified on the Aegean coast with less danger.

"DISGRACE TO CHRISTENDOM."

LONDON, Nov. 8.

The "Daily Telegraph's" correspondent with the Greek army in Epirus, after investigating the Turkish outrages, declares:—"If Christian Europe gives this land back into Turkish hands it will be an act of barbarity and a disgrace to Christendom."

THE ARMIES.

BULGARIAN ADVANCE.

APPROACHING THE CAPITAL.

AUSTRIA, Nov. 8.

The "Reichspost" correspondent states that a battle is proceeding along the Chatalja line.

The third Bulgarian army, which is advancing just south of Terkos, has captured a position outside Port Delijumus, one of the Chatalja series of defences, 26 miles from Constantinople.

TWO BLOODY BATTLES.

SOFIA, Nov. 7.

It is officially stated that the Bulgarians lost 15,000 killed and wounded during five days' fighting at Lule Burgas and Bunarhissar, and that the Turks lost over 40,000.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7.

The defeated troops are arriving in the capital in a desperate state, having been without food for three days.

Correspondents describe the terrible sufferings endured by many Turkish soldiers wounded in recent battles at Lule Burgas and Bunarhissar, who, after hasty dressing on the field, had to travel along the congested roads to the Chorlu hospitals.

A surgeon who has arrived from Chorlu declares that he had never seen a battlefield so entirely covered with dead and with wounded, for whom there was no possible succour. The scene, he said, was simply an appalling shambles.

Meanwhile, he added, detachments of Turkish cavalry dashed among the fugitives, and all those who were not wounded they drove back to Mukhtar Pasha's force, which was also being strengthened from Rodosto, in the hope of being able to turn the Bulgarian position.

The rains have transformed the plains around Chatalja into a veritable morass, and transport work has become extremely difficult.

In consequence of this it will probably be several days before the main armies again meet.

THE TURKISH CAPITAL.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 8.

There was great terror in Stamboul till the arrival of the foreign warships.

The authorities are organising assistance in order to prevent disturbances. The Christian Ottomans are chiefly imperilled.

The Ambassadors of the five great Powers yesterday held a collective meeting with the Grand Vizier. It is understood that they discussed measures to be adopted to secure the public safety.

ADRIANOPLE.

HAS IT FALLEN?

BELGRADE, Nov. 7.

General Stefanovitch, in command of an army of 50,000 Servians, is now assisting the Bulgarians in the attack on Adrianople.

LONDON, Nov. 8.

The "Daily Mail's" correspondent with the Bulgarians states that Adrianople surrendered on Tuesday, but that the Bulgarians concealed the fact lest the Powers should intervene before the capture of Constantinople.

VISA AND RODOSTO OCCUPIED.

SOFIA, Nov. 7.

The Bulgarians have occupied Visa, 30 miles south-east of Kirk-Kilisse, and Rodosto, on the coast of the Sea of Marmora, 70 miles west of Constantinople.

ANOTHER SERVIAN SUCCESS.

BELGRADE, Nov. 8.

The Servian column advancing on Dibra, 55 miles north-west of Monastir, has routed 15,000 Turks, who had retired on Krushevo, 40 miles east of Dibra, inflicting heavy loss. The Turks are now fleeing towards Dibra.

JAKOVA CAPTURED.

CETINJE, Nov. 8.

The Montenegrins have occupied Jakova, 40 miles south of Metrovitza.

SALONIKA.

ATHENS, Nov. 7.

The report stating that the Turks had withdrawn from Salonika is not true.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 8.

Distressing scenes are being witnessed outside the walls of Salonika, where crowds of destitute refugees from all parts of the country are seeking help.

The authorities are sending as many of the refugees as possible into Asia Minor.

MOSLEM RESENTMENT.

LUCKNOW, Nov. 8.

The Mohammedans are exasperated in connection with Sir Edward Grey's recent speech in the House of Commons, in which he declared, inter alia, that no one could question the right of the Balkan Allies to formulate their own terms. They interpret the speech as an anti-Moslem utterance.

NOTES ON THE WAR.

Nazim Pasha and some of his officers are displaying the traditional qualities of their race in desiring to continue fighting at all hazards. Public opinion in Constantinople is also reported to be hostile to the proposal of the Government for mediation. But the continuation of hostilities could have only one result, the further humiliation of the Turkish army. The defeats they have already sustained, the demoralisation of the rank and file, and the complete breakdown of transport arrangements, make it well nigh impossible that the disasters that have fallen upon the Ottoman forces hitherto should be retrieved even to a slight extent. Here and there a rally might take place, but it could only be ephemeral, and would not affect the ultimate result. The alleged disappointment at the attitude of the Triple Entente is of course without justification. The suggestion with regard to the status quo was made before the commencement of the war when an attempt was made by the Powers to avert hostilities by a scheme of reforms in Macedonia. The course of the war has completely altered the situation as it obtained a month ago, and the Powers are bound to recognise the changed condition of affairs.

* * * * *

The correspondent of the "Daily Mail" with the Bulgarian forces reports that Adrianople fell on Tuesday, but that the Bulgarians concealed the fact lest the Powers should intervene before they reached Constantinople. The garrison was in a desperate condition, and it is not surprising that the place has at last been captured. Its occupation by the Bulgarians will enable additional Bulgarian and Servian forces to join in the march to the Turkish capital. Adrianople was occupied by the Russians in the wars of 1829 and 1878, but in each case without resistance.

* * * * *

The advance of the Bulgarians on the Chatalja line of forts was apparently delayed owing to the weather, rains having turned the ground into a morass, according to one message. The third Bulgarian army advancing south from Terkos seems, however, to have met with a further success by the capture of one of the forts stretching from Chatalja to Terkos. The Turkish army has presumably now been driven further back, but no further details are to hand. The country is a very difficult one in which to conduct military operations, and although there are the railway and at least two main roads to Constantinople, progress is inevitably slower than would appear from the mere distances.

* * * * *

The first report from Athens with regard to the withdrawal of the Turkish troops from Salonika is now denied. But the town must be in a sorry plight, and the distress of the non-combatants and the thousands of refugees who have flocked into the town must be very great. The Servian convergence on Monastir still continues, and a force which was marching on Dibra to the north-west of Monastir is reported to have routed a force of 15,000 Turks. Meanwhile the Montenegrins have occupied Jakova, which is 40 miles S.S.W. of Mitrovitza, the terminus of the Salonika railway; but the siege of Scutari still continues, and Essad Pasha refuses to surrender on the ground of Turkish reverses in other places, the truth of which he does not believe.

* * * * *

One aspect of the possible evacuation of Constantinople by the Turks, and consequential renunciation of sovereignty over their European provinces, is the financial position of Turkey. Over a hundred million pounds is comprised in Turkey's foreign government loans, whilst the amount of foreign capital invested in railway and other undertakings must be very large, especially from Germany, Austria, Great Britain, and France. Presumably, however, the Powers will insist on some arrangement for securing payment of interest on the loans, whatever is the fate of Constantinople. The only recent instance of a country being completely subjugated and annexed by another Power is that of the South African Republics; in that case Great Britain took over the loans.

IRISH FINANCE.

THE DEFICIT PROBLEM.

DEBATE IN THE COMMONS.

LONDON, Nov. 8.

The House of Commons last evening began the discussion on Irish finance, which will occupy seven sittings.

The Postmaster-General, Mr. H. L. Samuel, in moving the first resolution, said that the Irish deficit must be taken as a dominant factor. It was inconsistent with the essence of Home Rule that the deficit should rest for all time with the British taxpayer, but the burden could not be immediately thrown upon Ireland. Therefore, it was necessary that normal increments in revenue should go to the Imperial Exchequer until the accounts balanced. The bill did not give fiscal autonomy. In no federation, he said, did a province involve the central exchequer in an annual loss. Therefore, Ireland was different from all Federal precedents.

Mr. Austen Chamberlain said that the Government proposal broke every Federal precedent, because Ireland has a deficit, and was granted greater powers than any local Legislature of any federation. This financial scheme would not heal old feuds, but would open new ones.

Mr. William O'Brien (Independent Nationalist) said that the proposals stripped the Irish of the control of five-sixths of their own taxation.

Mr. Lloyd George, the Imperial Chancellor, said England was giving nothing that had not already been given to Ireland. It was dishonest to assert that the Government was finding £2,000,000 to finance Home Rule.

Mr. Bonar Law, leader of the Opposition, contrasted the action of New South Wales in sacrificing freetrade to secure union to the action of England in sacrificing it, not for the purposes of union, but for the purposes of disintegration.

The resolution was carried by 2?0 votes to 181, the aid of the guillotine having been requisitioned.

A memorandum representing the views of 70 Liberal members of the House of Commons is being circulated at Westminster. It opposes clauses 15 and 16 of the Home Rule Bill, which permit the Irish Parliament to reduce or increase the Customs duties, and contends that the provisions of the clauses are calculated to lead to the setting up of Customs barriers. The memorandum further urges the Government to leave the matter to the unfettered decision of the House.

AMERICAN PRESIDENCY.

DR. WILSON'S VICTORY.

BRITISH MINISTER'S APPRECIATION.

LONDON, Nov. 7.

Mr. F. D. Acland, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, addressing a Liberal meeting at Taunton, said that Dr. Wilson's election for the American Presidency was a victory for the reduction of tariffs, and a message of "God-speed" might well go to the new President in his task to reduce the tariff, and bring trusts to their proper position.

Mr. Acland added that, short of a revolution, it was almost impossible to disestablish trusts. The only thing to do was to keep clear of them from the beginning.

CONTROL OF SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.

The Democrats are practically assured of the control of the Senate, even allowing that the results in all doubtful States should be in favour of the Republicans. The Democrats now number exactly half the Senate, with a Democratic Vice-President in the chair, who has the power of giving a casting vote.

PROGRESSIVES' CAMPAIGN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.

Governor Johnson, of California, who was the Progressive candidate for the Vice-Presidency, on being interviewed on the result of the campaign, said the Progressives were not downcast at their defeat. The new party had come to stay in American politics. There would be no turning back until victory was achieved. New life had been shown in politics since the Progressives had emerged, and a better national existence was to be hoped for.

STATE OF PARTIES.

With regard to the election of the Senate, everything depends on the composition of the State Legislatures, which elect the senators. Half the Senate would give each party 48 votes, but the Republicans include some members of the Progressive party. Of the 31 retiring senators, 14 are Democrats and 17 Republicans. The former all come from the Southern States, which are overwhelmingly Democrat, with the exception of one senator from Maine. But the latter States also returned a Democratic majority at the recent elections, so that no party change is likely to take place with regard to the 14 Democrats. As for the 17 Republicans, three of them come from States which returned a Democratic majority two years ago, viz., Nebraska, Montana, and Colorado. Of the others, New Jersey is almost certain to have returned a Democratic State Legislature; and Illinois, Delaware, and Wyoming had comparatively small Republican majorities. The other Republican States concerned, with their respective party complexion, are:—Idaho (48-34), Oregon (85-5), New Hampshire (234-182), Massachusetts (164-116), Kansas (106-59), S. Dakota (133-16), Iowa (104-54), Minnesota (131-52), Michigan (116-16), and Rhode Island (87-51). The position is complicated by the fact that the Progressive party also ran a ticket at the State elections, and some of the senators nominated may belong to that party. As the Democrats were in a minority of at least six in the last Senate, if they receive all the retiring Republican senators their largest possible majority is 11; but it is more likely not to exceed five or six. On some questions, however, such as the tariff, they will receive the general support of the Progressives.

EMPIRE TRADE.

AUSTRALIAN CONTRACTS.

MANCHESTER SHIP CANAL.

LONDON, Nov. 8.

At the sittings of the Empire Trade Commission yesterday, the representatives of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce complained of the inadequate time allowed in Australia and New Zealand for the forwarding of tenders. In many cases the time allowed was so limited that it was impossible for British firms to tender, except by cabling.

They also protested against the proposal to amend the New Zealand Income Tax Act in order to tax the businesses of non-resident traders.

A representative from the Manchester Ship Canal urged the deletion of the clause in Australian charters prohibiting the use of the ship canal. All other countries, he said, had done so.

THE SUFFRAGISTS.

DISTURBANCES IN IRELAND.

LONDON, Nov. 7.

In further protest against the amendment to allow the female franchise to be embodied in the Home Rule Bill being negatived, the suffragists smashed the windows in the Custom-house in Dublin, and chemicals were placed in several letter boxes.

Two arrests were made.

Suffragists also smashed windows in Donegal-square and the post-office, Belfast.

AGROUND IN A FOG.

ROYAL GEORGE'S PASSENGERS.

QUEBEC, Nov. 7.

The 900 passengers on the steamer Royal George, which went aground in a fog in the St. Lawrence, have been rescued.

The vessel has only 6ft of water, and there is a danger of her toppling over.

The crew is still aboard, and tugs are standing by.

THE RUSSELL CASE.

ROYAL COMMISSION APPOINTED.

Judge Heydon was yesterday appointed a Royal Commissioner to inquire into the reasons for the recent dismissal of a miner named Russell from the Mount Kembla mine.

WOLLONGONG, Friday.

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. Holme, Registrar, informed Mr. Peter Bowling, miners' general secretary, by telephone, that a Royal Commission will be established as soon as possible, believing that if an inquiry resulted in disproving the charges made against James Russell, secretary of the Mount Kembla miners' lodge, public opinion might be a powerful factor in enforcing Russell's reinstatement. The executive officers of the Illawarra Colliery Employees' Association are in accord with Mr. Holme in this respect, and are prepared to assist him in that direction. Mr. Holme also informed Mr. Bowling that he had a guarantee that Russell could get employment in any other colliery in the district, and advised that Russell should adopt that course. Personally, Mr. Bowling could not advise that course on his own responsibility. Russell is now placing the matter before the executive officers for advice. So far as the general condition of the district is concerned, Mr. Bowling fully realises what a crisis such as this means to business interests. He says there is no desire to injure; that there will be no strike if it is at all possible to avoid it. The executive officers are trying their utmost to arrive at an amicable settlement of the whole trouble. The Corrimal miners' lodge at their meeting on Wednesday night passed a resolution of confidence in the executive officers. Similar motions have been passed by all other lodges.

SCAFFOLD BREAKS.

MEN HURLED 45 FEET.

FATAL BUILDING ACCIDENT.

A scaffolding used in the construction of a pipe kiln at Fowler's pottery works, off Fitzroy-street, Marrickville, collapsed yesterday morning. As a result, one man lost his life and three others are lying in the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital, seriously injured. Their names are:—

David Barr, 53, of Clarendon-road, Stanmore, died in Marrickville Hospital. His injuries were, fracture of right thigh, left leg broken, and internal injuries.

Peter Rigby, 16, of Ross-street, Camperdown, concussion of the brain, scalp wounds, and a fractured thigh.

Herbert Sayers, 38, of Charlotte-street, Dulwich Hill, scalp wounds, concussion and injuries to back.

John Shea, 35, of Judd-street, Oatley, concussion of the brain and scalp wounds.

The four men, together with another named Joseph Barlow, had mounted to the scaffolding, which was about 45 feet above the level of the ground, and were just making preparations to start laying the bricks, when the scaffolding crumpled up beneath them. Barlow, with more presence of mind than the others, sprang from the falling timbers just in time, and succeeded in catching hold of a derrick pole, used for hauling material to the top of the scaffolding. He slid down this to safety, just in time to see his companions hurled to the ground in a mass of falling debris.

A number of people were soon on the spot, and a message for assistance was despatched to the Newtown District Ambulance. This was quickly responded to, and the injured men were conveyed to the hospital. Barr's injuries were so severe that he died a few minutes after admission.

John Shea, who received the least injuries, stated shortly after the accident: "We had just got on to the top scaffolding, and I was looking for a place to commence work. Suddenly I felt the timbers shake, and before I knew where I was, the whole thing gave way. As I was going I saw Joe Barlow make a spring for the derrick pole, and then I remembered nothing more till I opened my eyes in the carpenter's shed, where we were taken immediately after the accident. I can't account for the scaffolding giving way, as we only put it up the night before, and took a lot of trouble over it."

DAMAGE BY FIRE.

ESTIMATE OF £50,000.

The three disastrous fires in the city on Thursday and Friday, within 24 hours of one another, caused very heavy damage, and though the fire adjusters cannot give actual figures as yet, the estimate must be somewhere in the vicinity of £50,000.

The following additional particulars of insurances on the Spring-street building, owned by G. J. and N. D. Cohen, are supplied by the Fire Adjusters, Messrs. Rooke and Springhall:—On the building, Norwich Union, £10,000, United, £7750 Charles Markell, tenant, Insurance Office of Australia £1500, Phoenix £5000; Griffith Bros., I.O.A. £250; J. A. D. Gibson and Co., Royal, £250; Fraser, Uther, and Co. (fixtures), Northern, £300; Bushells, Ltd., Norwich Union, £750; Alfred Harvey, Guardian, £1000, Federal Mutual, £1000, Phoenix, £3350; Kershaw, Martin, and Young, South British, £100; Deacon and Co., South British, £1000.

The Robur Tea Company, who were sufferers by the Kent-street fire, had insurances in the Mercantile Mutual Company amounting to £1800; Walter E. Burney and Co., £1950 with the United and Scottish Union; Collier and Sons, £200 with the Norwich Union.

It is impossible to give any authentic figures regarding the total damage done by Friday's fire at Robert Dey, Son, and Co.'s premises, Clarence-street.

The outbreak of fire which occurred in the premises of Robert Dey, Son, and Co., 275 Clarence-street, late on Thursday night, as reported in our issue of yesterday, was subdued only after a very hard fight. For some time after the first sign of fire was discovered the firemen were at work, and such a quantity of water was poured into the building that a good deal of damage resulted on that account to the stock, which was mostly paper. The damage to the building itself was confined to the basement and three next floors, which suffered from the fire, heat, and water. The contents of the building, consisting of printing presses and printing material, were insured, part in the Queensland Insurance Company for £1500, and part in the Guardian Association Company for £350.

ALLEGIANCE TO KING.

THE OATH REFUSED.

CADET ORDERED IMPRISONMENT.

KALGOORLIE, Friday.

At the Kalgoorlie Police Court yesterday Frank Thornett, 18, appeared to answer a charge that, he being a person subject to military law, refused to take the oath of allegiance or make an affirmation as required by the Defence Act. Defendant pleaded guilty. Adjutant Long, who appeared on behalf of the Military Department, stated that Thornett had been medically examined, and had been certified fit for military service, but when he was asked to take the oath or make an affirmation he refused to do so.

The magistrate asked defendant if he wished to make an explanation.

Thornett: I was medically examined, and was prepared to serve, but when I read the Act I found it contained many provisions with which I do not agree, and I could not conscientiously take the oath. The Act provides that I might be ordered out in the event of civil strife.

The magistrate said the Act was binding upon all who were subject to its provisions. As to the laws of the country, he supposed there was scarcely a man who would not alter them in some way if he had the remaking of them. The ordinary man was content to submit to the views of the majority.

Thornett: If it were a trivial matter I would submit, but this is a principle of great importance to me. I cannot take the oath of allegiance.

The magistrate: The Act gives me no option but to imprison you if you persist in your refusal, and I do not wish to have to take that course. I will, therefore, give you an opportunity now of reconsidering your position, and to take the oath or make an affirmation.

Thornett: If I took the oath it would be under protest, and if I broke it I should not consider my action dishonourable. I cannot possibly swear any allegiance to the King.

The magistrate: I don't wish to hear any further argument. The Act gives me power to imprison you for six months, but I do not wish to be too severe on you. You will be imprisoned for one month, and you will be kept apart from criminals while in prison.

SOBER AUSTRALIANS.

LORD DENMAN'S COMMENDATION.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The annual interstate conference of the International Order of Good Templars commenced on Wednesday morning, all the States of the Commonwealth being represented. The delegates first visited Federal Government House, where the Governor-General (Lord Denman) welcomed them. Admiral Sir G. King-Hall was also present.

His Excellency said that Australia compared very favourably with other countries in the matter of temperance, and he could instance the fact that at the Cup race one could walk through the vast crowds and not see a man the worse for liquor. At the same time, it must be admitted that the drink bill was too large here as in other countries, and, as far as their movement worked to reduce this expenditure, it was all for the public good.

Admiral Sir G. King-Hall stated that his experience proved that most of the troubles in the service arose through drink. He was struck by the general sobriety of Australians, particularly in large crowds.

The conference opened later at the Temperance Hall, Mr. C. H. Martin (Grand Chief Templar of Victoria) being elected chairman. In the evening the delegates were entertained by the Grand Lodge of Victoria.

MUTTON STRIKE OFF.

WORK RESUMED.

The strike of mutton slaughtermen and labourers at Glebe Island abattoirs came to an end yesterday morning, all the men agreeing to go to work on their old conditions, but with the increase of 1/ per 100 sheep killed and dressed, as provided for in the latest award.

Some other negotiations are in progress which might bring about a more lasting settlement. The Minister for Labour, Mr. Beeby, is interesting himself, in conjunction with Mr. T. W. Furse and Mr. J. Grainger, the secretary and assistant secretary of the New South Wales branch of the Meat Industry Employees' Union, with a view of making the working conditions more agreeable.

Yesterday's patching up came about in a pleasant sort of way. At about 8 a.m., Mr. O. Waters, the president of the union, was at the abattoirs, and held a conference with members of the Carcase Butchers' Association, who were also present. He was asked the terms under which the men would resume. He replied that the slaughtermen wanted an assurance of 50 sheep per day, and to work at their own speed at the rate of 28s 6d per hundred, while offal-men desired their old rate of 12s 6d per day. The employers agreed to this, and the men went to work.

GAS BILL.

UNION OFFICIAL'S STATEMENT CRITICISED.

MR. CARMICHAEL ALLEGES BAD MOTIVES.

Mr. Carmichael (Minister for Education) took exception to the statement on the Gas Bill which appeared in the "Herald."

"In the first place," he said, "it is one of the most unfortunate things that could have happened that the remarks should have been made at the present juncture. It might almost be said to be an outrage on decency that an ex parte statement such as that should have been made with the apparent purpose of influencing the decision of the bill in one certain direction, when it should only be decided on its merits as regards the company and the general public.

"The trend of the statement, including the interview with the union secretary published under the heading of 'Official Notice' appears to me to be nothing more nor less than an attempt to introduce the most objectionable features of the American tammany system into New South Wales politics. The Government is sought to be influenced in a decision which should be come to in a judicial manner, by the publication of a threat that unless the bill goes through as altered by the Legislative Council, the company will dismiss a number of its employees. No other construction can be placed on the notice.

"The secretary of the union interested, speaking as the official mouthpiece of the union, is brought into the discussion in order to influence the Government's decision. It must be apparent to everybody that the decision in regard to accepting or rejecting the Upper House's amendments must be arrived at on their merits in connection with their application to the good of the general public, and not in regard to their effect on any particular union, or some of the members of that union, or the blame that will attach to the administration by the company's act in dismissing the men, even if it were justifiable.

"The whole statement shows such a partisan bias that it is right I should put the Government's position before the public in two directions. First, the advocates of the company have seen fit to insert in the bill the provision for extension of capital. Whether it is accepted or amended does not deprive the company of the right to take the procedure which has always been taken by the company—the usual procedure of initiating a private bill for that purpose.

"In the second place the dismissal of the men is absolutely in the hands of the company. In that regard the Government has gone out of its way to endeavour to assist the company in making certain extension. A sum of £200,000 is, at the present time, in the hands of the Treasurer as an advance by the Government to the company to enable it to carry out certain necessary works. I was brought about in the following manner:—Representatives of the company waited upon the Premier, pointed out to him that the payment for the proposed resumption of land in Kent-street must necessarily be delayed for many months to come, and that they were anxious to get the instalment of a Kent-street plant into Mortlake at as early a date as possible, so that there would be little dislocation, and one of the essential portions of carrying out that instalment was the construction of a 36in main from Mortlake to Sydney. The Government agreed to advance £200,000 to the company to carry out this work. I know of nothing to prevent the company starting that part of the work at the present time, except the fact that when the Treasurer notified the company that the money was available, the company itself wrote back to the Treasurer and asked him to hold the money for the time being. It was at the request of an official of the company that the money was not paid over and made available for the purpose I have mentioned.

"It must be apparent to anyone that the company's action, the statement of the secretary, and the general trend the the statement to which I am referring, coupled with the suggestion that it will result in aggravation of the Government's present position if the amendments are not agreed to, can have no effect on the decision in regard to the bill now before the House. My position is clear. No responsible public man would yield to the pressure attempted to be applied, and retain his self-respect or the respect of the community.

"I had already come to certain conclusions in regard to the Council's amendments, and they will not be altered either one way or the other by the publication of the matter mentioned, but all the same, I cannot help expressing great regret that the attempt should have been made."

SAFE-BREAKERS.

CITY OFFICE ROBBED.

Safe-breakers entered the offices of the Cooney Medicine Company, 177 Liverpool-street, some time between 6 p.m. on Thursday and 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Fortunately their haul was only a small one.

The burglars gained admittance to the premises by climbing over a fence at the rear, and then forcing the door of the basement. The door was of the French window variety, and very little effort would have been necessary to burst it asunder.

From the basement the intruders made their way to the ground floor, where the offices are situated. The safe was in the back office, and this they apparently commenced upon. Using as a means of attack a crowbar, which they had picked up at the rear of the premises, they tore a large hole in the front of the safe, which is only of very light steel. The mechanism of the lock, however, was still covered by the wooden casing of the safe. This proved to be a mere trifle to the burglars, for they managed to get the lock back without breaking the mechanism. Their labour was only poorly rewarded, for all that the safe contained, besides books, was £10 worth of stamps and about 4s 6d in silver.

They next turned their attention to the desks and cupboards in the room, the drawers of which they burst open and ransacked, without gaining anything of value. The front office was then visited and treated likewise, the thieves securing a couple of articles of jewellery from a rolltop desk. They must have been disturbed, however, for they decamped without opening a couple of drawers. Singularly enough, too, one of the drawers which was not forced usually contains a fair amount of cash. On this occasion it was empty.

The burglars were evidently not novices in the art of burglary, for during all their operations they must have worn gloves. Not a finger print could be found yesterday morning. A cigarette-holder was found, however, which evidently belonged to one of the men. Senior-detective Walker and Detectives Malone and Hooper are investigating the case.

FEDERAL POWERS.

THE NEW BILL.

LEAVE TO INTRODUCE.

IMPORTANT CHANGES.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

To-day in the House of Representatives, the Attorney-General was given leave to introduce the bill dealing with the next referendum.

Every effort is being made to disarm as much as possible of the public opposition to the proposals for the alteration of the Constitution without surrendering the chief object for which the party is fighting.

The numerous proposals submitted at the 1911 referendum, under the Legislative Powers Act, in one general question, are to be cut up into separate questions, so that individual electors will be enabled to vote upon each upon its own merits, and will not be compelled to condemn all. This action is being taken to meet the allegation that the people were last year asked to swallow a mass of complex and almost incomprehensible proposals, all jumbled up together. At the 1913 referendum each further power asked for is to be set out in a separate question.

The Government has directed special attention to the removal also of the objections raised last year to the possibility of Commonwealth interference with the State or local government concerns, under the additional powers asked for. To this end the party propose to provide specifically for the exclusion of railways from the proposed Commonwealth authority over trade and commerce, to exclude municipalities from the corporations to be brought under Commonwealth regulation, and to exclude State business enterprises or industries conducted by any State Government, or any public local authority acting under rights accorded by the State, from the power of Federal nationalisation.

These changes in the referendum proposals have been adopted with the object of allaying public misapprehension, without detracting to any very vital extent from the far-reaching powers, which are being sought. The electors are still to be asked to confer substantially what was put forward in 1911, though two or three specific exceptions relating to State and municipal concerns are to be set out. An alteration is also to be made in connection with the proposed Commonwealth authority over the conditions of employment under the State railways system. Last year practically unlimited Federal power was sought over "wages or conditions of labour in any trade, industry, or calling, and the prevention and settlement of disputes, including disputes in relation to employment at or about railways, the property of the State." The Government has now decided to make some show of limiting the Federal intrusion into the field of railway control. It is not intended this time to try to secure any Commonwealth control over the trade and commerce of railways. As pointed out above, the proposed authority over industrial disputes relating to employment under the railway system is to be confined specifically to any precise dispute which may arise.

While the proposals are being thus pared down to some slight extent, an important addition has been introduced under the heading of "labour and employment." Last year full power was sought over all questions of wages and conditions of labour, including industrial disputes. Next year authority is to be sought, not only for Commonwealth jurisdiction over all this, but for Federal authority also over unemployment. It is probable, further, that some alteration will be made in the proposal for the right to nationalise monopolies, in order that it may be made quite clear that it is intended that combinations engaged wholly in the supply service, shall come within the reach of the Federal authority, just as much as monopolies for production and manufacture.

There has been a good deal of support in the party for a scheme for the supply of an official statement of the case for and against the referendum proposals, to every elector in the Commonwealth, at the expense of the Commonwealth. It has been suggested that the Ministry and the Opposition should each prepare its case in memoranda of equal length, and the two shall then be posted to each elector whose name appears on the roll.

ENGLAND'S BLUNDER

BALKAN ALLIES RIGHTS.

BISHOP LONG CONDEMNS THE TURK.

BATHURST, Friday.

In a recent lecture, Dr. Long, Anglican Bishop, expressed a wish that the Powers would not intervene in the present war in the Balkans, but allow the belligerents to fight it out. Following this, the Bishop was accused of taking up an un-Christianlike attitude in the face of cabled barbarities, which the war is involving.

Dr. Long has replied: "I am no lover of war," he says, "but at the same time I hold that there are worse things than war, and that the condition of the peoples of the Balkans for the past 500 years has been worse than war, but as war is, I am prepared to welcome it to end a worse evil. Therefore, I justify the allies in their present effort to free their countries from a cruel oppression. The Congress of Paris actually handed over to the Turks a brave and independent country like Montenegro, which for 400 years had gallantly resisted this brutal enemy to their faith and country, and had never bowed to the Moslem yoke. Such was the cynically shameless reward that she got for her neutrality during the Crimean war. As a Power, though not as a people, England was unmoved by Mr. Gladstone's magnificent appeal for the massacred Bulgarians, and when Bulgaria was liberated by Russia, England was foremost in tearing up the treaty of San Stefano, which gave nearly everything for which the allies are now fighting, and substituting for it the treaty of Berlin, when Macedonia was again placed under the spiked heel of the Turk. England was quite ready to be gulled by the flamboyant self praise of Lord Beaconsfield that he had brought back peace with honour. The honour was miserable dishonour which the groans of the dying in renewed massacres were soon to prove, and the peace was like that of the false prophets of Beaconsfield's race, who cried peace when there was no peace, as there diplomacy. England's action became recognised as one of the biggest blunders ever made. Lord Salisbury was Lord Beaconsfield's colleague at Berlin, and after years he admitted with the cynical frankness which so often shocked his party managers, 'We put our money on the wrong horse.' I gave my audience the opinion of Professor Vamberg, who is probably the first authority in the world on the Turkish question, and who is also a very friendly critic, that the greatest hope of the reform of Turkey lies in her being deprived of the European elements, which are foreign to herself, and certainly the only hope of the Balkan nations lies in being rid of the alien Turk. The powers have wept their crocodile tears too often to impose upon anyone any longer. The allies realise that he who would be free must free himself. All honour to them and all good success be theirs."

INTERSTATE CRICKET.

NEW SOUTH WALES v WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

Owing to heavy rain yesterday there was no play at the Sydney Cricket Ground. At the luncheon hour it was decided to postpone the match until to-day, when, if the conditions are favourable, a start will be made. Notwithstanding the recuperative nature of the Sydney ground, it is doubtful if they will commence before luncheon.

ALLEGED COMBINE.

COAL SUPPLIES.

VICTORIAN COMPLAINT.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

During the discussion on the Estimates in the Legislative Assembly to-day, Mr. Carlisle was responsible for some discussion on the matter of trusts and combines. He described the Metropolitan Gas Company as a monopoly, and a very harmful one. The Railway Department, as well as the Metropolitan Gas Company, had, he said, refused to take coal from Messrs. J. and A. Brown at a cheaper rate than that at which Messrs. M'Ilwraith, M'Eacharn supplied it. The Railway Department had consistently refused to take coal from Messrs. J. and A. Brown until the present Minister assumed office. The combine told the Commissioners that unless they took the whole supply from it they would not get any coal. He dared to say the Metropolitan Gas Company would have taken some Pelaw Main coal from Messrs. J. and A. Brown if Messrs. M'Ilwraith, M'Eacharn, and Co. let it. The Railway Department admitted that Pelaw Main coal was the best used on its lines. He did not believe in combines.

Mr. Prendergast: There is a man down Collins-street who fixes the price of wheat for all Australia.

Mr. Carlisle read correspondence which passed between the Metropolitan Gas Company and Messrs. J. and A. Brown, who stated that the company would have saved £30,000 or £40,000 by accepting the firm's offer. The company said that its engineer had reported against the coking property of the Pelaw-Main coal, but Mr. Carlisle stated that the Brighton Gas Company, which used this coal, got 5s per ton more for its coke than the Metropolitan Gas Company obtained. The Metropolitan Gas Company took coal at a higher price than that at which Messrs. J. and A. Brown offered it. The firm, in one letter to the company, said that nobody in Australia did so much as the company did to prevent fair competition. The firm also said that Mr. J. Grice, chairman of the Metropolitan Gas Company, had been appointed chairman of Messrs. Howard Smith and Company, and that it considered it hopeless in future to do any business with the Metropolitan Gas Company.

MR. BEEBY'S POSITION

A GUARDED STATEMENT.

NO SPECIFIC DENIAL.

Mr. Beeby does not deny the probability of his early retirement from politics, as suggested in the "Herald" news columns yesterday. When asked to make a statement of his position last night Mr. Beeby said:—

"I am aware that there is a section of the executive that is strongly hostile to me, and I have heard various rumours as to the future, but have not received any official communication as is suggested in to-day's leading article in the 'Herald.'

"Neither do I think that the majority of trades unionists in any way resent my administration of the Industrial Disputes Act. I believe that the majority think that the Act is a great improvement on any previous legislation of its kind, and that the new organisation for its administration has done, particularly in the conciliation section, good work.

"If there is any substantial resentment it comes only from the section of the unionists who do not desire any system of arbitration at all. My experience of the last few months has strengthened my opinion that the big majority of unionists do not want the old system of indiscriminate striking restored, but believe that they get better results from an arbitration law which gives the increased facilities of the present Act.

Are you likely to get into trouble over the Referendum? Mr. Beeby was asked.

"I don't know," he replied, "whether any trouble is to arise over the Referendum or not. With others, I am waiting to see the details of the measure submitted to the Federal Parliament. My position on that question is the same to-day as it was some years ago, when I gave notice of a resolution in this House that it was advisable to summon a new national convention to consider a rearrangement of the whole Federal scheme.

"During the contest on the last Referendum I supported any amendments of the Constitution which were necessary to give the Federal Parliament the full exercise of Federal functions. What I opposed then was the amendments which proposed to transfer to the Federal authorities purely local functions, unless such transfer were accompanied with a reconstruction of the whole Constitution.

"I still support any proposal to give the Federal Parliament control over Australian monopolies, to extend the industrial powers of the Commonwealth in such a way as to enable them to completely and effectively deal with industrial disputes in which the conditions of one State are affected by the conditions in another. Any proposals in the Referendum Bill which cover these grounds will be supported by me as before. But if the proposal for the transfer of the whole commerce power and any purely local functions be submitted, I will be in the same position as on the previous referendum."

LABOUR OPPOSITION DENIED.

ARBITRATION AND PENALTIES.

The secretary of the Labour Council of New South Wales, Mr. E. J. Kavanagh, M.L.C., strongly resents the implication that has gained publicity in a section of the press to the effect that the Labour Council had expressed displeasure at the attitude of the Minister for Labour and Industry, Mr. Beeby, in regard to the arbitration proposals. He points out that the council, whilst discussing the report of its committee which waited upon the Minister, rather took the view that Mr. Beeby had given a very favourable reply to the requests made. He had, as a matter of fact, agreed to 90 per cent. of the suggestions made. Those which he did not agree to he had told the delegates very plainly his reasons why. Other issues he promised to leave to the decision of the Cabinet, but on the whole the council's deputation had succeeded admirably.

"During the discussion on the report of the deputation, not one delegate on the council had," remarked Mr. Kavanagh, "said one word detrimental to Mr. Beeby. Some expressed regret that he had not seen his way to comply with all the suggested amendments, but there was no word or suggestion which could be taken as indicative of a desire to see him out of his position as Minister for Labour. The adoption of the committee's report was agreed to unanimously at Thursday night's meeting. This unanimity did not necessarily mean that delegates were entirely satisfied with the Minister's replies, but was merely the expression of the council's opinion, that the deputation had done what it could, and had given a faithful report. Nothing whatever was said or inferred at the council's meetings which could be transposed into even a supposition that the council was opposed to, or would interfere in any way with, Mr. Beeby's next candidature for Parliament.

"I feel confident that the council would never dream of doing anything to the injury of Mr. Beeby politically. There is no reason why it should. For my part," added the secretary, "I can say we have received more consideration from and been dealt with more fairly by this Labour Government, and particularly by Mr. Beeby during his occupancy of the position of Minister for Labour, than we had been by any previous Government or Minister for Labour. I say, therefore, it is most misleading for any paper to assert that the council was in any way opposed to Mr. Beeby, as it is most unfair to Mr. Beeby himself."

"For anyone to say we shall have compulsory arbitration and no penalty clauses was to talk mere nonsense. Whatever Government might be in power, there would have to be penalty clauses. There were about three ways in which these penalties could be imposed. One was that a man can go to gaol altogether for a term; another was to submit to the process of levy and distress, which meant having the bailiff put in the home and being sold up, because he could not meet the fine, and the third was the garnishee process, which was tantamount to a deferred payment system. Mr. Beeby had admitted that the garnishee system was in the first place the most effective system of imposing penalties, and at the same time the most just and fair to the people.

CIVIC FRANCHISE.

PROPOSED ADULT SUFFRAGE.

REJECTION A FOREGONE CONCLUSION.

The question of the municipal franchise is looming large on the political horizon just now. It may form the casus belli in the impending and inevitable war between the Labour Ministry and the Legislative Council of New South Wales, for it is certain that the proposal of the former to extend the principle of adult suffrage into the municipal sphere will be resisted by the latter. Already the Legislative Council has—on first asking—refused to accept the adult suffrage vote for the election of the Greater Sydney Convention; and it is certain that rejection awaits the City Corporation Suffrage Bill, which would extend adult voting to the Inner City.

The municipal and shire franchise is in a rather mixed-up condition in this State. The position to-day is radically changed from that which existed in the city eleven years ago, and in the municipalities six years ago. Before the City Corporation Act Amendment Act of 1901, the city franchise consisted of an "owner" and an "occupier" qualification; but while the householder, or occupier, had one vote only for each house, the owner had four. Though technically limited to the use of the four votes in each city ward, the owner had a bigger "pull" than appeared on the surface, because a man who owned a number of houses, although he was limited to his "four-votes-one-house," was able to distribute his votes among his henchmen by registering various reliable individuals as ratepayers—and ostensible owners—by paying the rates in their names.

The municipal franchise in the small territory under local government before the Local Government Act of 1906 (less than 3000 square miles out of a New South Wales territory of 300,000 square miles) approximated to the city franchise, viz., the plural-voting owner and the householder. There was no such thing as shire government until 1905, when Sir Joseph Carruthers passed the first Shires Act, from a bill framed by the Government of Sir John See.

THE WORK OF THE AEDILE CLUB.

In 1901, when the lesson of the plague had thoroughly soaked in, Sir William Lyne was anxious to supersede the civic constituency that had been content to elect the helpless City Council, which abdicated its health functions to the Citizens' Vigilance Committee during the plague, and having heard of some enthusiasts who were studying, lecturing, and writing on municipal government in a coterie called the Aedile Club sought them out. When Sir William asked them if they had a reform bill ready, they, like Moltke, murmured, "Third portfolio to the left!" and produced the City Corporation Act Amendment Bill of 1901, under which the first reform council was elected.

This bill had been drafted privately by Messrs. Thomas Hughes, John Hughes, and Fitzgerald, and among its main features were (1) the redistribution of seats; (2) the ending of the straggling one-man-each-year retirements, and the introduction of the general election in city affairs; and (3) the broadening of the franchise. The results of this broadening were notable in the calibre of the new men and the new system which they introduced.

THE OLD FRANCHISE.

The old city franchise was remarkable, not so much for the persons whose names were on the rolls as for those who were left off. Thus the business man who occupied part of a great premises, and who probably had a turnover of half a million a year—a "merchant prince"—had no vote and no voice in city affairs; while the caretaker, who slept on the premises, had a franchise as "occupier." The leading professional men, doctors, lawyers, surveyors, engineers, who worked and had their interests in the city, though their homes were in the suburbs, had no votes. Prominent barristers and solicitors had no votes for their chambers at Wentworth-court, or Denham, Wigram, or Selbourne chambers. But those busy buildings had four caretakers, whose votes had to represent the civic interests of the brainiest men in the State.

And so on through all the ranks of the men who were leaders in law, scientific matters, commerce, art, etc. The Act which was drafted in the Aedile Club, and passed by Sir W. Lyne, changed all that. Here is the substance of the three sets of franchises:—

City Corporation.

(1) Owner (male or female) of—(a) a freehold interest of the value of £5 a year or upwards; (b) or of a leasehold interest of the yearly value of £25.

Joint freeholders or leaseholders, as companies, corporations, or trustees, may nominate the voter.

(2) Occupier (for six months), joint or several, of a house, warehouse, counting-house, shop, including room or part of a house, of a yearly value of £10 or upwards.

Public companies, corporations, and trustees may nominate the voter.

(3) Lodger (for six months), occupying jointly or severally a lodging in a dwelling-house in the same ward, and paying a rent of £10 and upwards annually.

IN THE SHIRES.

The shire franchise approximates to this somewhat in the owner and occupier qualifications, but gives no vote to lodgers; and adds to the list—

Shires:—

1. An occupier under a miner's right or business license.
2. A share farmer of ratable lands.
3. Public servant occupying lands or buildings in the area owned by the Crown and paying rent for same.
4. Crown lessee or licensee of ratable Crown lands.
5. Resident manager of Crown lease.

Municipalities:—

SUBURBAN MUNICIPAL FRANCHISE.

Then comes the municipal franchise, which is the narrowest of all, for not only does it lack the lodger franchise of the City Corporation (though some of the suburban municipal areas are more thickly congested than the city area), but the "occupier" franchise is restricted by imposing upon the "oral tenant" (i.e., weekly tenant without written lease) a condition precedent to enrolment, viz., the production of a statutory declaration of his bona fides as a tenant. But, in addition to the persons eligible in the shire franchise, there are the following entitled to enrolment in the municipal area:—

1. Ratepaying lessees, including joint lessees, and the manager, secretary, or director of a company or body corporate, or trustee of ratable land under lease, and liable to pay the rates for such land.

THE OTHER STATES.

The above, roughly speaking, sets out the different classes of persons who are entitled to claim enrolment and to the exercise of the city, municipal, and shire franchise in the State of N.S.W.

Taken in bulk, it is equal to and in some cases an advance upon the franchise of any of the Australian States, save New Zealand. In the Sydney corporation area it equals the British county and city franchise, in the rest of N.S.W. it is more conservative; and, strangely enough, is more conservative in the thickly populated municipalities than in the sparsely populated shires.

ARGUMENTS FOR AND AGAINST.

The arguments advanced by the opposing parties in this controversy are as follows:—

1. By the supporters of adult civic franchise: That the time is ripe for an advance in the civic franchise to the adult standard, because (a) all urban dwellers are either directly or indirectly payers of rates; (b) the broadening of the franchise in the civic sphere has brought a higher type of representative, a higher efficiency in the work and better results; (c) the interests of property may be safeguarded by having separate rolls of ratepayers (as in the Local Government Act) the ratepayers having the right to demand a poll upon questions of finance, powers, etc.

By the opponents:

That municipal representation is based and always has been based upon ownership or occupation of property, that this has an historical and logical basis, and that the occupation title to enrolment has been sufficiently broadened in cities when it has been extended to include lodgers, which qualification has been construed to include members of a family who are contributing to the expenses of a household a sum of not less than £10 per annum (or 4s per week).

These are the points at issue in the very important controversy which is now proceeding, and which may involve the first real skirmish in the inevitable war between the Legislative Assembly and the Legislative Council.

THE APPIN TRAGEDY.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The inquest concerning the deaths of John Andrews, dairy farmer, of Appin, and his wife and four children, whose bodies were found in their home at Appin, was held yesterday.

A verdict was returned of murder and suicide while in a state of temporary insanity through ill-health.

FREEHOLD.

DOMINION'S NEW POLICY.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Nov. 1.

The principal legislative enactment of the session now drawing to a close is the Land Bill. It does not profess to deal with the whole of the Massey Government's land policy, but it carries out the promise of the party to give Crown tenants the right to convert to the freehold. Another feature of the bill is the part designed to facilitate the subdivision of large estates. As a complement to this bill, another makes increases in the scale of graduated land taxation, and it is claimed by the Government that the work of the session will be memorable as a contribution towards settlement of the land problem. This is rather a sanguine view to take. The alteration of terms of tenure will not, cannot, help a single landless person to get a footing on the soil. It will not make a single acre additional available for the mass of people who are becoming more and more grieved because they are divorced from the land. Moreover, the option to convert affects a comparatively small number of Crown tenants, since the endowment lands are not included. The area set apart in 1907 as national endowments was 7,000,000 acres, to be added to as pastoral leases fell in until the total became 9,000,000 acres. At present the endowment lands are about 8,000,000 acres, so that another 1,000,000 acres has yet to be added to the area that—if present professed intentions hold good—is to be reserved by the State to be disposed of by lease. (The revenue from these endowments is earmarked for the national purposes of education and hospital and charitable aid expenditure.)

For all practical purposes the right now given by Parliament to acquire the fee simple applies chiefly to what are known as lease-in-perpetuity lands (999 years).

The other main part of the bill provides a scheme intended to promote the subdivision of large estates and of native lands. In a word, the scheme is that the Minister for Lands and an owner may agree on the subdivision of part or all of such owner's property. The Minister may then survey and road the land at the public cost, the outlay to be a first charge on the proceeds. Conditions of tender and of lease with purchasing clause or purchase by instalments are laid down. In the case of Maori lands the disposal is to be by auction, instead of tender, because it is held that "the Maori does not understand the tender system." There is, so far, no indication that this part of the Land Bill is going to provoke popular enthusiasm. There seems little ground for hoping that it will appreciably relieve the intense land hunger that prevails. The point is that any owner may subdivide now (as many do), and may lease or sell on whatever terms may appear most suitable to vendor and customer. And he can do this without any of the restricting conditions involved in acceptance of State aid.

WIFE MAINTENANCE.

DEALING WITH DESERTERS.

INTERSTATE RESTRICTIONS.

The Interstate Maintenance Orders Bill, submitted to the Assembly by Mr. Holman on Thursday, provides that orders made in an adjoining State for the maintenance of any person may be enforced in this State by a collector, appointed for the purpose, or by assistant collectors, who may be appointed by the supervising officer. Notices may be served by an officer, or be sent to the last known place of residence by registered letter, of the collector's intention to apply to a court for an endorsement of the order. If he appears he may be heard on the ground that he was not heard at the original hearing owing to illness, physical infirmity, or want of means, and that he could have given evidence material to the case.

The collector is empowered to attend the court and conduct the application for endorsement. If the Justices sign the endorsement the order will then be in force in this State. If the defendant can produce satisfactory evidence that the order should not have been made in the first instance he can, by giving security, apply for a variation of rescission, and the Court can withhold any moneys paid to the collector pending the re-hearing. The collector is vested with power to recover any instalments due, and if the order is rescinded these are to be refunded. The process of enforcement will be similar to that already in existence concerning the payment of moneys.

One section of the Bill proposes to insert a new clause in the Prisons Act, providing that any person who is under arrest for disobeying an order of the Court may be engaged to perform work for which he will be paid, and, after deducting the cost of his maintenance under prison control, the balance may be applied towards the satisfaction of the orders against him.

The Governor is also vested with the power to release any person who has been placed in gaol for the non-compliance with an order, unconditionally, or subject to such conditions as the Governor might impose, although the person is liable to arrest.

Summary relief is also proposed in regard to married women who are either cruelly treated or neglected by their husbands. In such circumstances she may live apart from him, a provision that will have the effect in all respects of a decree of judicial separation, and the husband will be obliged to maintain her and their children.

STEAMERS FOR DOCKING.

EXCEPTIONAL RUSH.

LORD CROMER ORDERED NORTH.

There is at present an exceptional rush for docks amongst the shipping in port. A number of vessels are undergoing their yearly and half-yearly overhauls, and the demand for docking has been so great that several vessels will have to await their turns.

The steamer Lord Cromer, 4652 tons, was to have arrived from Valparaiso shortly for docking here, prior to proceeding to Newcastle. As the demand for docking has been so extraordinary, however, it is feared that the Lord Cromer might be held up while awaiting her turn. It has accordingly been decided not to bring her into Sydney for docking, but to order her on to Newcastle to commence loading.

The steamer St. Kilda, 3947 tons, which arrived here recently from Puget Sound, with a cargo of lumber, is going into dock this morning. She has not yet discharged all her cargo, but it is understood that, rather than miss her turn, and have to wait indefinitely, she will go into dock to-day with close on a thousand tons of cargo in her hold.

BRITAIN NOT ASLEEP.

GERMAN MILITARY ACTIVITY.

Mr. W. G. Crane, director of G. E. Crane and Sons, who returned by the R.M.S. Otranto on Thursday, from an extended trip through the Continent of Great Britain, spent a good deal of time in Germany, and formed the opinion that that country was not cordially disposed toward England. He was greatly impressed with the German army. "You see evidence of military activity all over Germany," he said yesterday; "but when you cross over to England this activity apparently ceases, unless one happens to find himself at Aldershot or some other military centre. This had a rather depressing effect upon me, but when I saw the tremendous pressure in the shipbuilding yards on the Clyde and Newcastle-on-Tyne I was immediately reassured, and quite convinced that England was not asleep."

RIFLE SHOOTING.

The Chief Railway Commissioner has decided to allow riflemen when attending matches to travel on the railways at half fares. The riflemen must produce a certificate signed by the captain of the club.

The National Rifle Association has decided that the action of the military authorities in revoking the order allowing rifle clubs to use the Randwick Range on the first Saturday in each month will be prejudicial to the interests of rifle shooting. Representations are to be made through the State Commandant to the Minister for Defence in connection with the matter.

ARMIDALE, Friday.

The October shooting of the Armidale Rifle Club, 15 shots at 500yds, resulted: L. E. Taggs (7), 75; G. Schmetter (7), 75; J. Lewis (6), 75; A. L. Kendall (4), 73.

GOSFORD, Friday.

The Gosford Civilian Rifle Club defeated Cessnock by 31 points. Scores: Gosford: J. Byatt, 76, J. Lachan, 71; W. J. Coulter, 71; T. F. Humphries, 70; A. Coulter, 70; W. J. Cooper, 69; R. Stephens, 68; W. J. Nicholas, 67; F. J. Noble, 66; G. Stephens, 66; A. N. Davey, 65; N. Stewart, 65; total, 825. Cessnock: E. A. Sternbeck, 76; Captain Kirk, 75; G. Barnes, 74; A. T. Kirk, 72; T. Howard, 67; W. Snape, 66; H. Garnsey, 65; A. Marshall, 62; W. M'Garvie, 62; T. Turner, 59; A. E. Kirk, 59; F. Ward-law, 57; total, 794.

Mr. G. E. Upward, Clerk Assistant of the Senate, was seized with a fainting fit at the Federal Parliament House yesterday. He was coming down the stairs from his office, when he was seen to stagger and fall. Dr. Malony, M.P., prescribed treatment, and expressed the opinion that Mr. Upward should rest in a private hospital for a week or two. Mr. Upward only recently returned from a six months' trip to Europe.

He was taken ill shortly after the St. Albans arrived in port on Monday last, and was removed to his residence.

THE FERTILE NORTH.

A MAGNIFICENT SIGHT.

DR. GILRUTH'S MOTOR CAR TOUR.

PORT DARWIN, Friday.

The Administrator, accompanied by the Director of Agriculture, Mr. Clarke, and Mrs. Gilruth, left Port Darwin on the 21st ult., by train for Brock's Creek, whence he proceeded across country in a motor car to the Government Demonstration Farm, at Daly River. It was late in the afternoon before the party left Brock's Creek, and only some 20 miles was covered before dark, when a camp was formed for the night. Starting early the following morning, the Demonstration Farm was reached about 11 a.m. The bulk of the country between Brock's Creek and Daly, about 70 miles, is a magnificent sight at the present time, being covered with a growth of green, luscious grass, the result of early showers. No difficulty was experienced in getting about Daly River country in the motor car, and a good deal of country was examined. The principal crops on the Demonstration Farm are maize, oats, and fodder grasses, which are said to look well. The Administrator was particularly impressed with the evidence of progress to be seen on Pioneer farm, started some three years ago, by Thomas and Roberts, where several splendid crops of maize and other products have been grown, and a comfortable home established. The survey work that has been in progress on Daly River for some months is nearly completed, and within a fortnight about 50 farm homesteads will have been surveyed. After being classified, particulars respecting these blocks will be published in the southern States. Taking everything into consideration, the Administrator is sanguine that white settlement on this river will prove a great success, provided the proper class of people are secured. The party returned to Brock's Creek in time to catch last Tuesday's train for Port Darwin. The Director of Agriculture is particularly sanguine, judging from the results of experiments carried out on the Government demonstration farms, that there is a great future in the cultivation of tobacco in the territory.

REVISED LAND ORDINANCES.

IMPORTANT MODIFICATIONS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the revised Northern Territory land ordinance, which was assented to by the Federal Executive to-day, the ordinance which was recently before the Federal Parliament is repealed. A large number of its provisions are, however, re-enacted. In a memorandum issued by the department tonight the main differences are set out. The pastoral lands are, as before, divided into three classes, but the maximum areas capable of being taken up under any one lease are 300 square miles for first-class land, 600 square miles for second-class land, and 1500 square miles for third-class land, in lieu of 500, 1000, and 3000 square miles respectively. In the agricultural lands, the maximum area for first-class cultivation farms has been raised from 640 acres to 1280, the second-class remaining the same size, viz., 2560 acres. In the mixed farming and grazing lands the maximum area for first-class remains at 12,800 acres, but the maximum area of the second-class is reduced from 64,000 to 38,400 acres.

In part 3 of the ordinance, leases in perpetuity are abolished, and the following system adopted:—Lands in class 1 may be held for 21 years, and in classes 2 and 3 for 42 years. It is provided that the Administrator shall not consent to any assignment or transfer, except by way of mortgage, to any person who at the age of the transfer holds, under pastoral or agricultural lease, any area which, when added to the land included in the lease proposed to be transferred, will exceed the maximum area under the ordinance. The Administrator's discretion in giving or refusing his consent to transfers is limited by a provision that he shall not refuse consent unless the matter has been referred to the classification board, and the board recommends such refusal.

Detailed provisions are inserted as regards residence. The ordinance contains a number of other provisions governing leases.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

PERTH TOWN HALL.

PERTH, Friday.

The long-debated question of the Perth Town Hall site has entered on a new phase. The council considered the Government offer to exchange the present site for £20,000, and the drill hall site now in Federal occupation. Ultimately, on the Mayor's casting vote a motion was carried to ask the Government, now that the Governor is leaving, to give the Government House grounds for a Town Hall site, and place Government House in Perth Observatory grounds, the highest point in Perth, adjacent to Parliament House.

THE UNEMPLOYED.

The Minister for Works, interviewed by the unemployed, who were dissatisfied with the Premier's recent reply, stated that the Government would do everything possible to provide work in the country. He could not promise work in the metropolitan area. In respect to plumbers, the Government would absorb all available. If he could double the plumbers available for connections, he would be glad to do so. There was, however, a difference between plumbers for sewerage work and plumbers for iron work.

MANLY CARNIVAL.

It has been decided to hold the next Venetian carnival at Manly on January 18, 1913. At a meeting held in the local School of Arts on Wednesday evening last a scheme was adopted, and sub-committees were appointed.

THE RAILWAYS.

DUPLICATIONS IN CITY AND COUNTRY.

BOTTLE NECK DISAPPEARS.

The main suburban line between Sydney and Petersham and the Illawarra line as far as Sydenham are undergoing a process of complete transformation. Men are at work all along the lines, tunnelling, bridge-building, sleeper-laying. It is none too soon. At the busy times of the day for many months past the railway traffic along these lines has been so congested that the wonder is no serious accident has occurred. It says a great deal for the railway staff that the traffic has been handled so well.

ENGINEER-IN-CHIEF'S STATEMENT.

The laying of the fifth road between Newtown and Petersham is simply to facilitate the down traffic during the busy hours of the evening—between 4.30 and 6.30. The slow trains which stop at all stations will run along the existing down slow line, and a fast train can slip past there on the outside track and be clear of them before Petersham is reached. The object is to get additional trains on. "The suburban line between Sydney and Strathfield," said Mr. James Fraser, Engineer-in-Chief for Railways, yesterday, "will have to be made a six-track road before many years have passed. We are carrying out the different sections as they become essential."

"So far as the Illawarra line is concerned, new 'down' platforms have already been opened at Redfern. Practically the whole of the track in connection with the widening to Sydenham is complete to Redfern. There is still some work to be done, however, at what is variously known as the Redfern tunnel, the Cleveland-street tunnel, and the 'bottle-neck.' All along the department has had water-pipes and gas pipes to deal with, but recently two huge mains—one of 48 inches and the other of 42 inches—were met with here. They pass underneath the railway and climb up to the road surface, and it is necessary to break them off and move them. This is not an easy task. New piping has had to be secured, and in a week or two the work will have been done. The water supply will have to be cut off for some hours, but this will be done at night, so that the public will not be greatly inconvenienced.

"When we get this Cleveland-street tunnel through," said Mr. Fraser, "we shall be able to bring an additional two lines into Sydney Station, but, as it is, the traffic has been a good deal relieved by the provision that has been made. We shall have nine lines through the Cleveland-street tunnel as soon as the work in hand has been completed, and there are only six there at present. We are putting two new tracks down and a shunting spur to enable us to handle carriages without fouling the main lines. What has been called a 'bottle-neck' in the past is no longer a bottle-neck, but one of the widest parts of the whole road.

"Wells-street bridge is also nearly completed. It has been widened so far as to allow the new tracks to go through. The work along the Illawarra line, from Sydney as far as Sydenham, is costing about £300,000. The cost of the work between Newtown and Petersham is only £25,000, exclusive of the resumptions that have been necessary to provide increased goods yard accommodation at Petersham."

SHIPMENT OF GRAIN.

Another important work, on which good progress is being made, is the Flemington to Glebe Island line. Between Wardell-road and Glebe Island the work is almost completed, with the exception of the section between Canterbury-road, Lewisham, and Charles-street, Leichhardt. It will be four or five months before the work between Flemington and Campsie will have been completed. A very great amount of work has been done between Charles-street, Lechhardt, and Rozelle, mostly cutting and filling.

The department is providing at the head of Rozelle Bay for a yard to store about 3000 railway trucks, and there will probably be from 25 to 30 miles of track in that great yard. It is to be an up-to-date yard for the handling of the produce of the State. There will be numerous grain sheds, grain elevators, etc., and with the appliances that are to be provided it will be possible to load about 1600 tons of wheat (over 57,000 bushels) an hour into ships. In other words, it will be possible to load three or four good-sized vessels a day. What this means to the country can be readily seen. It will do away with the congestion that has existed for years past. Instead of loading extending over several months, all the wheat the State produces will be shipped in 25 days. Apart from motors and a few odds and ends, the department expects to make all the machinery required.

The cost of this work from Flemington to Glebe Island, including the erection of grain sheds, elevators, etc., is expected to run into a million sterling.

THE NEW POWER STATION.

Mention should also be made of the building of the new power station at White Bay, the expenditure on which is running into £560,000. When completed it will develop 70,000-horse-power, but only half is being proceeded with at present. When the electrification of the Milson's Point railway takes place the power will be supplied by this station. The site—part of a reclaimed swamp—was a difficult one, and it was necessary to provide about 4000 piles to get the foundation for the walls and machinery.

A TOTAL OF £2,620,000.

Apart from all these works in the city and suburbs, important railway works are also being carried out in the country. Only quite recently 700 men were put on the duplication between Waterfall and Otford, on the Illawarra line, which is to cost a quarter of a million of money. Then there is the Emu Plains-Glenbrook deviation, which is expected to be finished by the end of the year. This will run into another £250,000. Duplication works are also proceeding on the Southern line. In addition to all this, two additional lines are being laid down between Waratah and West Maitland, at an enormous cost of £230,000.

The works referred to represent a total expenditure of about £2,620,000—£1,890,000 in the city and suburbs, and £730,000 in the country. The expenditure is altogether separate from the cost of construction of new lines, and has been necessitated by the rapid expansion of trade and the congestion of traffic. The cutting down of the Railway Estimates by over £1,000,000 is a serious matter at this juncture.

LYELL FIRE.

INCREASED FUMES AND HEAT.

QUEENSTOWN (Tas.), Friday.

The hopes that at least one body would be recovered from the North Lyell mine to-day, have not been realised. An examination made late last night proved that the air had greatly cleared, but this morning it was found that there were increased fumes, and heat up to as high as 94 degrees. This was more than the men wearing Draeger helmets could work in for any length of time, and it was decided by the management that the second attempt should be made to-night. Preparations were made to carry this into effect, but again it was found that the heat was more than could be borne, and once more there was a compulsory abandonment of the effort. The mine has now been resealed, for an indefinite period, and the fan which has been in use at Crown Lyell shaft will be discontinued for the present. Water is still going into the mine.

MEAT FAMINE ON THE BARRIER.

RUN ON RABBITS.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

The meat famine was most pronounced to-day. Some of the big hotels and restaurants managed to get supplies, but how they did it has not been explained. Private folk, however, were quite without anything but tinned stuff and smallgoods imported from Adelaide. Rabbits sold readily in the streets at 9d to 1/ each. At the auction sales, poultry were rushed, fowls bringing from 3s 6d to 4s each. Fish was scarce, at high prices.

Mr. A. W. Styles, secretary of the Adelaide branch of the Butchers' Association, arrived in the Hill this morning to attempt to patch up the trouble.

VICE-REGAL GARDEN PARTY

THREE THOUSAND GUESTS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

It seemed hardly creditable, but the most glorious, bright sunshine favoured the Vice-Regal garden party this afternoon. The gathering was a very large one, fully 3000 guests being entertained by their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Denman, in the spacious grounds of Federal Government House. The reception, which lasted over an hour, was held on the north lawn. Their Excellencies greeted their guests while standing in the shade of a small marquee. Very uncommon was the beautiful taffeta silk gown worn by Lady Denman, and it suited her admirably. The colouring was a deep acid green, shot with silver grey, and it was partly veiled in a Directoire tunic of biscuit-tinted ninon, embroidered with silk Madras needle-run stitchery. This fell in soft lines over a pointed train. The bodice was trimmed with similar ninon, and had transparent silk fancy net sleeves, the decollete being finished with a necklace of exquisite pearls. A large cloche hat of tagel straw, in the same vivid shade of green, clustered with lovely white willow plumes, completed the attire.

At the rear of their Excellencies were their children, the Hon. Judith being frocked in pale blue cloth, with a satin collar, her shady hat of blue satin having a wreath of pink roses. Her brother wore a white linen sailor suit, with blue collar.

The refreshments were served in the ballroom, the tables being ornamented with crystal vases, with Watsonias, and Argentine sweet pea blooms, whilst the long table where the vice-regal party sat had gilt baskets filled with La France roses. His Excellency the Governor and Lady Fuller were among the early arrivals, and they stood under the marquee, chatting with Admiral Sir George King-Hall and Lady King-Hall, the Misses Alicia and Beatrice Bosanquet, and Major-General and Mrs. Godley.

Lady Fuller wore a charming gown of pale reseda green chiffon satin, with a tunic of deep ficelle tinted ninon, embroidered with eyelet stitchery. Her large hat was swathed with green tulle, and trimmed with roses and an ostrich plume en suite. Miss Phipps, who accompanied Lady Fuller, was becomingly dressed in lagoon blue charmeuse, with a tunic of white Broderie Anglaise, finished with a Directoire sash of deep rose crimson satin. Her black hat was swathed in black tulle, and trimmed with crimson silk roses. Lady King-Hall's modish fuchsia-coloured gown was primarily of deep cerise satin, over which fell a draping of purple ninon, bordered with purple satin folds, over which bead embroidery scintillated on the ninon. The guimpe was of ivory and gold embroidery, and her hat was of bronze gold lace, with purple ostrich feathers. Miss Bosanquet's white muslin frock was made over soft silk, and finished with a pannier effect in soft taffeta silk and waist folds of floral chene silk, her white hat having pink roses as trimming. Her sister wore ecru crepe ninon, with a deep round collar of plisse ninon and lace. Her small Pierrot hat had ecru roses as trimming. Mrs. Godley's gown of white taffetas chiffon was draped with black marquisette, trimmed with Chantilly lace, white hat with black ostrich feathers. Lady Barttelot wore Indian pink ninon over silk en suite, black feather boa, and black hat with ostrich feathers.

Owing to the pleasant weather, the company remained out of doors the greater part of the afternoon, and the broad sloping lawns and bright flower beds, combined with the many ethereal and lovely frocks and the gay uniforms of the military and naval officers, made an attractive spectacle. The band of the R.A.A. supplied excellent musical selections out of doors, and in the ballroom orchestral selections were enjoyed.

Some of those noticed as being present were Mrs. Alfred Turnbull, gowned in an ivory cambric frock, showing hand embroidery in eyelet stitchery; hat of white Tagal, trimmed with sulphur ostrich feathers. Miss Maud Ogilvie's frock was of the palest shell pink satin, veiled in white ninon, patterned with pink rosebuds. The high waistline was finished with upstanding slipper bows of Wedgwood blue velvet; her black Tagal hat was trimmed with blue velvet and pink roses. Miss Rhoda Anderson wore a beautiful frock of old ivory ninon, inlet with Cluny lace in the same mellow shade. Mrs. Ernest Wiltshire, white charmeuse, veiled in twilled Paris lace, embroidered gold [illegible], over this being a tunic drape of black m[illegible]sette; large black hat, with white ostrich plumes. Mrs. Hugh MacNeil's black charmeuse, showing a corselet of white satin, with black ninon veiling, and trimmed with lovely lace; Sahara brown hat, with black ostrich feathers. Miss Milne, white silk, veiled in dark delphinium blue ninon; black hat, with ficelle ostrich feathers. Mrs. George Michaelis, silver-grey charmeuse and ninon gown, with a pointed tunic drape of black Chantilly lace, bordered with lovely white Venetian work; grey hat, with grey and white shaded ostrich feathers. Mrs. J. Campbell Walker, blue and white striped silk coat and skirt; white hat, with sweeping ostrich feather. Mrs. J. W. Fuller, shot Wedgwood blue taffetas silk, trimmed with black Chantilly lace; grey hat, with shaded black and white feathers. Miss Vera Connell, white embroidered muslin; rose pink hat of chiffon. Mrs. Byrle, white silk veiled in tambour lace, Leghorn hat with ostrich feathers. Mrs. Charles Walker (Mayoress of North Sydney), mauve silk veiled in ninon to match, white hat with pink roses and barley. Mrs. Foreman, grey and white striped silk coatee of black lace, smart hat en suite. Mrs. Montcomerie Severn, dove-grey chiffon satin, partly veiled in grey and white spotted ninon, trimmed with black and purple pipings and ivory lace. Tuscan hat with pink roses. Mrs. Anthony Hordern, white charmeuse, draped en panier with fine net, bordered with magnificent Venetian point lace, black hat with ostrich feathers. Miss Monk, white and cardinal spotted chiffon voile, bordered with cardinal satin, white hat wreathed with red flowers. Miss B. Monk, pink and white embroidered floral sprigged ninon, large hat with white silk bows. Miss Alice Phillips, sulphur-tinted crepe de chine with touches of black, small swathed hat en suite of chenille.

Also present were Major-General Godley, Major-General and Mrs. Kirkpatrick, the Prime Minister and Mrs. Andrew Fisher, the Minister for External Affairs and Mrs. Josiah Thomas, the Minister for Defence and Mrs. Pearce, Brigadier-General and Miss Eileen Gordon, Colonel and Mrs. Sellheim, Colonel Byrie, Rear-Admiral and Lady Creswell, Lady Madden, Miss Lesly Madden, Mrs. Russell Clarke, Mr. Hugh MacNeil, Dr. and Mrs. H. Kendall, Mr. J. J. Rouse and Miss Marjorie Rouse, Major and Mrs. Russell Watson, Mr. J. Campbell Walker, Mr. Thomson, M.P., Dr. and Mrs. Carty Salmon, Colonel Peterson, and the officers from the visiting warships.

COUNCIL EMPLOYEES' CLAIM.

CONFERENCE OF MUNICIPALITIES.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

A municipal conference of the aldermen of Newcastle and district was held last night to consider the subject of the appointment of a board dealing with municipal and shire councils. A letter was read from the secretary of the Local Government Association pointing out that a board had been appointed and enclosing the claims. Increased rates of pay were asked, and among other things a working week of 48 hours.

The Mayor of Wickham said that the council would have to make a special rate to meet the large expenditure if the claim were granted. He thought that they should make an application for a board for the Northumberland district.

It was then decided that a sub-committee be formed to consider the matter and to obtain information concerning the rates paid by each council in the district, and report to a future conference.

The conference further decided to make application for the establishment of a special award for the city of Newcastle, and the municipalities in the county of Northumberland.

A General Remark made by people who take a cup of tea at my house is, "What lovely tea! Where can I buy it?" You see, I happen to be the manager of the "Robur" Tea Company, and they think the tea I use is something that cannot be obtained in the ordinary way, and frequently I really do believe they doubt my word when I tell them it is "Robur Special Grade" that we use. Now, "Special" Grade "Robur" is the best tea that can be got at any price or anywhere, and I sometimes think that if grocers sold it at 2/6 or 3/ a pound it would be better appreciated, and more of it than there is even now would be used.

GUTHRIE IN A TYPHOON.

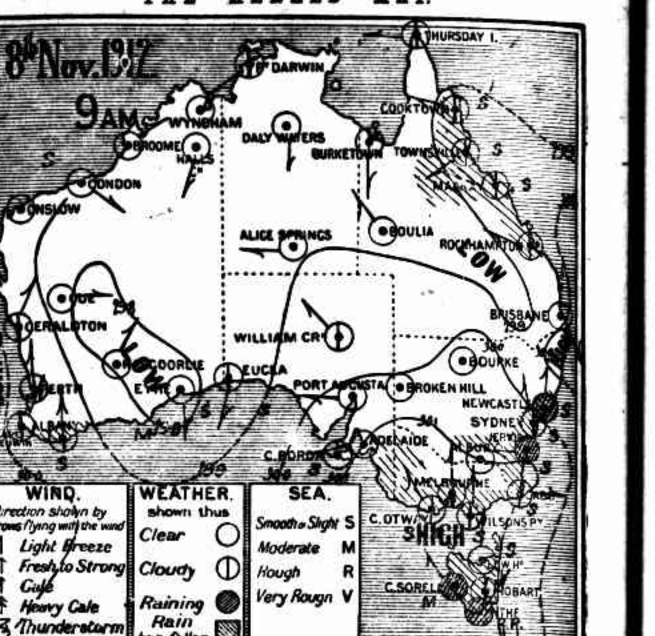

SECOND ENGINEER'S LEG BROKEN.

The steamer Guthrie arrived from Hongkong, via Manila and Thursday Island, yesterday. Captain Gambrill stated that they had an exciting time while on the outward voyage from Sydney to Hongkong. After leaving Manila they ran into a typhoon, which did considerable damage about the decks and to portion of the bridge. The vessel, however, behaved very well during the storm, and arrived at Hongkong safely, but about 48 hours late.

When the typhoon was at its height Mr. Brown, the second engineer, was struck on the leg by a piece of brass which fell in the engine-room. The leg was broken, and Mr. Brown was left ashore at Hongkong.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

During the past 24 hours a general surge southwards has taken place in the different pressure systems.

The high pressure now covers the whole of the south-eastern States, and is centrally situated to the west of Tasmania.

This general surge southwards has given the monsoonal depression an opportunity to assert itself. It has now assumed a definite shape over Queensland, where it extends as far as the southern border, and thence over to Western Australia, where a closed curve depression is shown between Peak Hill and Eyre.

These conditions look most promising for rain, with thunder, over at least the eastern and northern districts, during the next day or two.

Ocean Forecasts.—Generally smooth.

LORD CHELMSFORD.

"A BELOVED GOVERNOR."

REGRET AT HIS APPROACHING DEPARTURE.

Further praise was bestowed upon Lord and Lady Chelmsford yesterday afternoon at the annual commemoration of St. Andrew's College, and there were further expressions of regret at their approaching departure from Sydney.

In moving a vote of thanks to his Excellency for attending the function and giving an address, Rev. John Ferguson said that Lord Chelmsford was "just as good a common man as he was a Governor." (Laughter and applause.) His Excellency could adjust himself to any position, and make a speech worthy of any occasion. "We are going to lose Lord Chelmsford," Mr. Ferguson proceeded, "and we are all very, very sorry. He does not know how sorry we are, nor yet how much and how generally he is beloved; but we have the hope that he will come back some day as Governor-General." (Loud applause.) And then we shall clear the art museum out of Government House—(much laughter)—and shall put in the finest sample we can in the person of our Governor-General, there to please the whole community of Australia." (Great applause.)

Rev. Dr. Harper (principal of the college) also expressed his regret that Lord Chelmsford was about to leave us. "I don't think," he said, "that any of those who have occupied a vice-regal position in these States could leave behind them more regrets over their departure. The continual readiness which both Lord and Lady Chelmsford have always shown to help all good causes, to speak for every noble aspiration of the nation, and, so far as their position allowed, to endeavour to raise the tone of public life, makes us feel that we are suffering an almost irreparable loss." (Applause.)

Lord Chelmsford expressed his deep appreciation of the kind words said about him and Lady Chelmsford.

THUNDERSTORMS.

HEAVY LOCAL RAIN.

DOWNPOUR IN THE SUBURBS.

Sydney experienced its heaviest rainstorm yesterday since August 14 last.

Although the downpour was particularly heavy in the city, it was still worse in the suburbs, Mosman and Bondi feeling it most heavily. Fitful flashes of lightning shortly before midnight on Thursday preceded the storm, which did not break upon the city until about 20 past 1 yesterday morning. A few large rain drops splashed upon the roofs and footpaths, followed almost immediately by a heavy downpour. The shower lasted for close on half an hour, and then abated slightly. Similar showers fell with prolonged intervals until about 6.10 a.m., when the downpour became heavier and of longer duration. The heaviest shower was between 6.20 and 6.35, when 25 points occurred.

Since 9 a.m. Thursday a general surging movement of the pressure systems southwards has brought monsoonal activity into prominence, both over Queensland and our eastern district, and in Western Australia. It was due to this movement that the thundery change developed on the central and southern coast of New South Wales during Thursday night or early on Friday morning. The heaviest amounts were received in the metropolitan area, near or on the fringe of the coast. Mosman had 271 points, Bondi 218, Sydney 78, Killara 40, Hunter's Hill 39, Beecroft 27, and Strathfield 16, Parramatta had no rain. These amounts of such unequal character, are good illustrations of the disparities common to rainfall associated with thunderstorms. The 78 points at Sydney represents the largest fall since the 14th of last August, when 91 points occurred. Farther south on the coast, Kiama had 86 points, Wollongong 65, Bodalla 55, and Bateman's Bay 50. These were the largest falls. Over in the Southern Riverina and south-west slope, some light amounts were registered, the largest of which were: Wagga 13 points, Urana 11, and The Rock 10.

At 9 a.m. yesterday, it was still chiefly cloudy to overcast in the southern districts, and there were showers or light rain on the coast south of Newcastle, and at one or two southern highland stations; elsewhere it was fine or a few clouds obtained.

At Sydney up to 9 p.m. last night 12 more points of rain were recorded. Up to 6 p.m. 9 points fell at Newcastle, whilst Wentworthville recorded 16 points.

FINANCIAL.

BANKERS AND ADVANCES.

NECESSARY LIMITATIONS.

THE MAN WHO SAYS "NO."

Every now and again the public has it sharply brought home to it that the banks have no Fortunatus' purse into which they can everlastingly dip without the supply of gold contained therein becoming smaller. In times of great buoyancy, when our wool and wheat, our butter and metals are being shipped abroad in large quantities and at high prices, the deposits in the banks are being constantly replenished and there seems no limit to their capacity to lend. The merchant goes to his banker and arranges for accommodation to enable him to bring large shipments of silks and satins from London, sparkling wines from France, jute from India, and lumber from the Pacific coast. The pastoralist, who having had a series of good seasons to his credit and having a tidy balance at the bank, comes along with a request for a few thousands more to enable him to purchase an adjoining block. His substantial credit is thus converted into a substantial debit. The successful speculator walks into the banking parlour with a jaunty air, dumps down securities before the unemotional man behind a desk and demands a big overdraft to enable him to finance some deal that he calculates will net a handsome profit for himself. The smaller customer, with more nervous tread, weakly explains that he contemplates building a house, that he has so many hundreds of his own, and that if the banker can oblige him with a few hundreds more for a year or two he will be in a position to proceed. The company manager, whose concern has ample assets but little ready cash, gets an advance to enable it without difficulty to carry on its ordinary business. And so on, one after another wend their never ending way into the banker's sanctum sanctorum all in the quest for gold. And when times are good and deposits are being rapidly added to most of them close the door behind them with smiling countenances. It is the banker's function to lend out money, and these are among his best customers. The banker can only make profits for his shareholders and interest for his fixed depositors if clients like these borrow from him and make a still bigger rate for him. He does not turn his best customers away out of mere caprice. They are the backbone of his business. He regards his borrowing clientele with a certain degree of pride. He humours this man, he jokes with that, he generally suites himself to the idiosyncracies of his customers. But now a changed aspect has come over the scene. The downcast look has taken the place of the jovial smile. The little troop that issues from the banker's door no longer walks with sprightly tread. Their erstwhile friend has received them with the cold shoulder, or if he has not exactly gone so far as that, he has at least turned them away with advice when they looked for gold. They asked for bread, and he gave them a stone.

"You bankers," said a business man the other day to one of the gentlemen who sits behind just such a desk as we have been describing, "are ruining the country. Here you are with plenty of money in your vaults and for some inexplicable reason you won't let it out even to respectable merchants, who are carrying on the business of the country, and upon whom even you ultimately depend." "No; you are wrong," replied the banker. "What has happened has been that we have assisted you gentlemen so generously in the past that we cannot conveniently go on any further." "Rubbish," answered the other. "Didn't I see the other day that you shipped £—— in sovereigns to India, and you did that, I suppose for a paltry 2s 6d per cent., or something of that sort, while we merchants need the money here?" "Yes; we did ship sovereigns to India," retorted the banker, "and I'll tell you just why we did so. It was because gentlemen like you go on importing hats from Paris and expensive dress materials from London, with which you tempt my wife, your own, and other people's wives and sweethearts. You bring motor cars for people who would be better off if they rode in trams. You encourage men and women with treble chins to give expensive theatre parties, and to entertain their friends in lavish manner at their homes, and in the restaurants, and having done all these enormities, you wonder why I ship gold to India. I do it because, scrape round as I will, I cannot find wool and wheat and coal and butter to pay for all your extravagances. So I am forced to ship away gold to square things up." "But, why to India?" wonderingly asked his listener, only half convinced. "I forgive you for asking that question," was the answer, "though I cannot for your not understanding where the general extravagance was leading us to. I sent the gold to India and not to London, because I make more by doing that than by shipping it to London, where I am ultimately paid for it. That is merely a banking detail. I had to get £—— in London to pay for your luxuries, and shipping gold to India was a means of getting it there." This conversation brings home to us the point of view of the banker, and it is as well that we should appreciate his view. As we have already said, there is nothing unsound as far as the great commercial interests of the country are concerned. There is no weakness as far as the banks are concerned. There is merely a need for the community as a whole to try and live a little more nearly within its income.

A large amount of business was carried through during the week, generally at lower rates. The movements in the prices at which actual sales were effected follow:—

NORTH BULLI COLLIERY, LTD.

The report of the above company for the 12 months ended September 30 shows that £3000 has been transferred to reserve for depreciation, and it is proposed to carry forward the balance at credit of profit and loss account, viz., £1824. The poor result is chiefly due to the unexpected failure of the gas-engine plant, with consequent limitation of the coal output for quite a considerable period. The repairs necessary were found to be expensive, and the directors decided to at once instal a new steam set. This installation has been effected, and the plant is now working quite satisfactorily; meanwhile the gas plant has been repaired, and is also being utilised. The outlook for the coal trade is satisfactory, and it is anticipated that results for the ensuing year will also be satisfactory. When the new tunnel is completed the output will be materially enlarged, and to provide the necessary capital the directors have decided to issue debentures up to £20,000. This issue has been effected, and new plant capable of dealing with at least 2000 tons of coal per day has been ordered. The debentures will be repaid over a series of eight years. Coke trade was slack, but the outlook has improved.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

The month has opened very quietly in all lines. There is a lack of any desire to take business ahead. The remark applies to all classes of business—the merchant, the distributer, and the storekeeper. It is not that they are afraid of the future, but the feeling is that it would be well to go slow for a while. It is recognised that trade has been going ahead a little too fast, and that the time has come when it is well to allow what is on the market to be absorbed. The market for manufactured metals exhibits this tendency most of all. There is the usual trade in goods which are taken every day, but a great number of the works in which fencing wire, barbed wire, galvanised iron, and wire netting are used are those for which there is no immediate urgency. That these can stand over for a little while is the impression. Perhaps in a little while it may not be so difficult to obtain money, and it would be well to wait till that time arrives. Also it might be well to wait to see what the harvest will be. Though there is little doubt it will be satisfactory, yet it is more profitable to wait for some idea of the quantity and quality. The trade in harvesting implements and material has practically finished. It was hardly on the same scale as in the past two seasons. Users of lead manufactures were watching very closely yesterday's movements in the prices of lead as cabled from London. Cement was selling at 15/ in distributing lots, and parcels were firm at 14 per cask. The line of cheap cement, which was supposed to be knocking the market to pieces, had been absorbed. Merchants for their own reasons refused to touch it. It was disposed of at 12/6 ex ship, which would be equal to 13/6 ex store.

Chemicals shared in the quietness, except caustic sodas, which had moderate sales. Transactions in parcels of Greenbank 76 to 77 per cent. took place at £14/5/ per ton. Muspratt's 70 to 72 per cent. bettered this price by 15/. Silicate of soda was rather slow in going off. Bicarb. was in fair demand, with parcels at £7/5/ ex ship, and distributing £7 17/6 in 3cwt packages. Caustic potash was quiet at £42. Rosin was firm at £16/10/. The demand for strychnine had fallen altogether away, but was still quoted at 2/7½ per oz. Phosphorus was much easier, selling at 2/.

Oils were without animation so far as market business was concerned, though distributing orders kept up. The whale oil put on the market by the company operating at Jervis Bay is becoming a serious competitor with the imported article. Experts pronounce that in its unfiltered state it is quite equal to the imported oil. Generally the fish oils were firm, but without quotable change in price.

The tea auctions dragged yesterday. One firm withdrew all its offerings of Javas. On behalf of another firm 112 packages of Ceylon teas and 72 packages of Javas were disposed of, the former up to /9¾, and the latter to /7¼. Competition was restricted. Seemingly the fire had hardly taken sufficient off the market to cause any animation.

Orders for cornsacks were freely received from the country, and the price charged was 6/6 on trucks. There was no merchant business doing, and the attempt to buy up further parcels failed. Holders thought more profit was to be obtained by considering the country trade. The chief business was done in branbags, as far as parcels were concerned. Six hundred bales changed hands at 5/7 ship's slings, January to June shipments. Parcels of earlier shipments were unprocurable. To the country small lots were sold at the rate of 6/5 a dozen. Woolpacks were firm at 2/9½ each.

THE EUROPEAN BEET CROP.

In view of importations of sugar into Australia, the influence which the new European beet crop has exercised on the world's market possesses more than ordinary interest in the Commonwealth. The estimate of Mr. F. O. Licht on September 20, showing a probable crop of from 8,175,000 tons to 8,880,000 tons, or on the mean, 8,515,000 tons, against the crop last season of 6,846,000 tons and in 1910 of 8,105,000 tons, had a depressing effect, more especially as in many quarters it is believed that, with favourable weather during October, a crop of even 9,000,000 tons might eventually be reached. The moderate prices ruling gave, according to the circular of William Connal and Co., of Glasgow, a measure of confidence to buyers. The September position of old crop beet was under the control of a Hamburg syndicate, which held the stock there of about 78,000 tons, with the view of commanding a premium on all uncovered September contracts. The better to accomplish their purpose, they sold to America the greater portion of this stock at a price under what was obtainable from British refiners, and they were thereby enabled to maintain a limit of 13/ to 13/6, f.o.b., Hamburg, for the remainder. In this they were successful till September 21, but thereafter the tendering of Russian crystals against raw beet contracts and the arrival of new crop sugars in the ports rendered their position untenable, and there has since been a rapid decline from 12/6 on the 21st to 10/ f.o.b., basis 88 per cent. analysis. At the finish on September 30, however, some excitement was caused by the closing of some beet contracts which had been left over till the end, which was done at irregular prices, ranging from 10/ to 13/, f.o.b. Cane sugars have been in fair supply, and a considerable business has been done in sugars on the spot, or about due. The temporary cessation of shipments from Java for the West during August is a feature of interest, and will render both our own refiners and those of America the more dependent on beetroot for their supplies during the next few months. The American markets, after being very firm, have latterly declined 1/ on raw and 3d on refined, with a good business passing in Cuban descriptions. Stocks in Cuba and the American ports are now 176,000 tons, against 112,000 tons in 1911 and 349,000 tons in 1910. Visible supplies are now 992,000 tons, against 896,000 tons in 1911 and 1,168,000 tons in 1910.

WHAT IS THE MARKET PRICE?

On the first thoughts the answer to the question, "What is the market price?" of any article would be, "Whatever the article is sold for." But this is not so in all cases. There may be more circumstances governing a sale than pure demand and supply. The sale may be forced; that is to say, the holder of the article may be compelled to turn his commodity into money in order to pay a pressing debt, and in that case may willingly sell at a loss, where a holder, not so circumstanced, would retain his goods until a fair price were offered. One sale does not make the market, nor can it be quoted as governing the market price. On the other hand, a seller may have exalted ideas as to the value of his goods, and if he can find one buyer, who does not follow affairs closely, willing to pay his price, that price also cannot be quoted as the market. The market price may be defined as the price which a number of sellers under ordinary conditions, without pressure to sell, actually accept for their commodity. But even here there must be a qualification. For a falling market may be considered a pressure to sell, and if this pressure did actually in a number of instances operate the price could still be considered the market price.

TARIFF DECISIONS.

The following decisions regarding the interpretation of the tariff are announced by the Customs Department:—

[illegible]

NEW MARKET FOR DRIED PEAS.

The Department of External Affairs has received a letter from Mr. A. H. Hirton, Commonwealth commercial agent in Capetown, stating that there is a market in South Africa for dried beans and peas (in the raw), packed in 200lb bags. The South African Customs is 2/ per 100lb, with a preference to Australia of 2 per 100lb.

THE MATURING OF SPIRITS.

Under the Commonwealth Spirits Act spirits imported into Australia must have been matured in wood for not less than two years, as shown by certificate. The British Board of Customs and Excise has decided that it will issue certificates for spirits that have been less than two years in wood. It will therefore be stipulated by the Commonwealth Customs that if imported spirits have not been in the wood for two years they must remain under the control of the department till the remainder of the period has elapsed.

A QUIET MARKET.

Wheat continued quiet, with little business doing. A few small sales were made to shippers on the basis of 3/9¼ ex trucks Sydney, but this was above the limits of most, who varied in their prices from 3/8 to 3/9. Speculators on the chances of the war in the Balkans extending were willing to pay 3/10 delivered for parcels. Old wheat was nominally 4/6½ seller, but no business was reported.

Flour was quiet at £9/10/ for city brands, and £9/5 for country brands, though the latter could be considerably bettered for a quantity.

WHEAT.

LONDON, Nov. 8, 2 a.m.

Wheat generally is dull, with a dragging trade. Stormy weather in Argentina is a serious factor from the standpoint of the "bears." For an Australian cargo from four ports, January-February shipment, 38/8¼ per quarter of 480lb c.i.f. has been offered.

Liverpool futures are quoted:—December-March 7/6, May 7/4¾ per cental.

Australian wheat on spot is in small supply, and is nominally 41/ to 41/5 per quarter of 496lb. Parcels in passage to London are offered at 38/6 per quarter of 480lb c.i.f., and parcels of the new crop are selling at 37/3 per quarter c.i.f.

New Zealand wheat is dull. Stocks are heavier. Best is quoted at 39/ per quarter of 496lb.

The following comparison may be made of recent fluctuations of Liverpool future:—

BEANS AND PEAS.

For beans and peas there is a fair inquiry, nominally at 38/5 per quarter of 504lb ex store. In peas there is little doing.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

ADVANCE IN EGGS.

BACON CHEAPER.

There were several alterations in the wholesale quotations for dairy produce yesterday. The most important of these was, perhaps, the advance in eggs. Supplies of new-laid showed a further falling-off, and as there was a strong demand sellers found no difficulty in obtaining 1/2 for the choicest samples. The bulk of the consignments, however, were disposed of at 1/1 per dozen. Railways and South Coast were also better property at from 1/ to 1/0½. On the other hand, there was no movement in river varieties, which were dull at from 11d to 1/. The quality of these eggs is very uncertain. The Maianbar, from the Manning, landed 150 cases, and the Kyogle, from the Clarence, 200 cases.

On Thursday we announced that owing to heavy supplies bacon flitches had to be reduced. A step further was taken yesterday, when several of the leading firms in "the street" announced an all-round decline in values. During the past week consignments have been coming forward with great rapidity, and it has been obvious to holders for several days that something would have to be done to clear stocks. Values for all classes of meat were extremely high, while in addition the falling-off in the arrivals of eggs was forcing up prices in that direction. Cheap eggs and dear bacon sometimes go together, but it is very seldom that dear bacon and dear eggs keep company. A fair business was passing at the new range of quotations. Sides moved out freely at /10, middles at from /10½ to /11, and flitches /9 per lb. None of the special brands were altered. The distributing agents of one of the best known curers in the Commonwealth stated that they were having no trouble in clearing and consequently saw no reasons why they should fall into line with other merchants. At the present time they state they are receiving large shipments from Queensland, and if these were to stop they would actually have to ask for higher rates.

There is an ominous silence from London as regards butter. Exporters have quoted prices, and asked for bids, but still there comes no satisfactory reply. The position on the other side is evidently extremely weak. There was no change in the local quotation, which was well maintained at 112/ per cwt for the choicest brands. The Victorian Government Superintendent of Exports stated on Tuesday that the recent rains would help to prolong the dairying season, the prospects of which were good. They would also afford an excellent opportunity to farmers to sow maize and sorghum for summer fodder, and it was hoped that the opportunity would not be missed. In South Gippsland, where there had been an early spring, the rains had come at a very opportune time, and in all parts they would be extremely beneficial. Early in the season it was estimated that the supplies of butter would fall short of last season by about 200 tons, and of late it appeared that they would be much below the estimate. Production, however, would now be greatly increased by the rains, which were reassuring.

There was no move in ordinary brands of cheese. Good sales of the local makes were put through at from /8¼ to /9 per lb. Stocks of Queensland makes are rapidly decreasing, and there is nothing offering under /8. Kameruka cheddars were reduced to /10.

Current quotations were:—

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

POTATOES AT £18 a TON.

Sydney is suffering from a potato famine. Stocks are depleted and the shipments coming to hand are totally inadequate to cope with the demand. Yesterday the Kyogle came alongside from the Clarence River with 750 bags of new season's tubers on board, and so anxious were retailers to obtain supplies that agents experienced not the slightest trouble in realising £18 per ton for the primest samples. New Zealands were quoted at £15.

The quantity of maize which arrived from the rivers was small. There was a brisk inquiry, and values were firmer. River was quoted at from 4/5 to 4/6 per bushel, while South African was worth anything up to 4/2. A few sales of Queensland grain were made at 4/3.

Onions were in strong hands at unaltered levels. A good trade was booked in Japanese at from £15 to £16 per ton. A fresh shipment of new season's Victorian silverskins is due to-day.

Other lines were unaltered.

RAILWAY MARKET.

A more commentable sale was recorded yesterday. The 24 trucks lined up, which were double the number of late sales, attracted a yard full of interested spectators, though not a great number of bidders.

SALE OF NEW ONIONS.

The feature of business was the auctioning of the first truck of new onions. This consignment was held up along the line, which accounts for its lateness. Under the hammer it passed in first at 12/9, but was afterwards split up at 13/6. They were slightly stocky, with small samples through them. They hailed from Wellington. Yesterday's manifest included another lot of onions.

Chaff was easier—although merely to the extent of a couple of shillings. Hay was firm, practically at late rates, top grade lots registering a solid figure.

Wheaten chaff privately sold at 8/2, the highest realisation for a considerable time. Prime went off up to 7/7, under the hammer. Other sales ranged from 4/7. Ganmain prime did not reach reserve at 7/3. Two lots of oaten chaff changed hands at 7/, privately. The majority of the supply of lucerne hay was from Mudgee. Green in small bales knocked down at 5/7 to 5/9, and passed in at 5/10. Dumps were relinquished at 5/4. Parkes wheat sold for 4/7½.

Produce placed in position for sale.—Chaff 23, hay 8, wheat 1, potatoes 1.

Manifest of projected arrivals.—Chaff 21, hay 7, wheat 2, onions 1.

FRUIT MARKETS.

The supplies of summer fruit forwarded to the Bathurst-street Exchange yesterday were considerably heavier than on the previous day. Cherries and apricots were well supported. The recent cold snap and increased arrivals have been responsible for curtailing the sale of cucumbers, and prices have declined. Best Queensland samples were offering at from 8/ to 10/ per half-case.

Three hundred and twenty-six pigs were yarded yesterday, made up of all descriptions. Quality, taken generally, was only fair. There was a representative attendance of buyers. A LATE DANCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Under the Theatres and Public Halls Act of 1908 a licensed ball must close at midnight on Saturday night. This regulation is very well for the city and large towns, where other amusements may be had; but in small towns and villages, where a dance till daylight is almost the only enjoyment of the kind, and where Saturday night is the only convenient night that the majority of the people can attend to ensure a rest next day, it is a great injustice. Divine law says that man must rest on the Sabbath, that is, from sunrise to sunset on the seventh day, a law that should be strictly observed. But I fail to see how this law is violated by keeping a dance on till 3 or 4 o'clock on Sunday morning. Country dancers are not satisfied with a dance cut off at midnight, while country roads are often too rough to travel at that hour. This Act, including small towns, simply destroys their great and only means of enjoyment—both socially and financially—and an amendment extending the time of closing from midnight to daylight on Sunday morning would be hailed with delight by the great majority of country people. I am, etc.,

VALUES FIRM ALL-ROUND.

SILVER AND COPPER STOCKS IN DEMAND.

GOLD AND TIN SHARES QUIET.

The Sydney Stock Exchange presented a more cheerful aspect yesterday morning than has been the case for several days past. Not only were values firm in most cases, but in some they recovered noticeably, whilst the volume of business likewise improved.

Several factors contributed to the more cheerful aspect of affairs ruling. First, there was further recovery in the buying offers for lead in London, with another advance in copper, which now stands at £76/12/6. Likewise, the "middle" quotations of the London Stock Exchange on Thursday indicated a more buoyant feeling ruling in London for Australian copper and silver propositions. In addition to this, the Adelaide Stock Exchange also appeared to be firmer, especially in Barriers.

The stand-off attitude adopted by buyers during the past few days gave place to better offers, and in the competition that followed most of the Barrier group of stocks was dealt in at rising rates. The movement was very noticeable, and scrip-holders were correspondingly cheerful. The soundness of the transactions recorded will be seen by the fact that Zinc Corporation (ord.) firmed from 18/3 to 18/6, the preference scrip from 41/9 to 42/3, B.H. Junction North from 20/9 to 22/; Broken Hill Proprietary, from 45/ to 45/6; B.H. Junction (ord.) from 7/11 to 8/3; British Broken Hill (old) from 45/ to 47/; B.H. South (paid) from £7/13/6 to £7/16/6, with North Broken Hill selling very firm at £7/9/. The above list shows that nearly every Barrier stock was operated in. The Radium Hill group was quiet, the same being the case with Iodides.

Though business in copper propositions was on very limited lines, holders of that class of scrip presented a strong front, consequent on a further recovery of 12/6 in the price of the red metal, which now stands at £76/12/6. In anticipation of soon declaring a substantial dividend, Hampdens again sold on the strong side, whilst firm buyers in London of Mount Elliotts led to several time transactions; also a cash sale at £5/2/6, an advance of 5/. Improved offers for Mount Morgans, Chillagoes, and Wallaroo and Moonta failed to draw sellers.

In the gold division, steady sales were booked in Hawkins' Hill Reward, with buyers still inquiring on the strength of the new battery starting regular work on Frenchman's Reef ore. Otherwise gold shares were very quiet, the same being the case with tin shares. The Tongkah group, however, was in request, but sellers quoted wide.

From a business point of view, there was very little animation. It was a case of very much cry, but very little more. Operators appeared to have exhausted themselves or their order, as a result of the business recorded in the morning. Values, in the limited business done, were very well maintained on the higher plane of the morning, whilst in the case of stocks not dealt in this was largely due to the stand-off attitude assumed by sellers. Taken altogether, the day closed with a firm note sounded all along the line. Mount Oxide Options commanded firm buyers at £33.

MINING NOTES.

The gold yield recorded for this State last month was 15,441oz fine, valued at £65,592, as compared with 22,020oz fine, valued at £93,535 for the like month of 1911. The yield for the first 10 months of this year amounted to 127,366oz fine, as compared with 152,639oz fine for the corresponding period of 1911, thus showing a decrease of 15,273oz fine and £64,874 in value.

The manager of the Broken Hill Proprietary Block 10 advises by telegram that the No. 2 diamond drill bore from the Central mine is in 135ft, having passed through 10ft of low grade ore and 10ft of good sulphide. The latest assays from drillings over 10ft gave 1.1oz silver, 1.8 per cent. lead, and 3.1 per cent. zinc; and next 10ft, 2.9oz silver, 15.7 per cent. lead, and 8.1 per cent. zinc.

The Broken Hill Proprietary Company, Limited, has received a cable message, dated London, November 7, giving the following quotations:—Silver, 2/5 (official quotation); lead, £18/17/6 (buyers' price); company's shares, £2/5/ (buyers' price); spelter, £27/7/6 (buyers' price); and copper, £76/12/6.

Our Broken Hill correspondent states:—"The net value of the minerals exported from Broken Hill during September was £409,024, and during August £376,018. The zinc concentrates exported for October showed a big increase on the previous months, both in quantity and value, but the leady concentrates showed a decrease."

Gold-dredging yields.—Araluen Redbank (week), 25oz 15dwt smelted gold; and Araluen Central (122 hours), 12oz 1dwt.

The official report of the Junction North Broken Hill mine for the fortnight ended November 2 states:—"The north drive in 12/12, advanced 23ft, in average grade ore; total length, 68ft. The total projected length of No. 12 level is now 572ft. The 10/19 rise has holed through. The tonnages raised from the various levels were as follows:—No. 10 level, 360; No. 11 level, 1281; No. 12 level, 2275. The assembling of rolling stock for railway to slime dumps has been completed. Crossings and embankments are being made. The conveyor for the disposal of coarse residues from the flotation plant has been erected and is in use."

The directors of the Great Britain Sluicing Company, Limited, have declared a dividend of 1/ per share (No. 33), payable on Thursday, November 28. The transfer books close on Monday, November 25.

The Chillagoe Company reports:—"Union mine, progress for month ended October 31:—No. 4 level east drive extended to 67ft, footwall showing 4in ore. West drive extended to 62ft, face showing 8in white quartz. Sample not available, owing to bad air. Below No. 3 level, winze has been sunk 24ft to 60ft. No. 2 level, rise risen 29ft to 70ft. Ore extracted from No. 3 level, 9 tons, average value 4¾oz gold, 12oz 10dwt silver, and 14½ per cent. copper. Ore shipped sampling mill 6 tons; ore on hand 85 tons."

A number of mining men have been greatly interested by a display of tin ore at the office of Messrs. Wall and Chalmers, 177 Pitt-street. It is being shown by Mr. John Brooks, a Tasmanian mining prospector, and mine manager. The display embraces a splendid sample of rich tin-bearing micaceous granite, obtained from a lode which Mr. Brooks, who was the discoverer, believes to be the mother-lode of the Ruby Flat and Arba tin-mining alluvial deposits in Tasmania. The lode formation traverses an 185-acre lease held by a Hobart syndicate. The ore is a micaceous granite which at the first glance looks very much like a block of arsenical pyrites. It carries 64 per cent. of tin, and, according to Mr. Brooks, does not carry any foreign metal, such as iron, wolfram, or bismuth. The gangue appears to consist solely of mica or muscovite, decomposing in places into chlorite. It is exceedingly soft, and can be ground up in an ordinary hand mill. It is understood the lode has been sunk on 65ft, at which depth a crosscut was driven 20ft into the formation without meeting the opposite wall. The first 16ft of the formation assayed 5 per cent. of tin, followed by 4ft of the rich micaceous granite (a sample of which is exhibited, without being through it. A striking feature of this particularly rich ore is its freedom from foreign matter, especially iron. To the west of this lode is another formation, only uncovered, about a chain wide. Mr. Brooks also shows a fine sample of stream tin taken from a block of land adjoining the Clifton tin mine at South Mount Cameron. It is stated that one return gave a cwt. of tin from four barrow-loads of dirt, and that the last cleaning up placed £3000 to the credit of the owners of the lease.

MINING IN THE STATE.

DUBBO, Thursday.

Mr. Charles Keenan has discovered, and is working, a rich lode of copper at The Alberts, near Dandaloo. This week he is forwarding the first consignment, of 809 tons, for treatment by the English and Australian Copper Company, Ltd., Waratah. Mr. Keenan expects a return of between 40 and 50 per cent. of copper.

BROKEN HILL MINES.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

A special meeting of shareholders in the Silver City South Range Blocks Company was held on Wednesday night. The directors reported that the proposed new company had not been formed, and all application moneys had been returned. Various proposals had been considered for working the mine, but none had been adopted, as there seemed little prospect of disposing of further local zinc ores. The directors express satisfaction with the property, but recommend deeper sinking. The report was adopted.

At the Broken Hill mine during the past fortnight section 6 winze (1100ft level) was sunk to 52ft. Section 15 winze was deepened to 78ft, and section 17 winze to 143ft. The main shaft drive (1250ft level), in footwall country, was extended to 428ft from the crosscut. Section 8 crosscut was driven into the lode for 67ft, with the face still in 14 per cent. ore. The main north drive was extended to 667ft, with face still in 17 per cent. ore. The main shaft was deepened to 1432ft, and timbering is now in progress.

The general manager of the Junction North mine reported on Thursday afternoon that the north drive on No. 12 level was fired out for another 7ft, and struck the hanging-wall. The total length in ore is 74ft. The course of the drive will now follow the hanging-wall.

On September 30, Great Boulder reported having struck a new ore body at the 500 level, 9ft wide, and assaying 15dwt. To-day the manager reported that the lode had been driven upon 90ft, at which point it became very poor, and apparently the end of the lense had been reached. The average value of the footage driven is 10dwt. It is intended to continue the drive, in the hope of picking up another lense.

THE CHILLAGOE COMPANY.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Chillagoe Company reports that the railway receipts for the month of October amounted to £9867, and for the seven months of the financial year ending October 31 £60,838. For the corresponding periods of the previous year the respective amounts were £8577 and £58,169.

GREAT FITZROY MINES, LIMITED.

A SLIGHT ON THE MONTH.

During the month of October the smelter of the Great Fitzroy Mines, Limited, ran 742 hours, treating 2740 tons of ore, assaying 2.65 per cent. copper, 2.7dwt gold, and 1359 tons of sintered concentrate, assaying 10.10 per cent. copper, 5.66dwt gold. From this 188.72 tons of blister copper were produced, containing 187.62 tons copper, 882oz gold, and 2369oz silver. The mill ran 607 hours, treating 5830 tons of ore, assaying 2.58 per cent. copper, 1.55dwt gold, for a production of 1282 tons of concentrate, having an assay value of 10.16 per cent. copper, and 6.0dwt gold. The estimated revenue for the month, based on electrolytic copper at £79 15s 6d, was £16,853. The total working expense amounted to £15,376.

BROKEN HILL BLOCK 14 COMPANY.

HALF-YEAR'S NET PROFIT, £27,522.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

During the half-year ended September 30, the B.H. Proprietary Block 14 Company made a working profit of £29,423. The net profit, after bringing in £4850, the final instalment received on account of slimes, and £857 for interest, and also allowing for income tax, royalty, interest to preference shareholders, and depreciation, amounted to £27,522, as compared with £10,103 for the previous half-year. The sum of £10,000 has also been set aside as a provision for reclamation, in the event of a fall in the price of metals, as, although no immediate decline is anticipated, it is not safe to expect that the present high prices will be maintained for any lengthened period. The surplus of liquid assets over liabilities is £89,661, as against £72,025 at the end of the preceding term. The output of carbonates was well maintained, both as to tonnage and values, at a slightly decreased cost per ton, as compared with the previous half-year.

The general manager in his report said the possibilities of this section of the mine are far from exhausted, although he cannot hazard any definite estimate of the ore still to be won from this zone.

GRAFTON COPPER MINE.

GRAFTON, Friday.

The manager of the Grafton Copper Mine (Cangai) reports for the four weeks ended November 2:—A level advance to 1460ft 3in, leaving 10ft 6in to connect with No. 4 winze from C level. Owing to stoping being commenced over this drive, the air in the face has been troublesome, and progress slow. No. 4 winze (D level) was sunk 132ft, and completed. Over the last few feet the ore commenced to make, the bottom showing a thickness of 2ft. C level south crosscut was advanced to 3½ft, and a mineralised formation passed through at 27ft. C level main drive has been resumed, and a little ore is showing in the face and level. No. 5 winze (E level) was sunk to 47ft and completed. The winze carried ore throughout, but mixed with country towards the bottom. Stoping has been in progress over A, B, C, D, and F levels, the quantity mined being 964 tons. At A level leading stope, the limits of the ore body are not definitely known. At C level, No. 2 stope is nearing completion.

Three furnaces smelted during the month 853 tons of ore, producing 154 tons matte, containing 53½ tons copper, and 151 tons of matte were roasted, producing 110 tons metal, assaying 61 per cent. copper. No. 2 furnace stack was relined, and a new bottom smelted in the furnace.

OLYMPIC GAMES.

RETURN OF MR. V. HORNIMAN.

Mr. Virary Horniman, the general manager of the Australasian team who competed in the Olympic Games at Stockholm, was seen yesterday by a "Herald" reporter.

"The men under my control," said Mr. Horniman, "were naturally adversely affected by the long journey on board ship, and by the excessive heat experienced. They lost their good condition, and I consider it will always be a big handicap for men to have to travel so far to take part in the Olympic Games. With regard to the rowing section, it was doubtful whether the crew would be 'fit' to row at Henley, and this was left to the coach, Mr. Middleton, to decide; they had six weeks' preparation, and the result is well known. The course at Stockholm was undoubtedly a bad one."

In regard to the athletic section, results seemed to show that only one of our men, Mr. Stewart, showed world's championship form. Our swimmers performed well; general sympathy was expressed for Mr. Longworth.

"Improvement could still be made in the 'Games,' which, however, were most successful. It would be an improvement to award points according to the importance of the event, instead of allowing the same points in each class, as at present. Then there is no provision for boxing and wrestling. A meeting of officials will be held before the next Olympiad, and several improvements will, I am sure, be adopted.

"The athletes were elected members of the London Athletic Club, and the oarsmen members of the Leander Club. I do not think there is any likelihood of the Games being held in Australia for some years to come."

When asked whether he had anything to say in regard to his letter referring to Mr. Middleton, Mr. Horniman said that he merely took such action as appeared necessary at the time.

QUEEN VICTORIA HOMES.

At the monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Queen Victoria Homes the medical superintendent's report at the Sanatorium for Men, Wentworth Falls, showed there were 51 patients in residence. During the month three patients had been admitted, and six discharged. Of these four left much improved, and two not improved. The rest of the patients were progressing satisfactorily.

The medical superintendent's report of the Sanatorium for Women, at Thirlmere, showed there were 30 patients in residence. During the month three patients had been admitted, and 12 discharged. Of these, eight left with the disease "arrested," and four improved. The rest of the patients were progressing satisfactorily.

RETRENCHED.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—One cannot but feel sympathy for the 300 men discharged by the Harbour Trust, but it must be some consolation for them to know:—

1. That members of the Legislative Assembly are now getting £1 7s 6d per day all the year round, including Saturdays and Sundays, good pickings, 1s per day for postage stamps, and free travelling by all trains and trams.

2. That for the valuable services rendered by Mr. Nielsen to our country the cost is only £3000 a year, exclusive of the cost of his private secretary.

3. That the cost and running of motor cars for the benefit of Ministers of the Crown and their families is not very great. Expenditures such as these compel the necessity for dispensing with the services of men who depend upon labour work for a living.

Oct. 30. I am, etc., VIDI.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—A short time ago, behind the backs of the people, and against the strong opposition of the Liberals, the "Friends of the People" voted members of Parliament £200 a year extra. There are 90 members in the House. Ninety multiplied by 200 gives 18,000, that is to say, £18,000 of the people's money is being given to members of Parliament behind the backs of the people themselves. Now, over 300 employees have just been sacked by the "Friends of the People," who have been preaching equality for all, and golden sovereigns for everybody. This large sum, £18,000, might have been available for the honest working man, had not the "Friends of the People" put it into the pockets of members of Parliament. The proof of the pudding is in the eating of it, and by this time it must be painfully apparent to the working classes that instead of being full of good rich plums, the Labour cake is all-dough. Painful experiences teach sharp lessons, and every effect has a cause. Can there be any doubt that the Labour policy is full of disaster for the working man? The caucus Ministry came in with a surplus in the Treasury left by the Liberals. In two years' time they have not only spent the surplus, but run up an enormous deficit. They are unable even to raise a loan, and they sack their own "friends." Truly Labour rule is no good for the working man, and the true friends of the workers are the Liberals after all. I am, etc., TAKING NOTES.

Much damage has been done to the oratory of St. Piran, popularly known as the "Lost Church in the Sands," near Truro. The glass panel in a concrete shell, through which the visitors viewed the ruin of the church, has been broken, and names have been scribbled and cut on the door. The church is supposed to have been erected over the remains of St. Piran, one of the missionaries sent from Ireland by St. Patrick.

McMahon, who for eight years has acted as stipendiary steward for the A.J.C., has accepted an appointment as chief stipendiary steward to the New Zealand Racing Conference, and will take up his important duties early in December. Mr. McMahon has for many years past been connected with racing, chiefly on the North Coast, and for the last 20 years has acted as honorary handicapper for the Clarence River Jockey Club.

Othone, by Voyou (imp.)—Wilgamon, who has won several good races within the metropolis, has been returned to his owner's place at Eugowra, where he will do stud duty.

Entries will be received up till 4 p.m. on Monday by Mr. H. B. Dando for the Wallsend Jockey Club's meeting, which takes place on November 16. The six events on the card are endowed with £500 added money.

The November meeting of the Warwick Farm Racing Club takes place this afternoon on the well-known convincing ground alongside George's River, and as the various events have attracted a more than average entry the afternoon's sport promises to be of an interesting nature. The track, despite the recent dry spell, is reported to be excellent going, and, as usual, the management has made due provision, so far as the catering and other departments are concerned, for a large attendance. Special trains will leave the Central Railway Station as under: Horse-boxes, 11 a.m.; passengers, 12.6, 12.22, 12.40, 12.54, 1.8, and 1.20 p.m. Proceedings commence at 2.10 p.m. with the Jumpers' Flat Race, in which Olivenza, Hallmark, and Lewis Rand may occupy the situations. Truxton King, Mulford, and Appearance may get home as named in the Flying Handicap; while Lord Emily, Border King, and Dromore may pass the post in that order in the Farm Stakes. The Nursery Stakes wears a very open appearance, inasmuch as the majority of the runners will not be very forward in condition. Still the numbers may be hoisted for Chid, Pompa, and Aricia, unless separated by Smartness. The field for the principal event, the Warwick Handicap, will be small, and the issue should be fought out by Delorium, Barlow, and Kyloe, who may pass the judge's box in that order. The afternoon's sport will be brought to a conclusion with the Liverpool Welter, in which the chances of Troon, Wild West, Appearance, Bellara, and Memeret appear brightest, and the judge may declare for Troon, Memeret, and Bellara in that order.

Our Broken Hill correspondent wires that the racehorse Patrician, once a prominent local performer, has been purchased by Mr. P. K. Walsh for £15 as a hack.

VICTORIAN SPORTING NOTES.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The favourite for the Truganina Handicap, Yarrum, was very unlucky. King Flavus, a fast colt in J. W. Noud's stable, made the pace, but Yarrum was always well up. Pike, who was on Yarrum, showed bad judgment in making his run on the turn, and just as he was about to pass the leader, either King Flavus carried him out, or he went out of his own accord. They both went across to the outer fence. Blackpool was thus left with the lead, but Abdicator, who seemed to be hopelessly out of it five furlongs from home, put in a good run and scored with two and a half lengths to spare from Heros, who beat Blackpool by half a length.

One plucky local backer invested £1500 on Matouree for the November Handicap to-day. In one hand he laid £1000 to £400 "on."

Flushed with their success over Matouree in the previous race, backers readily laid odds on Beverage, the stable companion of Matouree, for the Williamstown Handicap to-day. Whatever chance Beverage had was destroyed through a bump at the back of the course, and he dropped back second last.

When Ayr Boy fell in the Truganina Handicap to-day, his rider, Campbell, sustained a slight concussion of the brain.

CRICKET.

FOURTH ROUND OF GRADE MATCHES.

The fourth round of the grade matches will commence this afternoon, and play in connection with the interstate match is proceeded with, a number of the first grade clubs will be severely handicapped. Redfern, with North Sydney at the top of the list—six points each—will meet Waverley on the latter's ground, without Barnes and Bailey, and the task of holding their opponents in check may not prove an easy one. North Sydney and Gordon will contest supremacy at Chatswood; the former will take the field without S. Hill. Gordon's skipper will be absent, and it is unlikely that Macartney will turn up to assist his club. Petersham will be opposed to Glebe. The latter team is unaffected by the interstate fixture; but Petersham will lose M'Kew's services behind the wickets. H. L. Collins will be unavailable for Sydney against Middle Harbour at Manly; and Balmain's bowling will be weakened owing to Arnott's absence, which materially adds to Burwood's chances of victory.

Central Cumberland and University will have to draw on their reserves, as the former must replace R. L. Waddy and Cranney, and the students must find substitutes for Massey and Single.

At the time of writing the weather was threatening, and as sufficient rain fell yesterday to soften most of the grounds, the prospects for to-day seem to favour the bowlers, and an increase in the honour list in that department may be anticipated.

INTERCLUB CHAMPIONSHIP.

CONCLUDING DAY'S PROGRAMME.

The second part of the programme for the third annual interclub contest for the Dunn Challenge Shield will be completed at the Sydney Sports Ground this afternoon. The South Sydney Harriers established a lead of 8½ points from East Sydney and University last Saturday, and the holders of the title should retain the shield for another year with a fair margin of points. The two clubs now standing equal for second place have occupied second and third place alternately in previous contests, and they should provide a close struggle for the honour of runner-up.

The first event is the 220yds race, which will commence at 2.30. The best-winners may be F. C. Madeley, P. T. Redmond, W. F. Pattinson, and F. E. Beaver, with F. C. Madeley best for the final. E. A. Southee should have no difficulty in winning the running hop, step, and jump, with J. W. Frazer and E. Jones occupying the other places. W. F. Pattinson appears best for the 880yds, but will hardly be able to compete in this event in addition to the 220yds. In his absence, F. Flowers and J. M'Grath may fill the leading positions. The 3 miles walk should result in a close race between J. J. Harley and R. L. Bonham, with C. B. Cockett nearest. C. T. Ferguson, W. O'Reilly, and E. Jones will probably secure the Police Club three places in the 16lb hammer event. J. W. Frazer stands out for the 440yds hurdles, with T. R. Cole and M. J. M'Carthy following in that order. The running high jump may be won by A. H. Scott, with W. J. Rofe and J. Smith the most likely to create a surprise; and the last event, the 3 miles run, should be gained by T. J. Wood, with F. Flowers nearest, followed by E. J. Manson and R. J. Fitzsimmons.

Members should note that entries close on next Wednesday night, November 13, at the club-room, Challis House. Printed entry forms accompany the rules and conditions. There must be 12 entries, or there will not be any contest, but, judging by the interest taken by members in the conditions, etc., there should be no difficulty in exceeding the minimum figure. This contest promises to be one of the most interesting motor reliability contests held in this State, as the committee has used the experience of the past trials in arranging the conditions.

MOTOR YACHT CLUB OF N.S.W.

About 35 members of the Motor Yacht Club of New South Wales accepted the invitation of Commodore E. Albert, to dinner at the bungalow clubhouse, Rose Bay, on Wednesday night. The dinner was followed by a musical evening in the shape of an impromptu concert. The commodore, Mr. Albert, in opening the function, urged everyone to try to persuade any friend who owned a motor boat to join the club. The hon. secretary (Mr. Griffiths) announced that entries for race for boats over 10 m.p.h., for to-day were satisfactory. Mr. Crawford, honorary handicapper, addressed members on the subject of a harbour week-end camp on November 16, and advised them to put themselves in touch with the racing secretary, Mr. Neil Harvey, 10 Barrack-street, as early as possible, so that the detail arrangements could be completed.

The "Daily Mail" (Eng.) says:—"In the recent appointment of Mr. Owen Clegg to the post of works manager and sole designer to the firm of Darracq and Co., at their Suresnes factory, near Paris, British motor-car designing has received a great and well-merited compliment. Mr. Clegg, formerly associated with the Wolseley Company, has recently gained a most enviable reputation as designer and works manager to the Rover Company, and to his credit stand two of the most successful and popular British cars of the year—the 12 h.p. and 18 h.p. Rovers. Greatly struck with the clean and clever design of the 12 h.p. Rover, at present the better known of the two models, the London branch of the Darracq Company sent over to their Paris works a car of the latest type, where it created such an impression that the company decided to ask Mr. Clegg to join them as designer. This is the first time that an English designer has been engaged by a foreign firm. Since his association with the Darracq Company, Mr. Clegg has spent some time in the United States studying American methods in the leading factories. He will be responsible in future for all the Darracq models. Closely following on the recent British triumph scored in the Coupe de l'Auto over the Dieppe Circuit, when three British cars, the Sunbeams, were first, second, and third, this further tribute to British brains bids fair to leave a lasting mark on motor history on the Continent. Both the Rover and the Darracq companies have been among the pioneers of the inexpensive car, and that the older and larger firm should find it necessary to employ British designs in their work speaks more than eloquently for the estimation in which our best designers are held, and the heights to which their work has attained."

Jeannette and four other American boxers are to leave Vancouver by the Oceanic liner Ventura, which is due to arrive in Sydney on December 9. It is also likely that Dave Smith and his supporters will be passengers by the same boat.

A NEW ASSOCIATION.

There was a large attendance at Walker's Hall, North Sydney, on Thursday night, when it was unanimously resolved to establish an athletic association for North Sydney. It was proposed at the outset to limit admission to 60, and to ballot for subsequent members. Arrangements were made for the official opening night on Monday, December 2, and it was announced that Colonel Ryrie, M.P., would probably be present and perform the official ceremony. A committee was appointed to arrange the details of an athletic programme for the occasion.

INSURANCE PROPOSALS.

CHARGE OF CONSPIRACY.

At the Central Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Wilkinson, D.S.M., the hearing was continued of the charge against Ernest George Beesley, 35, and William Shearer, 50, that they did at Sydney, between March, 1910, and October, 1911, conspire to cheat and defraud the Colonial Mutual Life Assurance Company, Limited, of divers large sums of money.

Mr. J. J. Carroll appeared for the prosecution; and Mr. O'Reilly, instructed by Mr. Relph, for Beesley; and Mr. Salanger for Shearer.

Detective Pauling stated that when he referred to Anderson and Mason and told defendants he thought they were dummies, Beesley denied this, and said they drew their commissions. When asked to give a description of Anderson, he replied that he had 10 men engaged under him, and he could not remember his exact description. He said he could furnish a vague description of the man.

The case was adjourned until Monday next.

For Constipation there is nothing quite so nice as Chamberlain's Tablets.—Advt.

V.R.C. SPRING MEETING.

THE C. B. FISHER PLATE.

NOTES AND ANTICIPATIONS.

(BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

MELBOURNE, Friday.

There is every prospect of favourable weather for the final day of the V.R.C. spring racing campaign at Flemington to-morrow, and the high character of the preceding days is certain to be maintained. The going should be first-class, and the varied programme will be played out. Although a large number of horses are engaged, the strenuousness of the campaign is beginning to tell its tale, and the fields are not likely to be of large proportions. Proceedings commence at - p.m. with the Spring Handicap, a race restricted to three-year-olds, and at the weights the chances of Cider, Burrawang, Perdita, and Onega seem brightest, and the places may be occupied by Perdita, Cider, and Burrawang.

An interesting race is promised for the Flemington Stakes among Scotch Malt, Wise King, Murillo Rose, and Chica, and the numbers may be hoisted for Wise King, Chica, and Scotch Malt.

A great battle is foreshadowed for the V.R.C. Handicap. Piastre, who is at the top of the tree, will probably be reserved for the C.B. Fisher Plate, while Cadonia, if in racing humour, must be very hard to beat, and of the others the chances of Hallowmas, Lord Alwyne, Shuja, and Almissa seem most attractive, while the judge may declare for Cadonia, Hallowmas, and Lord Alwyne.

The meeting of Duke Foote and Piastre in the C. B. Fisher Plate invests that event with more than ordinary interest, and the result may help to settle the question of rivalry between the two Newcastle representatives, while the presence of Eudorus and Wolawa will lend additional excitement to the battle, at the conclusion of which the places may be occupied by Piastre, Duke Foote, and Eudorus.

The cross-country contest in the Victoria Steeplechase promises to be one of the best ever witnessed at Flemington. Despite his complimentary burden of 13st 5lb, the well-performed New Zealander, Continuance, should win, and he may be escorted home by United Kingdom and Bibbenluke.

The campaign will be brought to a close with the Final Handicap, in which the most likely to run prominently are Nangar, Wool, Sandbath, and Shuja, and Wool, Nangar, and Shuja may pass the judge in that order.

ROYAL LIFE SAVING SOCIETY.

At the annual general meeting of the Royal Life Saving Society office-bearers were elected, and the annual report and balance-sheet adopted. It was stated that a feature of the year's work had been the dissemination of life saving knowledge among the teachers and pupils of New South Wales Public Schools. Seventy classes were examined, and 1402 awards given. Regret was expressed at the curtailment by £100 of the Government subsidy, by which the operations of the society in country and coastal centres had been seriously restricted.

According to the recent census returns, out of 607,752 married men of the Bantu race, 516,607 have only one wife each, 69,446 have two wives, 14,538 have three wives, 4164 have four wives, and so on, until we come to a native gentleman who has no fewer than 46 wives. All that the statistics tell us about this modern Solomon is that he is between 50 and 55 years of age, and lives in the Transvaal. He easily out-distances all his fellow-countrymen, for no one else is returned as having more than 28 wives. There are two men with this number, one being a Transvaal resident who is not yet 35 years old, and the other a Free State native, between 55 and 30. Natal's best is 23 wives, two middle-aged natives being returned as having this number each.

COLLEGE LIFE.

ADDRESS BY THE GOVERNOR.

ST. ANDREW'S COMMEMORATION.

There was a large gathering, including the State Governor and Lady Chelmsford, at St. Andrew's College, in the University grounds, yesterday afternoon, on the occasion of the annual commemoration. Rev. Dr. Harper, principal of the college, presided, and others present included Sir William and Lady Cullen, the Moderator of the Presbyterian Church (Rev. Thomas Morgan), Colonel Goodlet, Mr. John Garland, M.L.C., Professor Macintyre, Rev. John Ferguson, Dr. Jarvie Hood, Rev. R. Steel, Mr. H. C. L. Anderson, Professor Stewart, Principal Aspinall, Professor Barraclough, Principal Davis, Dr. Marden, Principal Thatcher, Dr. Radford, Rev. J. Prescott, Sir P. Sydney Jones, Mr. J. J. Cohen, M.L.A. (one of the earliest college students), and Mr. Barff.

The principal, in his report, stated that from the beginning of the year the college had been more than full. The number of students they could properly accommodate was 66, but they had had 67 this year, and as had been the case in almost all of the past five years, they had had to turn others away for want of room. The need for the enlargement of the college was as great as ever, and if, as seemed probable, the new University Bill should largely increase the number of students in the University, it would be more necessary still in a few years. Even the governing bodies of the University should be beginning to see, however unwillingly, that while the growth of the colleges could not endanger their control of the teaching, the main hope of a regulated and aspiring University life for all students lay in the growth of the corporate spirit, of which the colleges must always be the chief nurseries. For some time the principal had been seeking such efforts as his other pressing duties had permitted to raise the money which would enable them to do this, and he had so far had a gratifying measure of success. The subscriptions promises and partly received included:—Col. Goodlet, £1000; anonymous, £1000; Mrs. Coutts, £500; Senator J. T. Walker, £100; Mr. A. Bowman, M.A., LL.B., £100; Mr. W. S. Park and Mrs. Park, £100; Dr. Harper, £100; the total being £3085 10s.

But the splendid gifts of Col. Goodlet and the other donor of £1000 were contingent the first upon beginning to build, and the latter upon getting the rest of the amount needed to complete the first part of the plan of enlargement. Besides the amount subscribed there was about £550 which the council had at its disposal for the purpose of this subscription, and there were further promises of help which would considerably augment the sum. But along with the growth of the subscription, unfortunately the price of the buildings had grown also. The first part of the projected additions, the eastern wing and the laboratories, etc., which three years ago were estimated to cost £5000, would now probably cost £6500, and it was this latter sum they needed now to do anything at all adequate. "We accept men of all denominations," said Dr. Harper; "we give our scholarships and bursaries irrespective of everything but character and ability." He went on to say that in sports the college had retained its leading position. It regained the cup for rowing, and retained that for athletics, and also the Rawson Cup for the largest number of successes in all the competitions; but it lost the cup for shooting owing to the superior steadiness and the fine average of the shooting of the St. Paul's team.

In regard to the tutorial staff, it was a very notable and satisfactory thing that their Rhodes scholars had on their return come to their help by giving the benefit of the greater experience and more finished scholarship which three years' residence at Oxford could not fail to bestow, in the first place to their old college. To all of his colleagues he desired to express his indebtedness for their loyal co-operation in furthering the higher aims of college life, as well as in making the instruction effective.

The principal added that the lectures on religious and ethical subjects had been well attended, though attendance was not compulsory. The list of honours gained at the University by St. Andrew's students would show that they stood as high as ever. The list was as follows:—

Matriculation: R. I. Kay, James Aitken scholarship for general proficiency, Cooper scholarship for classics, first-class honours in Latin, Greek, and English, second-class honours in French and mathematics; H. V. Faculty of Science: Engineering—First year: G. G. Callender, distinction in engineering, drawing and design, credit in physics and chemistry.

Lord Chelmsford was given an ovation when he rose to speak. There were, his Excellency said, very obvious differences between Oxford and Cambridge life and life at the Sydney University. He thought that at Oxford 90 per cent. of the men were in college, and 10 per cent. were non-collegiate, whilst the converse was the case here. The great principle underlying college life was the recognition of the fact that man is a social animal. By going to a college the men became members of a society, with all that that entailed—the privileges as well as the obligations—and they learnt at an early age the meaning of "give and take" in life. However brilliant one might be, it was only perhaps once in a century that a man could by sheer force of character, and without give and take, ride roughshod over everyone, and force his way through the ruck. He thought the lesson of a Napoleon and a Bismarck was not altogether encouraging, because, after all, the downfall must come, for the reason that they put other men out of the question, and considered only their own predominance. In college they learned the very useful lesson in "place" themselves, and they also learned loyalty to their institution—the keynote to that larger loyalty which they all needed when they went out to the bigger world. They should always remember that a college was a great deal bigger than any of its members, and bigger than its principal. It was really an entity with a soul, a character and ideals of its own, and it was to that entity that they learned to pay their loyal homage. (Applause.) In college they had the opportunity of making friends—and good friends were a priceless possession. In conclusion, his Excellency congratulated the principal on the various distinctions the college had gained during the year. (Applause.)

The Rev. John Ferguson proposed a vote of thanks to his Excellency, and this was seconded by Mr. John Garland.

A garden party was to be followed, but owing to the rain it had to be abandoned, the guests partaking of afternoon tea indoors.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

AUBURN PARKS.

At a meeting held in the Auburn Town Hall on Tuesday, Mr. Robert White moved,—"That this meeting of the ratepayers and residents of Auburn considers it would be a wise action for the Auburn Municipal Council and the State Government to spend £[illegible] in purchasing the grounds adjacent to St. Joseph's Hospital for another park for Auburn, as the ground is unsightly and a second park is necessary at the present time, and the money can be spent to greater advantage on necessary works by the State and the council." Mr. White said he was not opposed to more parks when needed, and the council would pay for them, but the proposed park was not required, as they had one already, which was greatly neglected.

The motion was carried after some discussion.

A FORFEITED DEPOSIT.

The promoters of a proposed pier on the Ocean Beach, Manly, about two years ago deposited £500 with the Manly Council as a guarantee of the fulfilment of their agreement. The promoters have not carried out the work. At the last meeting of the Manly Council it was decided that the deposit of £500 be forfeited to the council.

The Manly Council is urging the P. J. and Manly S. Company to place an up-to-date cargo steamer on the run.

SHIRE COUNCILS.

GOSFORD: The council has passed a resolution expressing its disapproval of the proposed Roads Board. It also decided not to co-operate with the Willoughby Shire in protesting against certain amendments in the Local Government Act relating to hoardings on railway lands.

THE EVICTION.

COUNTRY CENTRES ENTHUSIASTIC.

STRONGLY-WORDED PROTESTS.

Mr. Arthur Macarthur, hon. secretary of the committee appointed by the citizens to organise meetings of protest against the eviction of the Governor-General from Federal Government House, Sydney, continues to receive advices both by telegram and letter from all parts of the State, notifying him that the local residents are heartily supporting the movement.

The town clerk of Coraki announces that a public meeting has been convened, and adds there is a demand for copies of the petition.

The Parramatta meeting has been postponed until Monday week, November 18, and it is expected that one of the largest gatherings yet held in the district will be announced.

The municipal council of Cowra, at its last meeting, carried the following resolution:—"That this council protests against the closing of Government House, and that the petition forwarded be left at the council chambers for signature."

The Coonabarabran Shire Council informs Mr. Macarthur that copies of the petition to the Government have been placed on the counter of the shire offices for signature by the public.

The town clerk of Newcastle, in referring to the recent enthusiastic meeting held at of the local town hall, writes to say that collectors are now being appointed to secure signatures to the petition, and he asks for 20 additional copies to be at once forwarded to him. The town clerk adds that when the resolution was carried the gathering rose en masse and cheered the name of his Majesty the King.

Mr. Macarthur left Sydney last evening for Picton at the urgent request of leading local residents to address a meeting.

COMMITTEE MEETING.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Citizens' Protest League was held yesterday afternoon. Sir William M'Millan presided, and among others present were Messrs. A. W. Meeks, M.L.C., T. Henley, M.L.A., Burfitt, Tillock, Churchill Tucker, A. W. Gillies and Captain Smith. After the reports of country meetings had been read, the committee expressed themselves as very gratified, and almost surprised at the great success of the meetings and the intense interest that was being evinced in the question all over the State. In some cases, unfortunately, some luke-warmers existed in the municipal councils, but as the committee was satisfied that this did not express the feeling of the communities as a whole, arrangements would be made for representative men to give assistance in centres where it was needed. But while very gratified at the success that had attended their present efforts, the committee expressed themselves as determined not to in any way slacken their efforts until every important town in the country had had an opportunity of registering its protest. There was no doubt in the minds of intelligent persons that if a referendum was taken at the present time an overwhelming majority of the people would condemn the inexplicable conduct of the Government.

Subscriptions were received by the committee for the purpose of continuing the campaign in the country, and the committee desire to state that they will be glad to receive others.

Mr. C. T. Burfitt suggested that the following resolution might be submitted to the next meeting of the full executive committee:—"In view of the fact that the land upon which is erected Government House, Sydney, has not been diverted from the purpose for which it was set apart by Governor Phillip, and is therefore the property of the home authorities, representing his Majesty the King, the executive committee is hereby invited to consider the question of taking steps to petition his Majesty to take such action as will assure the retention of the property for the home of his representative in the Commonwealth, in keeping with the wishes of the great majority of his subjects in this the mother State."

PETITION FROM DRUMMOYNE.

A petition bearing 88 signatures was presented in the Assembly by Mr. Henley from the residents of Drummoyne, protesting against the act of the State Government in regard to Federal Government House. The petition pointed out that the proposal to deprive the Governor-General of his residence in Sydney might be regarded throughout Australia and the Empire as an act of ingratitude and disloyalty to the Crown and Empire, to whom Australia owed all for its freedom and prosperity. It was, therefore, prayed that steps might be taken in the public interest to retain this historic site as the residence while in Sydney of his Majesty's representative in the Commonwealth of Australia.

MEETING AT DUBBO.

DUBBO, Friday.

The Mayor of Dubbo (Ald. J. H. Ritter) presided on Wednesday night at one of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings held in this town for the purpose of entering a protest against the eviction of Lord Denman. The meeting was held in the Protestant Hall, which was packed. An orchestra was in attendance, and prior to the opening of the meeting played the "National Anthem," and "Rule Britannia," the assemblage rising and singing the refrains with vigour.

Mr. R. W. D. Weaver moved, "That this meeting of the residents of the district of Dubbo protests most strongly against the eviction of the Governor-General, and believes such action to be derogatory to the dignity of New South Wales—the mother State—and contrary to the wishes of the people, and affirms that the Sydney Government House should be placed at the disposal of the Federal Government until a residence is available at the Federal capital."

The motion was seconded by Rev. Canon Lea, and supported by Mr. J. Griffin and Rev. W. H. Ash.

An amendment was moved by Mr. J. Barden, "That the action of the Government in refusing to further burden the people of this State with the expenses of supporting two Government Houses, and their decision to put the State building to some practical use, has the hearty endorsement of this meeting."

The amendment was seconded by Mr. F. E. Morgan.

On a vote being taken a small section voted for the amendment, and a sea of hands went up against it.

The motion was then put and carried amid cheering, and as the big meeting filed out the "National Anthem" was rung.

Before the meeting closed, it was decided to forward the motion carried to the Premier, with the request to urge the Government to reconsider its decision.

PARKES, Friday.

Owing to a poor attendance the public meeting called to protest against the eviction of the Governor-General decided to adjourn till Monday week, and a committee was appointed to prepare resolutions and organise the meeting.

BARRABA, Friday.

At a well-attended meeting of the citizens of Barraba and district, on Wednesday night to protest against the Governor-General's eviction by the State Government, the following resolution was carried unanimously:—"That this meeting of citizens of Barraba and district respectfully protests against the action of the State Government in withdrawing the use of Government House, Sydney, as a residence for the Governor-General in Australia."

THE KING EDWARD DOGS' HOME.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—May I endorse the appeal made by Mrs. MacKinnon for public support to be extended to the King Edward Dogs' Home? In all large cities the stray-dog problem has to be met, and the subject is forcibly brought home to the minds of all humane persons at this time of the year, when the registrations are being checked, as a number of unfortunate dogs are turned adrift to starve and become diseased, unless saved from this fate by the activities of the police.

It is generally admitted that the present method of destroying dogs as carried out in this city is capable of improvement, as there always exists the possibility of accident causing much suffering to the subject. This possibility is obviated by treatment in a proper lethal chamber, death being sure and painless. Not only does the King Edward Dogs' Home offer this advantage, but it affords the owner of a lost pet an opportunity of recovering his dumb companion, which under the present system is very remote. Yet we learn the home is languishing for the want of financial support! Considering the large amount of money collected annually from the dog tax, it would appear that the home has a just and reasonable claim upon the Government for material assistance. But, apart from State aid, surely there are in our midst some wealthy philanthropists who will help in this good cause. In other countries many have helped handsomely, and it is sincerely hoped that the president's appeal to our dog lovers will not be in vain. I am, etc.,

J. DOUGLAS STEWART,
Professor of Veterinary Science.

TRADES AND LABOUR.

ABSORPTION OF UNEMPLOYED.

It was reported at the last meeting of the United Labourers' Protective Society that the majority of the 300 men suspended from the service of the Harbour Trust on account of the cutting down of the Estimates had been absorbed by engagements made through Mr. Brennan of the Government Bureau.

STOREMEN ANXIOUS.

Delay in the proceedings of two wages boards in which the United Storemen's Union is interested is causing a feeling of restlessness amongst the members, some of whom are threatening drastic action. The secretary (Mr. T. Miller) is, however, hopeful of being able to avert a crisis.

EAST GRETA COLLIERIES.

A wages board, comprising Dr. R. H. Todd, chairman, and Messrs. Manning and Mitchell, representing the employers and employees respectively, is at East Greta, taking evidence in respect of claims made by enginedrivers, loco. firemen, cleaners, and trimmers in the employ of the East Greta Mining and Railway Company, Limited. Loco. drivers now receiving 12s are asking for 15s, loco. firemen receiving 9s are asking for 11s, and trimmers and cleaners receiving 7s and 8s are asking for 9s. Preference to unionists is another of the claims.

ICE CARTERS' CLAIMS.

Ice carters, members of the Milk and Ice Carters and Dairymen's Employees' Union, have placed claims before a wages board, of which Mr. d'Apice, barrister, is the chairman. They want 48 hours a week, working six days between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m.; casual carters, £3 10s, carters on wholesale or retail rounds £3 2s 6d, bulk carters £3, all public holidays, and the union picnic day, overtime at the rate of 3s per hour for Sundays and holidays and picnic day, and at 5s per hour for work done on Good Friday, or Christmas Day; ordinary overtime in excess of 48 hours or prior to 7 a.m. and after 5 p.m., to be paid for at the rate of time and a half; a week-day off to be allowed once in every four weeks. Grooms, stablemen, and yardmen and useful hands are asking also for 48 hours per week; wages £2 14s. Motor waggon drivers are asking for similar hours and conditions as the ice carters, but they want £4 per week. These branches were not covered in the cold storage and ice award of November 15, 1911.

CEMENT WORKERS.

Mr. J. P. Sheridan, barrister, made available on Wednesday an award which is to apply to the cement workers at Granville. The following rates of wages are to be paid:—Labourers (including yardmen and men employed on the mixing floor), 8s; shale mill attendants, shale wheelers, and stone-crusher hands, 8s; clinker wheelers, 8s 6d; coal millers, 8s 6d; coal millers' assistant, 8s; grinding department miller, 9s 6d; grinding assistant miller, 8s 6d; grinding oilers and greasers, 8s 6d; kilnburner, 9s 6d; kilnburner's assistant, 8s 6d; kiln oiler, 8s 6d; packers, 8s 10d; limestone mill attendants (under 21 years of age), £1 3s for the first three months, and then £1 8s per week; boys, from 16 to 21 (not elsewhere included), from £1 3s to £1 13s per week of 48 hours.

BLACKSMITHS.

The executive committee of the Labour Council has considered the circumstances surrounding the formation of the Blacksmiths' Society, and has submitted recommendations to the council to the effect that as the unions claiming blacksmiths as members are not prepared to give them full autonomy over their own affairs, a separate union should be formed solely in the interests of blacksmiths. This recommendation will come before the next meeting of the council.

HORNSBY COUNCIL AGREEMENT.

An agreement has been signed between the Federated Engine Drivers and Firemen's Association of Australasia and the Hornsby Shire Council, which provides for the following:—That 48 hours shall constitute one week's work, according to the requirements of each particular business. All time worked over 48 hours in any one week shall be paid for at time and a half rates. That public holidays shall be paid for; that all time worked upon holidays or Sundays shall be paid for at double rates: that traction engine drivers shall be paid at the rate of 13s per day.

TOO MUCH REPRESENTATION.

The eagerness evinced by different trades unions to secure representation of various branches of their calling on wages boards was criticised by Judge Heydon yesterday. His Honor said that before the advent of wages boards, as at present constituted, there was a court in which the trades were not represented, but which gave every satisfaction. And when the suggestion was made to introduce wages boards instead there was the greatest apprehension. Many of the workers, even, would not avail themselves of the boards, and wanted the old court back again. But now extensive representation was continually being asked for on wages boards. Instead of two members on each side, three, and even four, were wanted. In future, his Honor said, he would show little sympathy with these suggestions. It was not at all necessary. For instance, an intelligent man on a board, who could not even drive a nail himself, was competent to say what wages a carpenter should receive.

LEAVE TO APPEAL.

The application of the Pastrycooks' Union for leave to appeal against the award of the wages board was granted yesterday by Judge Heydon, and the hearing fixed for 18th inst.

POSTAL ASSISTANTS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

At the annual interstate conference of the Commonwealth Postal Assistants it was decided to seek improved conditions, and an increase in the minimum salary to £84.

CERAMIC ART.

A SYDNEY EXHIBITION.

There is now on exhibition at Messrs. Anthony Hordern and Sons, Brickfield Hill, a beautiful collection of ceramics. The number of those amongst us who can afford to pay £600 or £1000 for a vase is regrettably limited, but there are few who would not enjoy an inspection of the beautiful works of art which have been brought together by this firm.

Seldom, if ever, has there been gathered together in Sydney a collection so representative of all that is best in English and Continental faience. The first impression, indeed, is somewhat confused; there is so much and of such various types: Spode, Coalport, the reposeful beauty of Wedgwood, the red and gold of Crown Derby, the innumerable designs bearing the Doulton mark. A great vase, six feet high, heavily encrusted with gold, and superbly painted with roses by Edward Raby, dominates the whole room. There are samples of the new Carrara glaze, destined to add a new beauty to architecture, and showing to what ornamental ends ordinary Thames mud may be used. There are cases full of pieces of rouge flambe, long known only as a lost art of the Chinese, and rediscovered by the genius of Bernard Moore, and of the beautiful glaze of Copenhagen or the lucent traceries of French cameo ware.

In some respects, the most interesting part of the collection is that which contains examples of Oriental pottery, much of it of considerable antiquity. Besides a quantity of the best modern Satsuma, visitors should be interested in the samples of early Celadon ware, imitative of jade, the "powder blue" vases of the Kang Hai period, the peculiarly rare "mule's liver" colour, a jar of Imperial yellow. An interesting feature is to be observed in the Chinese "Fo Dogs" in rough earthenware, originally set up to frighten away evil spirits; a task, to judge by their appearance, for which they were singularly well fitted. The several examples of these dogs on exhibition are of different dates, and show clearly the decline of ceramic art among the Chinese themselves. Its development among Occidental peoples is illustrated by the remainder of the contents of the room.

CATERERS' EMPLOYEES' UNION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of to-day you refer to the wages board for the catering trade, and state that the wages board will only deal with the cooks. You add that slow workers like barmen, billiard-markers, kitchen men, usefuls, etc., will not receive any increase. As one who had some practical experience of the catering trade, I hope you will allow me to enter a protest against classing everybody but the cooks as slow workers. It is not so easy to draw a line between cooks and kitchen men, and I fancy that no cook would ever have a kitchen man who is slow. Regarding barmen and billiard-markers, it strikes me as rather odd that you should call them slow, as, after all, any customer would complain if he would be served by a slow barman. Finally, the poor useful, who is at the beck and call of everybody, has certainly no opportunity to be slow.

Trusting that you will insert this correction, as your report is liable to give a wrong impression, I am, etc.,

MACQUARIE LIGHT.

A GENERAL CONDEMNATION.

ELECTRICITY PREFERRED.

"The present Macquarie Light is not to be compared with the old light. I say the old electric light should be reverted to, and I am sure I will have plenty to back me up in that."

Captain Nilsson, of the Newcastle and Hunter River Company's steamer Newcastle, who gave expression to the above remarks, is apparently of the same opinion as Captain Bayldon in regard to the alteration of Macquarie Light from electricity to oil. Captain Nilsson and many other officers on coastal steamers, who have to rely upon the light in all kinds of weather, are not optimistic regarding the change, and believe the old electric light should be reverted to.

"We can't pick the present light up until we are at Broken Bay," said the captain, "only seventeen miles off. We used to pick the old light up at least 30, and sometimes 40 miles off. Of course, a lot depends upon the thickness of the weather; but in thick weather we could see the glare of the old light, while with this light we cannot. On a very hazy night the old light penetrated very much better than this one does. It is very important that there should be a good light at Sydney Heads, as, if we cannot pick up the light, we must stop our vessels. The present light is not to be compared with the old one."

First-officer Mutch, of Howard Smith Company, Ltd.'s steamer Cooma, said that, although he had not yet had an opportunity of personally judging between the new and the old light in thick weather, he certainly found that the old light had been picked up at a further distance than the present one was in fine weather.

RAILWAY WORKERS.

NAVVIES IN DEMAND.

FEDERAL AMALGAMATION DEFEATED.

Over 50 men have been put off the mountain deviation works during the week. This, however, is not due to any scheme of retrenchment, but simply to the fact that the work is nearing completion. Some time ago 1100 hands were employed there; now the number is about 600 or 700.

Mr. D. O'Sullivan, the secretary of the Railway Workers and General Labourers' Union, does not anticipate any difficulty in these men being absorbed on other works which the Chief Commissioner has in hand. Some have, he states, already gone to Waterfall, where the Otford tunnel is being cut out—a work that will take several years to complete. Others will be employed at the deviation works between Goulburn and Harden, and at those between Newcastle and Maitland.

The result of the ballot taken by members of the Railway Workers and General Labourers' Union on the question for amalgamating with similar unions in Victoria, South Australia, and Western Australia is announced. The voting was 3469 to 3237 against the proposition. The scheme, so far as this State is concerned, has therefore been defeated by 232 votes. Had it been carried, the Federal organisation would have represented a membership of between 20,000 and 25,000. New South Wales' workers did not view with favour some of the extreme motions which the national executive had put forward on the agenda paper. They feared the possibility of segregation from the present Labour party. They, however, agreed by a majority of 3223 votes to amalgamate with the United Labourers' Protective Society, which body has carried both schemes—State and interstate. Victoria and South Australia have carried amalgamation, and elected delegates to the national executive.

PARRAMATTA DISTRICT.

NEW ARRIVAL IN TROUBLE.

At the Parramatta Police Court on Wednesday, before Mr. E. L. Maitland, S.M., Asher Muller, a new arrival, was charged with entering the house of Edwin Pyke, at Wentworthville, on October 30, and stealing moneys therein. When found on the premises, he said he had merely entered for the purpose of getting a drink. On him was found a number of articles identified as the property of C. W. Dargin, of Toongabbie, and this constituted a second charge of breaking and entering and stealing property valued at £3. On both charges the accused was committed to take his trial at the next Court of Quarter Sessions. Bail was allowed, £40 in each case.

GOOD BUSINESS.

At a meeting of the Granville Council, Alderman Charlton (Mayor) congratulated the council on the excellent terms secured for a new loan of £13,500, which had been raised to pay off the old loan. The money was secured from the Government Savings Bank at 4½ per cent., with a proviso that it should be reduced annually by £500. The loan is for 10 years, and as the flotation was effected by the town clerk and the Mayor, the expenses only amounted to £38.

SUDDEN DEATHS.

On Wednesday morning John Joseph Giles, employed at Messrs. Hart, Hitchcock, and Co.'s timber yards, Davey-street, Parramatta, dropped dead as he was entering the premises to commence work. The deceased, who was about 50 years of age, leaves a widow and five children. An inquest was held on the same day, and a verdict of death from natural causes was returned.

On Wednesday morning Mr. E. L. Maitland, S.M., held an inquest on the death of Frederick Bark, an old-age pensioner, who dropped dead in Church-street, Parramatta North, on the 4th instant. A verdict of death from natural causes was recorded.

GREAT SOUTHERN LINE.

IMPROVING THE GRADIENT.

The Public Works Committee heard further evidence yesterday as to the expediency of improving the gradient on the Great Southern railway line between Cullerin and Harden.

Mr. C. Stevens, assistant engineer for railway and tramway surveys, who has recently made an exploration of the route connecting Yass with the existing line, said he was in favour of a deviation taking in that town. A gradient of one in seventy-five could be obtained, the additional cost of the work being £220,000.

The committee adopted a resolution, agreeing to the construction of the proposed work as referred to them by Parliament, at a cost of £500,000.

LIBERALISM AND ITS FUTURE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I read with interest your article on the above, and also perused the letters appearing in your columns from correspondents under various nom de plumes, and while there may be things worth noting in the comments you make, I think on the whole you take too pessimistic a view of things. Your correspondents, however, belong to a class dangerous to any party, but who are always to be found in a party of any strength. Our concern as Liberals is not that we have a few disagreeable individuals in our ranks, for every party has them, but what is the position of the party to-day. Well, the splendid send-off and the many expressions of loyalty from the rank and file of the party to Mr. Wade recently are evidence convincing that the Parliamentary party is solid, and never was more so. As to the association's work outside, and I can speak with a knowledge of the young men's side, it never was better. The Young Men's Debating Society is over 100 strong, and growing, its speaking team comprises over 30 of our best young men speakers, who have already done yeoman work, and will be much in evidence in the coming fight, Federal and State. The Victorian Liberal Association has copied this principle of propaganda work, and in a short while they will have a similar team in the campaign. Organising work is, I know, being carried out in a much more effective way and over a much wider area than in the past. The women's side of the association is spreading rapidly, and it is now a solid body of women workers, with its own debating society, and the social side of politics is being made a feature of by this body of enthusiasts. There is also, I believe, a press side to the association work, and it is making itself felt to some purpose, as the complaints of our opponents are strong evidence of. I could go on enlarging upon the good work the association is doing to-day, but it is not necessary, for the most eloquent and satisfactory testimony of the work of the association during the last two years comes from Labour Ministers and other prominent Labour leaders, who, when political results at the ballot-box disappointing to their party, had to be explained, publicly stated that it was owing to the splendid and much improved organisation work of their opponents, the Liberals. What Liberalism wants from its supporters are loyalty, energy, and co-operation, and I would make a suggestion to our candid critics, and it is this: Join the local branch in the district in which they live, and if they are sincere in their desire to improve Liberalism, attend its meetings, and give the branch the benefit of their advice and energy. STATE PARLIAMENTS.

VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the Legislative Assembly the debate was resumed on the Premier's motion for the electrification of the metropolitan railways, to be proceeded with, and on Mr. Prendergast's amendment, asking the House to affirm that, all sources of electric supply shall be owned and controlled by the State. The House divided on Mr. Prendergast's amendment, which was rejected by 30 votes to 15. The minority consisted solely of Labour members.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Friday.

In the Legislative Assembly the Council's amendments to the Industrial Peace Bill were further considered, and an amendment inserted at the instance of the Minister to give existing wages board power to continue the special holidays mentioned in their awards until such provision was annulled.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

The Legislative Council passed the Savings Bank Bill without amendment.

In the Assembly Mr. Chesson moved that the salary of members of Parliament be increased from £200 to £300 a year. He stated that had not a referendum on the subject been taken at the same time as the Federal referendum was, the chances were that the people would not have given a majority against the increase. The Premier said he sympathised with the motion, but in face of the deliberate expression of opinion by the country the Government could not support it. They would, however, probably arrange for another referendum. The Ministers were underpaid at present, as they only received £800, instead of £1000 which was paid before Federation. Mr. Burgoyne, who is 83 years old, and has sat in the House for nearly 30 years, stated that the work of legislators was worth from £500 to £600 a year at least. The debate was adjourned.

The Glenelg Railway Electrification Bill was passed through all stages, and was sent to the council. The Premier moved the second reading of the Licensed Hawkers' Bill, the object of which is to prevent illicit trading in liquor on the Murray River, which has led to a very disgraceful state of affairs. The bill was generally supported, and passed its second reading, and was well advanced in committee.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

PERTH, Friday.

The Assembly debated the Government bill to abolish freehold selection and to substitute leasehold tenure, with revaluation for rent at certain periods. The Liberal members condemned the measure unreservedly, on settlement, immigration, and financial grounds. The Estimate discussion evoked further denunciation of the Ministerial muddling of the finances and State enterprise. Mr. Carpenter, formerly a Federal Labour representative, declared that the unemployed problem would never be solved till the Government practically controlled the whole industry of the State. He argued that State enterprises were necessary to raise revenue.

TASMANIA.

HOBART, Friday.

In the Assembly yesterday the time was almost entirely devoted to the discussion of the estimates, Public Works Department. The item, £500 survey, Bridgeport Harbour work, was rejected. The purchase of a State motor car was sanctioned. The amending Income Tax Bill was circulated, and the exemption increased from £80 to £100 single men, and £120 married men, graduated rate to start at threepence instead of fourpence, and proportional reductions throughout. The property rates were also reduced.

CASUALTIES.

DEATH FROM BURNS.

The cause of the death of Mary Ann Denvill, an old-age pensioner, who was admitted to the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital on November 2, suffering from severe burns, and died next day, was inquired into yesterday by the City Coroner (Mr. H. S. Hawkins).

Evidence was given that deceased was in the habit of lying in bed with a light burning on the table beside her. On the night in question smoke was noticed issuing from her room. On the room being entered, the deceased was found lying in bed, a mass of flames. The coroner returned a verdict of accidental death.

FALL FROM A TRAM.

The City Coroner (Mr. H. S. Hawkins) held an inquiry yesterday into the cause of the death of Albert Peters, a tram conductor, who died in Sydney Hospital on November 3. According to the evidence given, deceased was collecting fares on a Sydney bound tram coming through Randwick on November 1, when by some means he fell off, sustaining a large scalp wound and fractured skull. A verdict of accidental death was brought in.

A SHUNTER'S DEATH.

LITHGOW, Friday.

The Vale of Clwydd colliery siding was the scene of a distressing accident yesterday afternoon, whereby a shunter, Thomas Coker Graves, 29, lost his life. At about 4.20 p.m. deceased was engaged coupling up trucks, when he was caught between the buffers and severely crushed. Deceased, who was a native of Blayney, had resided in this district for only a short time. On Wednesday he successfully passed the department's examination qualifying him as a shunter. He had had very little experience in railway work, having been in the employ of the department for only seven weeks. At the inquest the coroner, in returning a verdict of accidental death, commented strongly on the fact that deceased was employed in such hazardous work after having had only about five weeks' experience.

KILLED IN A MINE.

KALGOORLIE, Friday.

While working in the Eclipse mine, John Mackey was struck on the head by a small piece of stone, and sustained injuries from which he died shortly afterwards.

SUICIDE.

COOLAMON, Friday.

The Coroner (Mr. A. W. Stinson) held an inquest on the body of James Clarke, labourer, which had been found on the Ganmain-road about a mile and a half from Coolamon. A blood-stained knife and razor were found near, and both had been used. The verdict was that death was due to hemorrhage of the throat from a wound self-inflicted. Deceased was about 50 years of age.

GARRISON ARTILLERY TROUBLE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I desire to draw attention to the fact that the late gunners of the Australian Garrison Artillery are still waiting for some definite answer from the Department of Defence. The men resigned last July, and since then they have waited patiently for the reinstatement of Major Chaseling. Apparently their hopes are doomed to disappointment. Either the Minister for Defence has forgotten that such a body of men exist, or treats them with silent contempt. There was no cause for interference, the regiment having attained a high grade of efficiency under the capable command of Major Chaseling. That such a body of enthusiasts as the A.G.A. should resign in a body speaks for itself, and the Minister for Defence had better "double up" before the patience of the men becomes exhausted and they refuse his overtures. At present the men are willing and anxious to return, but there is a limit even to a gunner's patience. Whether the Minister for Defence intends to wait till some great national crisis arrives, such as is now imminent, and trust to our natural patriotism and independence to declare "bore clear ready to load" is merely a matter of surmise; but at the least it will take 5 or 6 years to get the A.G.A. up to the efficiency they boasted of previous to that deplorable July.

I am, etc.,

COUNTRY NEWS.

MUNICIPAL.

BATHURST, Friday.

The Bathurst Municipal and the Turon Shire councils have decided to enter their protests against the proposed Main Roads Board on the following grounds:—(a) It will add to the burden of taxation by heavy administrative fees and salaries; (b) it will establish two rival authorities within the same area, the one responsible to the ratepayers, but the other independent of them, notwithstanding the fact that both authorities are spending public money; (c) the present authority, municipal or shire council, can do the work of this board more thoroughly and economically; (d) that all municipalities and shires be graded in accordance with the mileage of main roads within the area, and an endowment granted to all municipal and shire councils on this mileage basis sufficient to construct and maintain the main roads in first-class condition.

Arrangements are almost complete for the municipal jubilee celebrations next week. The public subscription list is now over £300.

The Director of Public Works, in a communication received at Wednesday night's council meeting, stated that the lowest tender received for the construction of the high-level reticulation and ventilation for the Bathurst sewerage was that of Messrs. M'Ewan and O'Rourke, of North Sydney, at 7.27 per cent. below schedule rates. The amount of this tender was approximately £18,427 8s 11d, which was a reduction of £1392 11s on the estimate recently furnished to the council. It was proposed to accept this tender.

MOLONG, Friday.

A protest was entered against the appointment of the proposed Roads Board at the council meeting on Tuesday night, the vote against it being unanimous.

DUBBO, Friday.

At the last meeting of the council the Mayor's minute contained a proposal to make the waterworks a separate department, Engineer Fitzgerald to be appointed as manager. The Mayor pointed out it was essential that this should be done, as the work was increasing. If a junior assistant was appointed the manager could devote his spare time to inspecting leakages and waste of water. The whole responsibility of the waterworks would rest upon the manager. The council was aware there was a great deal of waste of water, and it was increasing as the summer months advanced. The Mayor pointed out that the council would benefit by the proposal. The suggestion was referred to the finance committee for full report.

ADELONG, Friday.

The M.U. Order of Oddfellows celebrated their 50th anniversary here this week. Although the lodge here has been in existence 50 years, two of the founders of the lodge were present at the banquet, in the persons of Mr. William Boston, aged 89 years, and Mr. Farrington, a few years his junior. Another of the founders is alive, named Chappell, who resides in Queensland.

A party of railway officials arrived here on Wednesday, consisting of Mr. Vogan, divisional engineer; Mr. Heeger, inspector of permanent ways; Mr. Jeater, electrical inspector; Mr. C. Quentin, assistant superintendent; and Mr. H. F. Fox, district superintendent. They are to report on the possibility of the early opening of the line to Taree, and to make a thorough inspection. They left Dungog on Thursday morning.

GLEN INNES, Friday.

The death has occurred of Mr. Owen Carroll, paymaster of the Public Works Department, aged 62 years, at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. N. R. Sensational attempts to commit burglaries continue to be made, but the vigilance of the householders, who are now thoroughly alarmed, frustrated the thieves' intentions.

A complimentary smoke concert and presentation has been tendered by the residents to Mr. Kickham, paymaster at the Harbour Works.

MOLONG, Friday.

The Minister for Works will arrive on Saturday in company with Messrs. Lynch and Fitzpatrick, M's.L.A., to inspect the route of the proposed Cumnock railway.

Robert Shaw, aged 15, son of Mr. George Shaw, woodyards proprietor, was found lying in the street unconscious beside a horse and cart, which he had been driving, suffering from concussion of the brain. His condition is critical. It is not known how the injuries were sustained. It is believed he fell and struck his head on the wheel, or that the wheel passed over his head.

Members, their wives, and families, of the M.U.I.O.O.F., tendered a complimentary farewell picnic and sports gathering to Dr. C. F. Warren, lodge doctor, who is going for a two-years' tour of Europe. There was a large attendance. Dr. Warren was presented with a gold watch and chain.

NON-FLOWING ARTESIAN SUPPLIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In a sub-leader in yesterday's "Herald" reference is made to the great progress of the Yanco irrigation area. Artesian supplies are noticed, and particular attention is drawn to successful sub-artesian supplies recently inaugurated in the Mallee-Riverina country, Victoria, as follows:—"It has been generally thought that Riverina has been beyond the artesian basin. . . . It has been found that though the hydraulic level does not permit a bore to flow, nevertheless by pumping the water can be brought to the surface. This is, if anything, an advantage, as it enables the amount used to be regulated, and waste avoided. The result has been that the Mallee country has entered on an era of unexampled prosperity, and there seems to be no reason why the other side of the river should not enjoy the like good fortune." The following is from my early persistent writings, as an artesian engineer, on the subject:—"There is another definition of artesian water. Strictly speaking, the term 'artesian well' means one that is bored vertically through impermeable strata to a lower stratum highly charged with water, under such conditions of pressure owing to the superior elevation the outcrop has above the surface at the well, as will cause the fluid to ascend through the bore and to flow on the surface, or to rise in the well to a height from which it can be conveniently pumped. Hence, by this definition, whether a well is a "flowing" one or not, it may be an artesian one. In this connection it has been suggested that a flowing well should be distinguished simply by the word 'artesian,' and that non-flowing wells tapping artesian water should be marked by the term 'sub-artesian.' Experience has shown that wells may be flowing in one part of a run and non-flowing in another; although in the latter the water may raise to within a few feet of the surface. Undulation, or difference in the level of the surface, may produce this result, although the water in both wells may be derived from the same true artesian source. In many cases in which the water has risen to within a moderate depth of the surface, a channel has been cut from the bore to a lower level, and a "flow" obtained." I have lately received from Mr. J. B. Henderson, Government hydraulic engineer, Queensland, a statement of the total artesian and sub-artesian bores made to date in that State, which gives the "estimated capacity of 362 sub-artesian bores, if pumped continuously day and night, at 10,258,700 gallons per diem; the average capacity per bore, is, therefore, 28,339 gallons per diem." As a great number of these Queensland bores were made by me, I can fully endorse their great utility in the non-artesian sections of Australia.

I am, etc., W. GIBBONS COX, C.E.

November 5.

Seafaring men on the Firth of Forth are greatly interested in a whale, about 10 feet long, which has taken up its quarters in the upper reaches. When an approaching ship sounds its siren the whale proceeds down the Firth, swims round it, and finally precedes it until its destination is reached.

AMUSEMENTS.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

"The Quaker Girl" is drawing large audiences at Her Majesty's Theatre, where the dancing lesson between Miss Blanche Brown and Mr. Leslie Holland, the introduction of Miss Grace Palotta and Miss Ivy Bickford into the cast, and the extraordinary Japanese dance by Mr. Fred. Leslie and Miss Ivy Schilling are amongst the principal features. There will be a matinee on Wednesday.

THEATRE ROYAL.

"Ben Hur," which opens at 7.45 with the vision of the Magi gazing at the Star of Bethlehem, and closes with the fine choral music of the Hosannas on the Mount of Olives, provides in between a romantic love-story with spectacular scenes which include ballets, processions, and a chariot race. The revival has proved popular. The usual Wednesday matinee will be given.

"THE UNSEEN EYE."

At the Palace Theatre, "The Unseen Eye," Mr. Randolph Bedford's successful new drama, will enter upon its last week this evening. On Saturday next the Talbot management will continue its Sydney season with "A Woman of Impulse," a stirring emotional play, by Victor Widner. Miss Madge M'Intosh will take the part in which she scored signal successes in London and elsewhere. The play has not been produced in Australia before.

CRITERION THEATRE.

"Struck Oil" now enables a new generation of playgoers to see Maggie Moore in her famous character of Lizzie Stofel, which she has played all over the world, and in which she is still delineating the sunny nature of the girl who sings "Her Fader Keeps a Brewery." Mr. H. R. Roberts is another favourite in the part of old John Stofel, whose recovery to health and sanity once more so touches successive audiences.

ADELPHI THEATRE.

So successful has proved the revival of "At Cripple Creek" that the George Marlow, Ltd., management has decided to play it at the Adelphi Theatre until Friday the 22nd inst. The sensation of the drama—the throwing of the child Tatto (Little Vera Spaull) over the cliffs and her rescue by the Indian (Mr. T. E. Tilton) by swinging out on a grape vine and grasping her is highly popular. On Saturday, the 23rd inst., the coalmine sensation drama, entitled, "What Women Will Do for Love," will be produced.

The Christmas attraction at the Adelphi Theatre will be the romantic melodrama, "The Monk and the Woman," by Frederick Melville, which recently enjoyed a lengthy run at the Lyceum Theatre, London.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

Arnold de Biere, who has a recognised place amongst the world's magicians, opens his Australian season at the Tivoli matinee this afternoon. With him is a company of 20 assistants. His act, unlike that of other visiting magicians, who put on bare feats of mystification, consists of a series of clever sketches, with entertaining plots. Much of de Biere's skill is in impersonation and substitution, and in this way he secures some of his most amazing stage effects. Nella Webb and other favourite artists will also appear.

NATIONAL AMPHITHEATRES.

At the National Amphitheatre, where the usual matinee will be given to-day, Miss Violet Black, supported by Mr. Charles Alexander and other English artists, is appearing with success in the elaborately-staged and vivacious comedy sketch "In the Tube." The acrobatic Barre trio, Phil and Phil'ora, in their laughable silent comedy, Roy Rene the Yiddisher Boy, Jack Straw, comedian, O'Dell and Hart, and other artists, will appear.

ANCELON-CHAPMAN RECITAL.

A successful dramatic recital was given in the St. James's Hall on Thursday evening by the students of Mr. Douglas Ancelon and Miss Stella Chapman. The programme opened with a series of scenes from "A Midsummer Night's Dream," in which Mr. Noel Linton made an effective Lysander, while the part of Hermia was gracefully taken by Miss Dulcie Harle. Miss Genevra Le'Wald as Helena showed some clever dramatic touches, while the part of Demetrius was well taken by Mr. Austin Loughnan. Mr. G. F. Hodgkinson made a stately Theseus, and Miss Jessie Dunnet infused an appropriate vivacity into her interpretation of Puck. In a short scene from "For the King" Mr. Ancelon dramatically took the part of Cromwell, while Miss Beatrice Welch as Margaret Clavering exhibited some able acting. A recitation was given by Master Keith M'Kenzie. Three little plays, "Amateurs," "Who Won the Bet," and "Her Husband's Secret" were also presented by the students.

THE KIRKBY LUNN FAREWELL.

The heavy booking for the three farewell concerts to be given by Madame Kirkby Lunn seems to indicate that the great contralto has won many admirers in Sydney, and that the season will prove a great success. The concerts will take place at the Town Hall on Thursday and Saturday next, and Tuesday, 19th November. Messrs. J. and N. Tait announce that the season cannot be extended. Mr. Andrew Shanks, M. Andre de Ribaupierre, and Mr. William Murdoch, and Mr. Laurence Phillip will again assist. The plans are at Nicholson's.

FRAULEIN JENSEN'S STUDENTS.

The usual monthly recital by the students from Fraulein Jensen's Academy of Music was given in Paling's Concert Hall last Wednesday evening. An enjoyable programme of orchestral and other items was presented, agreeably diversified by songs by the Misses Faithfull and Bramble, and Mr. Bramble, and recitations by Miss Lassau.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

Those who live in crystal houses should not throw stones, says the old proverb, but it is equally true that those who frequent the Crystal Palace, can, a fortiori, find no stones to throw. Monday's programme will contain views of the Isle of Wight, Smile That Won't Come Off, Little Artist of the Market, Williams' Sydney Weekly, A Pueblo Legend, and Won at High Tide.

J. D. WILLIAMS' THEATRES.

The Lyric programme on Monday will include the Unending Love, Funnicus, Celebrated Painter, So Near and Yet So Far, Warwick Chronicle, Incriminating Card, and Tweedledum Takes Part in a Cycle Race. At the Empress will be Wartime Romance, Polidor Thinks Himself Invisible, The Loafer's Mother, Topical Budget, The Deception, and Mr. Grouch at the Sea Shore. Views in Spain, Hide and Seek, Suit That Didn't Suit Her, Miller of Burgundy, Life in Tripoli, Frenzy of Firewater, and Hawkeye Goes Fishing will be at the Colonial Theatre.

SPENCER'S PICTURES.

Commencing this afternoon Spencer's will unfold, at the Lyceum, an exclusive portrayal entitled "Leah, the Forsaken," described as an intensely dramatic subject. The programme contains, in addition, "After Many Years," "Arabian Treachery," "Pathe's Animated Gazette," "The Wood Industry," "Wanted, A Sister," "Molly Learns to Mote," and "The Last Adventure." On Monday the first series of pictures dealing with the Balkan War will be screened. To-day's matinee commences at 2.30.

AMERICAN PICTURE PALACE.

Large audiences are being attracted nightly to the American Picture Palace, in Pitt-street, where the management are presenting a good programme. Particular favourites are Kentucky Girl, showing a race for the cup; and The Ride to Death, featuring a great motor accident.

WEST'S PICTURES.

To-night at the Glaciarium and the Olympia, Oxford-street, the star film is a popular Pathe production, "Red Fox, the Poacher," or "The Wild Man of the Woods." The film abounds in stirring and exciting scenes. In addition, there will be shown the latest in dramatic, scenic, and humorous subjects. A special programme of appropriate music has been arranged by Mr. L. De Groen. There will be matinees at both houses to-day.

PRINCESS THEATRE.

The popular vaudeville manager, J. C. Bain, has his hands pretty full at present, as he is running the Princess Theatre, Sydney; Coliseum Theatre, North Sydney; Coronation Theatre, Bondi Junction; in addition to nightly shows at Rockdale, Newtown, Lewisham, Leichhardt, and Ashfield. Altogether there are over 130 artists employed, being nearly all Australian performers. Among the artists appearing at the present are Karles' Educated Animals, Sydney Bach, Koro the Champion Bucking Pony of the World, The Brooklyns, Ella Airlie, The Waldorfs, Cook Bros., etc.

Miss Muriel Buchanan, the 15-year-old pupil of Mr. S. Vost Jansen, who won the gold medal for violin playing (under 18) at the Commonwealth Eisteddfod just concluded, was born at Stuart's Point, Macleay River, and has studied music under difficulties, arising from the transfer from place to place of her father, now head master at Minmi Superior Public school. For some time she studied under Miss Katie Christie at Murwillumbah, and at the age of 9 she won the gold medal, Trinity College, and a little later W. H. Paling and Co.'s silver medal for the highest pass in junior division, Trinity College. In Sydney, Brisbane, Tamworth, and other centres this clever girl violinist has since won 14 gold and silver medals at competitions. Her chief distinction has been winning the honours pass for violin (advanced senior division, 1911) at the Associated Board examinations, 141 marks out of 150.

A BETTING TICKET.

ALLEGED FORGERY.

In the Summons Division at the Central Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Bartholomew, D.S.M., the hearing was continued of the adjourned case, in which Percy Pilcher, a registered bookmaker, residing at Doncaster-avenue, proceeded against William Magee, an employee at the Randwick tramsheds, residing at Cowper-street, Randwick, who acted occasionally as a turf agent, on a charge of alleged forgery of a betting double ticket for the payment of £250 5s, with intent to defraud.

Mr. Blacket, K.C., and Mr. C. G. Addison, instructed by Mr. E. R. Gardiner, appeared for the prosecution; and Mr. J. W. Abigail, for the defence.

The case aroused considerable interest in horse racing and betting circles, the accommodation of the court being taxed to the utmost, and even the skylight above the courtroom was fringed with the faces of an interested audience.

The prosecution alleged that a fellow-employee of the defendant presented to Pilcher a double ticket, purporting to be the winning double, Hartfell and Duke Foote, on the Epsom and Metropolitan handicaps, run at Randwick early in October last. Pilcher refused to pay out, on the ground that the ticket was a forgery. The person who presented the ticket, therefore, placed the matter before the Australian Jockey Club committee, which, after conducting an investigation, adjourned further consideration of the matter, pending legal proceedings being instituted by Pilcher.

Albert Hodda was cross-examined by Mr. Abigail in respect to an interview at Percy Pilcher's house, when he handed the ticket to prosecutor. At a subsequent interview, at which Magee was present, Magee said to prosecutor, "Why don't you pay this man his bet; you know I got it from you, Percy?" Pilcher then asked for the ticket, and it was given to him. Afterwards Pilcher said he would put £250 in the secretary's hands until the dispute was settled, and that he would keep the ticket. The ticket produced he did not think was the same ticket. It was not the ticket he handed to Pilcher. From the time Magee gave him the ticket he had it in his possession about 10 or 11 weeks. At a later date witness said he asked Pilcher for his money, and the latter replied: "No." Magee then said to Pilcher, "You know you gave that ticket; why don't you pay?" Pilcher said the house book had been lost. Witness further stated that he had obtained other tickets from the defendant, who was a fellow-workman, and was well spoken of amongst his fellow employees.

Frank Pilcher, a registered bookmaker, gave evidence regarding the ticket handed in by the previous witness. He showed the ticket to others, and they called it a "dummy." He measured it, and compared it with their other tickets, and it did not correspond with them. Magee said, "I got it from you right enough." Witness told Hodda that he would get the money next morning, if everything was all right.

The further hearing was adjourned till Tuesday morning, at the Water Police Court.

CURE OF BLADDER DISEASE.

From Mr. T. Brown, 64 Baptiste-street, Sydney, N.S.W., 5th October, 1911.

"For several months I suffered from inflammation of the bladder, and the most intense pain in my side and back. My fluid secretions showed heavy deposits, and caused me great pain. I lost a good deal of sleep at night through the pain. I was terribly reduced in strength and weight, and was rapidly getting worse. I was treated homoeopathically with very little result, and various remedies I tried failed to benefit me. I became disheartened, as I began to think that I should never be cured. I had lost faith in medicine, when at last—merely to satisfy a friend—I began to take Warner's Safe Cure. From the first I noticed a decided change for the better, which gave me confidence, and induced me to continue with the medicine. Very soon large quantities of gritty sediment began to pass away, and I began to feel very much better. The pains from which I had suffered left me, and I could sleep well. I have now regained my usual weight and strength. The medicine has made me as strong and robust as I was prior to my illness, and my urinary troubles have ceased."

From Mr. Charles Bease, 48 Greek-street, Glebe, Sydney, N.S.W., 7th February, 1912.

"I am writing to you to let you know the good Warner's Safe Cure did for me. I had kidney and bladder trouble, and only took a few bottles of it, and it completely cured me."

From Mr. Arthur Herbert Buckley, 27 Richards-avenue, Surry Hills, Sydney, N.S.W., 19th July, 1911.

"It affords me great pleasure to inform you of the wonderful effect that Warner's Safe Cure had in my case. For many years I had been suffering from catarrh of the bladder, the fluid excreted being a chalky and bloody substance. I consulted leading medical specialists in Brisbane, Sydney, and Melbourne, and I was, in their opinion, a doomed man; in fact, there was no hope for my recovery, I may add I was a physical wreck. In despair I tried Warner's Safe Cure (without any faith in it). The result was wonderful after the first bottle, so I continued with it, and to-day I stand a cured man, have gained in weight, whilst my water is a natural colour and passes without pain. I am unable to thank you enough for all the medicine has done for me, and shall be pleased to recommend your remedy to all sufferers."

From Miss Edith Pope, of "Pope's Touring Entertainers," who writes from Hughenden, Queensland, under date 4th September, 1911.

"Just a line of thanks for your great remedy, Warner's Safe Cure. I have been a great sufferer from internal complaints, including bladder complaints, and during my travels I have consulted many doctors, but only received slight relief. I was advised by several people to try your Safe Cure, but I may say that I had not much faith in it until recently. I got a very bad turn of bladder, and, acting on advice, I began to take the medicine. After taking the first bottleful I found great relief, and before I had quite finished the second I was quite cured. I can truthfully recommend it to any sufferer from inward complaints. You can make use of this letter publicly if you wish, so as to let any poor sufferer know of the value of Warner's Safe Cure."

Warner's Safe Cure is sold by chemists and storekeepers everywhere, both in the original (5/) bottles and in the cheaper 2/6 "Concentrated," non-alcoholic form.—Advt.

THE QUEENSLAND UNIVERSITY.

PROPOSED NEW FACULTY.

Lord Lamington, formerly Governor of Queensland, has not ceased to take an interest in the northern State since his return to London.

A letter received by Mr. Herbert Easton, hon. secretary of the British Immigration League, from the Dowager Lady Lamington, contains a copy of an appeal issued by Lord Lamington as the chairman of a committee which is endeavouring to raise funds for the establishment of a chair of agriculture at the Queensland University.

The appeal sets out that "If the great fertile lands of the north are to be successfully opened up and properly developed, the settlers . . . must be assisted by the best scientific and expert knowledge. . . . Mr. Christison, who has already given £1000 towards the proposed chair of agriculture, has promised that if £9000 is subscribed by others he will give another £1000. The committee are very anxious to raise the sum necessary to fulfil the conditions.

"Four of the steamship companies engaged in the Queensland trade will help to the extent of £1000, i.e., the British-India Company have intimated that they will contribute £250, and the Federal Steam Navigation Company, Turnbull, Martin, and Co., and the New Zealand Shipping Company, whose steamers run to Queensland, will pay £20 on each steamer they despatch until the £1000 is made up."

ART UNIONS OR SWEEPS?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Now that alleged art unions or sweeps appear to have become a permanency in this city and State, and the ticket-seller is to be met daily in our streets from one year's end to the other, I think it is just about time that the powers that be should move in the direction of either wiping the obnoxious system out altogether or to legalise sweeps and street gambling. Art unions was a name given to societies formed in the earlier part of last century for the encouragement of the fine arts by the purchase of works of art out of a common fund raised in small subscriptions or shares, and their distribution by lot, and the art unions of London and Edinburgh did much good work in advancing art thereby. I approve of an art union in its strictest sense, and have knowledge of a number of struggling artists being recouped for their labour by means of such a system, as also have many writers been assisted in the publication of their works by the advance subscriptions of their well-wishers. But to what questionable practices is the term art union being applied in these latter days—the gambling spirit inherent in nearly every case. I think that when we abolished Tattersall's sweeps from New South Wales, and then instituted these art-unions, or sweeps, by special permission of the Attorney-General, we strained at the gnat and swallowed the camel, as far as the abolition of gambling is concerned. I occasionally indulge in tickets in both forms of sweeps, and, if I may be allowed to express an opinion, I prefer Tattersall's to our legalised street art-unions, or sweeps, as being the most reliable, as far as carrying out the advertised terms of the drawings are concerned. Fancy Tattersall's advertising a £6,000 sweep, and then selling tickets to any number! Why, it would damn the sweep for ever in the eyes of speculators. Fancy, again, extending the sale of tickets six weeks beyond the advertised time of drawing without increasing the prize-money, as was the case of one of our street art-unions recently! If we are to have these sweeps—otherwise art-unions—let them be under State or municipal control, so that the interests of the community may be conserved. I don't question the value of the prizes offered, but I certainly think that selling tickets "ad lib." does not give the speculator a fair run for his money. Another question in reference to this gambling mania in this State is the raffling in connection with churches. I have seen as much as £2 10s gathered in for the raffle of a £1 note at a church bazaar, and over £1 for the raffle of half-sovereign; but as these things are done in the name of religion we are apt to overlook the evident unfairness and questionable procedure. Further, the practice of sending little girls about the city begging for money for churches and Sunday-schools is not to be commended, and must lead to certain habits amongst the children which are not desirable. During this week children have called at my house soliciting subscriptions toward a picnic fund, and money towards a raffle in connection with a church and Sunday-school. It is said that Australians are born gamblers, and that you cannot kill the gambling spirit in them. That may be so, but if we cannot kill it we should at least try to bring it under such control that its operation will have the least detrimental effect upon the community as a whole, and if the Attorney-General or any other authority deem it advisable to issue a permit for a so-called art union there ought to be a limit to the number of tickets disposed of with official supervision of its whole operations.

AN UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIAL FOR BRUSH CARS.

Queanbeyan, Nov. 4th, 1912.

The Manager, Canada Cycle and Motor Co., SYDNEY.
Dear Sir,—Re the BRUSH Car I purchased from you over two years ago. This is my second trip all over the Monaro districts in mid-winter. The Car is as good as the day I bought it, and not any of the parts are worn in any way, and not once has the car refused to climb any hill. I am very hard on the car, as I am always travelling. This is my second set of Tyres, now on the car. Without doubt, it is the only poor man's car, as the up-keep is low, and all parts so simple that anybody can manage. The way my car is now running, I consider there is 20 years' hard wear still in it. My Red BRUSH and myself are known all over the South Coast and Illawarra districts, and all are impressed at the work the little car does. Yours faithfully,
(Signed), W. BRAITHLING.

There are now upwards of 100 Brush Cars in use in New South Wales, and the above letter is only one of a large number of testimonials which we have received from satisfied Brush users.
Proving that the Brush is the cheapest and most reliable car of its class in the world.
The prices have recently been reduced, and are now—

STILL ANOTHER METZ "22" VICTORY. 45 MILES TO THE GALLON!

We frequently advertise the many merits of the METZ "22," and again on Saturday last we were given the opportunity of proving our advertised statements—Economy in PETROL CONSUMPTION is of the greatest importance to Motorists. The Motor Traders' Association of N.S.W. held a Petrol Consumption Test at Rose Bay, and the competing METZ "22," driven by its owner, a Sydney Doctor, easily put up the best record, covering no less than 45 MILES TO THE GALLON OF PETROL. Each car had its Petrol Tank fastened by the officials to a lamp bracket, a rubber tube conveying the petrol to the carburettor. The Test was therefore conducted on absolutely correct and bona-fide lines, the competing cars continuing to run around the course until the supply of petrol gave out.

If you weigh up METZ MERITS, such as Economy in Petrol Consumption, Low Tyre Upkeep, and Maintenance Charges Generally, Speed, Reliability, Great Simplicity, Wonderful Hill-climbing Capabilities, Comfort, and Smart Appearance, you will find that the METZ "22" at £175, is the finest Runabout proposition the Motor Market has to offer you.

1800 FEET IN 2½ MILES— A MARVELLOUS CLIMB BY THE "RUDGE."

Every Motorist knows the Caves Hill on the Oberon side of the Blue Mountains—a long ascent, with several nasty bends in it, and very heavy grades. The "Rudge" was the first machine to climb it, as borne out by the following witnesses:—

This is to certify that Laurence Astley rode up to my door at the top of the Caves, Big Zag Hill, Oberon side, having ridden Mr. Hansen's single-speed, Free-Engine Rudge up the Hill. (Sgd.), H. O. WHALAN.

The Caves Hill is 2½ miles in length, with a grade of 1in in 6in, and 1in in 6in, with six zig-zag turns in it. (Sgd.), J. C. WIBURD, Caretaker.

We witnessed the climb as far as could be seen from the Caves House, and could hear the beat of the engine as it completed the climb. (Sgd.), E. O. HANSON, R. T. MITCHELL, H. HARPER, A. P. HICKS.

This test conclusively proves the great power and flexibility of the "Rudge." It will be worth your while to thoroughly investigate its merits. Call to-day, and have it explained, or write for Free Illustrated Catalogue.

THREE GOOD CARS.

We make the assertion without fear of contradiction, that there is more good, honest value for money in these three cars for use on Australian roads than any others of this type. Understand there are about 400 cars we have sold now in use in N.S.W. alone. Surely our reputation should be either made or marred by now.

20-30 CHALMERS—1913 MODEL.

Improved over 1912 model by having the really successful air pressure self-starter and tyre inflator—also demountable rims, by which a fully blown up tyre will replace a punctured one in 2 minutes—and timken roller bearings on all four wheels, and full floating rear axle—Mea high tension magneto—improved Australian-made 5-seater Torpedo Body—black and nickel lamps, and all trimmings, nickel-plated. This car is fully equipped with all necessities for the wonderful price of £340.

EMPIRE FIVE-SEATER—25-H.P.

The biggest new model of the famous Empire Hume bout—the whole of engine, clutch, and three-speed gear-box enclosed in one unit hung on three points in the frame for flexibility. This car is a miniature edition of cars costing £100 more money—its whole design follows modern practise with no radical experimental changes. The price includes 5-seater torpedo type body—5 lamps, generator—khaki hood and curtains—wooden windshield—full kit of tools, jack, pump, and Continental tyres, for £325. There never has been any car which fulfils our Australian conditions so well, and yet has strength and power in abundance, for such a low price.

20-H.P. EMPIRE THREE-SEATER.

Everybody speaks well of the little Empire, and now that they are fitted with a handsome, wide, three-seater Australian-made torpedo body, with wide khaki hood and curtains, folding wooden windshield, and full lamp and tool equipment, they seem to have jumped away from competition (judging by the numbers we sell). This car actually has high-grade bearings and parts—the gears and shafts are as strong and well made as those on cars of twice the size. There are reasons why this car does stand up when most runabouts are in the repair shop.

"IT-IS-A-GREAT-CAR!"

THAT'S THE VERDICT, AND THE CAR IS

THE RAMBLER.

The Rambler is long, is built low, and is roomy. It is long, with front axle set forward, and straight line torpedo body. It is roomy with tonneau seat four feet wide—31 inches of leg room, enough for the tallest man; 27 inches from front seat to dash, and wide elbow room at the wheel. The Rambler is silent, long, and lean, with swift, moving lines. It has grace, beauty of contour, and suggests speed, in addition to having it.

SNAP! GINGER! POWER!

It is exhilarating to drive a Rambler. It runs like a spirited horse. You touch the throttle, and it's away. In the traffic of George-street it will creep along at 4 miles an hour; on the open road it will do 50 easily. It starts quickly and stops quickly. The braking surface is 400 square inches. It will climb any hill, and will pass nearly any other car on the road in the process.

It is safe to say that anyone can travel 200 miles in a Rambler without feeling the least fatigue. This is a tribute to its smoothness. When experts study the Rambler they are surprised at the price. Well, the Rambler people experienced that with their bicycles, when first they were put on the market.

Will you kindly call or write, when we shall have pleasure in demonstrating the superiority of the Rambler Car.

BICYCLES AND MOTOR CARS.

DAIMLERS— HILL-CLIMBERS PAR EXCELLENCE.

In the Austrian Alpine Contest, the Press Car was a 28-h.p. DAIMLER (one of the Dalgety Agencies), and the Special Correspondent writes, in the AUTOCAR, as follows:—

"We had to cross the two steepest passes in the Alps, viz., Tauern and Katschberg. The Tauern is nearly 9000 feet high, and the Katschberg well over 3000ft; but it was the gradients rather than the altitude that we found to be the major obstacles.

"Our 28-h.p. DAIMLER made light of its task, and ascended with ease, but chiefly on the bottom speed, which of itself indicates the severity of the ascent. Some 20 miles from the start we struck the Loibl Pass. The height is well under 5000 feet, but as an ascent it is as stiff a proposition as could be conceived in the first place, the gradients themselves are probably from one to five to one in six. My fellow-passengers, indeed, averred that the rise was worse than that of the Katschberg. In the second place, hairpin bends were numerous, and all extremely rough; whilst, in the third, the road abounded in humps and gullies. The climb was extended over 5½ kilometres, and of this distance the major portion was appallingly steep. After our experience on Tauern and the Katschberg, however, we had no fears whatever for our SILENT KNIGHT DAIMLER."

THE ADVANTAGES OF A LARGE COLLEGE.
The Special Advantages of STOTT AND HOARE'S
BUSINESS COLLEGE
over smaller and poorly equipped institutions should not be overlooked by those who contemplate securing a business education. These may be briefly stated as follows:—
FIRST. The number of Students in attendance at STOTT and HOARE'S BUSINESS COLLEGE makes it necessary to have the services of a number of instructors for each subject taught, all of whom are specialists.
SECOND. STOTT and HOARE'S BUSINESS COLLEGE is able to secure the assistance of the most practical and efficient teachers in each subject of its curriculum. A smaller school cannot afford to do this.
THIRD. The large attendance at STOTT and HOARE'S BUSINESS COLLEGE stimulates a spirit of emulation amongst the pupils.
FOURTH. The simple fact that STOTT and HOARE'S BUSINESS COLLEGE is such a large and flourishing institution shows that it is recognised as being better than other similar institutions.
FIFTH. STOTT and HOARE'S BUSINESS COLLEGE wields a far wider influence than a small college, and is thus enabled to ensure the future welfare of its students.
WHEN TO ENROL.
You may enrol at any time, but the best time is NOW.

RESULTS IN BEAUTY CULT.

Be happy, and it's easy to be good, say some. But be beautiful, and it's easy to be happy, say the more profound. If your complexion is not right, you are far from happy. Only those who have struggled to attain even a mediocre complexion can appreciate this truth. The woman with social, domestic, or professional duties crowding every hour of her life has little time for experiments. She wants RESULTS, and here Mme. Helena Rubinstein, a master in the science, steps in and gives just the final touch needed. The open sesame this gifted Viennese Complexion Specialiste invokes is VALAZE.

Valaze stands for freedom from wrinkles, blotches, muddy appearance, freckles, and sallowness, and you cannot substitute Valaze, except by Valaze, and rest assured, when you get hold of this preparation you get hold of the only scientific specific which clears away the film that unnaturally blurs your complexion and unfolds and holds captive the perfect lustre of youth. Price 3/6 and 6/6, Postage 6d.

Novena Hair Destroyer instantly removes the hairs without the slightest detriment to the complexion. After application Novena Hair Destroyer leaves a delightfully cool sensation, which is so different to the usual effect of other depilatories, 5/6, and 1d postage. Novena Pasta applied after the Hair Destroyer has been removed, whitens the skin, overcomes greasiness and blotches. It is also delightful for evening use on the neck, shoulders and arms. It imparts a beautiful whiteness which remains on for hours, 2/ and 3/6, postage 4d.

Novena Sunproof and Windproof Creme shields the complexion, preventing not only tan and sunburn, but also injury by wind and cold. Price 2/ and 3/6, postage 4d. Valaze Lip Lustre, for chapped, wind-bitten, blanched lips, protects the delicate membrane of the lips from cracks and sores and imparts a natural colouring, which cannot be displaced by either biting or wetting, 2/ and 3/, postage 3d.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS

DESTROYED BY

DANNEBROG.

A BLESSING TO WOMANKIND.

MADAME FROKJAR, of 105 Pitt-street, Sydney, is known as a benefactor to womankind. Why? The answer is simple and lies in the word DANNEBROG, a word famous throughout the Commonwealth as an incomparable remedy for Superfluous Hairs. Madame FROKJAR was once a popular masseuse, known even at FEDERAL GOVERNMENT HOUSE, Melbourne. Her pity for women suffering from Superfluous Hairs led her to practise with DANNEBROG, which she had brought with her from Northern Europe. Dannebrog is a delicate, highly sensitive, remedy, as genuine as truth itself, and as pure as morning dew. Its effect on hair is remarkable, as hundreds of grateful clients freely testify. They refer to Dannebrog as a blessing to womankind. Only one fee, and success shown before payment. Country clients treated by post. Consultations and pamphlets free.

Dannebrog Institutes: 105 Pitt-street, Sydney. Melbourne, 165 Collins-street. Adelaide, 38 King William-street. Perth: Shenton's-buildings, Hay-street. Ballarat, National Mutual-building. Bendigo, A.N.A. Hall. Geelong, Town and Country Club.

Combined with such excellence of fit, colour, and size, my Teeth have the further recommendation of low price. MY £2 2s SETS ARE EQUAL IN EVERY WAY TO OTHER £3 3s SETS. This is not a boast. PROTECT YOUR HAIR.

Modern civilised conditions are directly opposed to the possession or retention of good hair. The heat of heavy headwear and hair pads, the bad effects of heated rooms and artificial light all tend to destroy the natural vigour and health of the hair.

During the bathing season, constant wetting destroys the lustre of the hair. It makes it hard, stiff, and altogether unmanageable. Imperfect drying also has the bad effect of causing the hairs to split and to fall.

JOHN STRANGE WINTER'S HAIR FOOD is a wonderful preventive of baldness. It has succeeded where other preparations have failed. It keeps the hair healthy and soft, restores the original sheen, and is altogether an indispensable toilet requisite.

MAZARA

SKIN AND COMPLEXION.

Spring Blossoms, with their freshness and fragrance, may be compared with woman's latest gift—a beautiful complexion. That velvety smoothness of the skin is retained by users of the ideal MAZARA TOILET PREPARATIONS, foremost of which is the Mazara Skin Food (Creme de Jeunesse). There is beauty in every touch of Mazara. It cures bad complexions. A true emollient, not requiring hard rubbing; absorbed by the skin, leaving it neither sticky, shiny, nor dry. It creates the natural beauty of youthful skin. Price 2/6 and 4/6 per jar.

In conjunction with the Skin Food, it is an advantage to use the MAZARA VELVET LIQUID POWDER. This lotion whitens the skin, and is astringent in its action, closing the pores after they have been cleansed and nourished by the Skin Food. Price, 2/6 and 3/6 per Bottle.

THE MAZARA EAU DE FLORE is an ideal preparation, especially suitable for evening functions. By a single application, requiring not a moment of time, imparts to the face, arms, and shoulders a delicate softness and marble pearliness, with the subtle fragrance of the Lily and the Rose. It is not only harmless, but actually beneficial to the skin. In three shades, Pink and White. Price, 2/6 per Bottle.

The occasional use of the MAZARA EAU DE ROSE (Skin Tonic) will be greatly appreciated by those who at times suffer from local facial Nerves. It is quite a luxury, and when applied to the face has a wonderfully soothing effect. It softens away the wrinkles, and imparts to the skin the tone and freshness of youth. Trial size, Complete creation, Price 2/6 and 4/6 per Bottle.

THE MAZARA CASKET contains four of the principal MAZARA Preparations necessary for carrying out a three months' home course, and "Instructions and Hints on Massage." Price 12/6.

The Mazara Preparations are obtainable from Chemists and Leading Drapery Establishments. Ask for Booklet, "THE KEY TO BEAUTY."
